Hawkins agrees to 5-year, $2.6 million contract extension

By TRAVIS HENDERSON

Boise State coach Mike

Hawkins agreed to a five-year contract extension worth $2.6 million. The agreement begins with the 2009 season and will have an annual total of $525,000. Hawkins, who is in his third year at Boise State, has won 31 games in 49 games, including a 15-5 record in Mountain West Conference play.

Hawkins, who is the selection process, will be part of the Boise State basketball program's new contract. In the five-year contract extension, the program will pay Hawkins a base salary of $2.6 million, plus a bonus for winning games. The contract extension is packed with incentives.

According to the Boise State

Community House, President and CEO Bill Connery Jr., the contract extension is part of the Boise State Community House's overall strategy to attract more fans and increase the Boise State Community House's attendance.

"We are doing this to get more fans and attract more fans to Boise State Community House," Connery said. 17 Iraqi criminals killed in attack on bus

Baghdad - A bus filled with Iraqi criminals went to a stop near the area of the Kurdish town of Halabja, where seven men got out, and then sprayed the victims with automatic pistols. When their bullets ran out, the gang members waited.

After the shooting spree, 17 Iraqis lay dead and another 17 were wounded. The U.S. military said in a statement. The gangsters apparently entered the bus after it stopped at the checkpoint.

The attack was the latest in a series of attacks by criminals and paramilitary groups using lethal weapons.

Schwarzengger a poster child for allowing foreign-born presidents

BY PHIL BOSUSTOW
PHILADELPHIA— President Arnold Schwarzenegger, who was the first of his kind to be born outside the United States, is the job’s highest profile performer. The former Austrian bodybuilder turned movie star, actor, politician, and now governor of California, is one of the few public figures who have been vocal about the need for the United States to adopt a more open immigration policy.

The son of a former Austrian bodybuilder, Schwarzenegger was born in Austria in 1947 and moved to the United States in 1968 to pursue a career in bodybuilding. He became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1983 and served as a member of the California State Senate from 1982 to 1986.

After winning the Mr. Universe title in 1969, Schwarzenegger began his film career and became a household name with roles in such films as the Terminator series. He later turned his attention to politics, running for and winning a seat in the California State Assembly in 1990.

In 2003, Schwarzenegger ran for governor of California and won the election with 51% of the vote. He has been re-elected twice and is currently in his third term as governor.

Schwarzenegger’s platform includes measures to increase immigration and make California more welcoming to immigrants. He has called for the state to create a “path to citizenship” for undocumented immigrants and has supported the use of Proposition 187, which was a controversial measure that aimed to prevent illegal immigrants from accessing public services.

In recent years, Schwarzenegger has spoken out in favor of the DREAM Act, which would allow undocumented immigrants who were brought to the United States as children to stay in the country and pursue higher education. He has also supported the creation of a state-run health insurance program for undocumented immigrants.

Despite his controversial track record, Schwarzenegger has been praised for his efforts to improve the state of California and for his commitment to the environment. He has been a vocal advocate for renewable energy and has supported the creation of a state-run health insurance program for undocumented immigrants.

Schwarzenegger has been criticized for his past comments about women and for his stance on same-sex marriage. However, he has also been praised for his work to reduce climate change and for his commitment to the environment.

In 2018, Schwarzenegger announced his candidacy for the 2020 presidential election. He has been vocal about the need for a more progressive tax system and for the creation of a “green new deal” to combat climate change.

Schwarzenegger’s campaign has been marked by controversy, with allegations of plagiarism and the use of a Latina actress in a photo shoot. He has also been criticized for his lack of experience in national politics.

Despite these challenges, Schwarzenegger has remained a popular figure in California and has been a vocal advocate for the issues that he cares about. He has been praised for his work to improve the state of California and for his commitment to the environment.

Schwarzenegger’s candidacy has been met with mixed reactions, with some seeing him as a viable candidate and others dismissing him as a political neophyte.

In the end, Schwarzenegger’s campaign for the presidency remains a mystery, with many questions remaining about his potential success. However, he has shown a willingness to take on controversial issues and has been a vocal advocate for the issues that he cares about.

Sanity is AWOL in war on drugs

In a recent Arbiter article, called "Enlightenment: The student Conduct Program," a faculty member described delimited plagiar- ism as "a stretch of indefensible evil prose by saying, "It's like taking information from the Internet, it's free and time." Though we do wish to applaud him for his free speech, we do not, in any way, condone his actions. In fact, we support your administration in pursuing such advice as the University Conduct Program.

The University of Idaho takes vigorous stances on plagiarism and other academic dishonesty. Since 2011, 208 students have been found responsible for acts of academic dishonesty and one student is currently on probation for this infraction. The University also suspends its ownership of work submitted by a plagiarist. The student is given a financial penalty in order to help the school maintain some integrity. This is a strange statement considering that the process would be to place the student under "suspense." The purpose of this suspension would be to allow the student to have a second chance at redemption. Upon completion of the probation period, the student would be reinstated with all previous rights and privileges except for the suspended degree.

We are concerned about the students who are directly involved in this case. We believe that they should be given a second chance to redeem themselves. It is possible that the student was not aware of the seriousness of the situation. We hope that he or she will learn from this experience and move on with their life. We support the University's decision to suspend the student and hope that he or she will take advantage of this opportunity to improve their academic performance.

We encourage the students to take advantage of this opportunity to improve their academic performance. We believe that they have the potential to become successful in their pursuits and that they should be given a second chance to demonstrate their capabilities. We support the University's decision to suspend the student and hope that he or she will take advantage of this opportunity to improve their academic performance.

"Dead" and 'week' are both four-letter words

Coincidence? Nope.

BY TARA EUGLE

I wrote last year about the true meaning of "Dead Week." I said it was the second to last week of school, because that's what the students and professors think it is. It turns out I was wrong: Dead Week is a week, and I (and I should actually be on the outside of that particular circle of -ness) are at the mercy of the tides of time.

"Perfuming the Populace of Idaho"

BY ROBERT G. HOLMES

"Closer" focuses on four characters in contemporary London: Dan, Anna, Larry, and Alice. Despite the very different lives they lead, each one of the characters is dealing with various issues in their personal lives: Dan is a successful taxi driver; Anna is a successful lawyer; Larry is a successful photographer; Alice is a successful actress. The movie follows the lives of these characters as they navigate the ups and downs of their personal lives in contemporary London.

The movie is directed byutherland, and stars Clive Owen, Julia Roberts, Jude Law, and Naomi Watts. The film was released in 2004 and received critical acclaim for its portrayal of modern relationships and the complexities of human desire.
