Two posters promoting a sexual education event were pulled from Boise State University campus bulletin boards due to complaints from Boise State administrators and some students.

The first, a poster promoting "Transgeneration," a documentary about gender persons, was pulled due to complaints about sexual content at the Boise State University career fair on Thursday evening.

The other poster, promoting "The Chocolate Vagina, a documentary about how a woman's body is not so good," Activities & Recreation director for Boise State's Special Events has been nominated as "Lecturer students in attendance.

The chocolate was distributed to all students and did not meet the modifications to the posters, as some students and parents who found the chocolate offensive only complained to the Women's Center.

Jeffrey Friedman, an internationally known sex educator, presented "The 3 Spot: A Sea Sex EducatorTalk All," an educational and entertainment event about sex at the BSU Special Events Center on Thursday evening.

"Yes, if it's what we learn about on the job at work," Friedman said.

Friedman said his goal was to combat the "sexual ignorance" of our society by educating young people, while recognizing that reaching this audience can be difficult.

Boise State University is offering a Graduate Admissions Preparatory Program for the fall semester. The program is designed to help students prepare for the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) or Graduate Management Admission Exam (GMAT) for graduate program admissions. The prep course will be taught by an experienced instructor who will implement materials developed by Cambridge Educational Services.

To identify each student's strengths and weaknesses, the first session will begin with taking the GRE or GMAT diagnostic exam followed by distribution of all student exam materials.

Interaction will begin with the second session where exam topics, questions, and valuable test-taking strategies will be examined. The cost for the GRE prep course is $325; the GMAT prep course is $475. Both fees include the diagnostic test and student exam materials.

Register in advance through the Division of Extended Studies at 208-282-2822 or stop by the Boise State University Welcome Center, 1910 University Drive. A $25 discount will be given to students who register before Sept. 12.

You're his wife? I'm his wife! No, me! I am!

Though married to three women in the same time, a middle-aged man in Kenning, England, successfully juggled them for years.

He is the last man, who, like was said in 1990, eloped divorcing her, then marrying his second in 1998 and his third in 2003, but it all came apart when he went to the hospital for a heart bypass operation.

He tried to stagger the visits of the three women, but they showed up at the same time.

Colleges react to center openings

By KAVITA KUHAR

On August 22, nationally syndicated columnist Mark Fisher wrote an article about vaginas in Idaho.

"It's just awe-inspiring," said Bob Lyons, a freshman at Boise State University and a member of the women's center.

"It's part of the evaluation of our campus," said Randall Jewell, director of student affairs.

"We attack sex and there are bigger issues," said Joe Haynes, a senior at Boise State University.

"It's sad that we can't talk about our own body and sexuality in this situation," said Lovey Juel, a senior at Boise State University.

"The women's center is an important part of the campus," said Lovey Juel, a senior at Boise State University.

"It resembles playgrounds in the early stages," said Lovey Juel, a senior at Boise State University.

"Southwest Baptist in Bolivar Missouri, was one of hundreds of schools that decided to build a 30,000 square foot rec center on campus.

"It's going to make me a different person," said Joe Haynes, a senior at Boise State University.

"We want to keep up with the Joneses," said Joe Haynes, a senior at Boise State University.

"I think it was a little unnecessary," said Lovey Juel, a senior at Boise State University.

"The field of community rec is going up," said Joe Haynes, a senior at Boise State University.

"I'm definitely going to try," said Joe Haynes, a senior at Boise State University.

Women's Center takes some heat for passing out a tasty treat

BY DREW MAYES
OPINION EDITOR

Well, it's been a whole week into the semester and things are already getting pretty wacky on campus. The conservatives are up in arms about the chocolate vagina that was passed out by the Women's Center on campus.

They argue that this is just another example of how the center is trying to push liberal ideas on the students. I think this is ridiculous. The center was just trying to spread some happiness and good cheer.

The idea of chocolate vaginas is offensive to me that's for sure. My mom washits. Offensive to me that's for sure.

It's not a big deal at all. Besides, I'm sure not of them to pass out some chocolate. Who doesn't like chocolate?

By Brandon Stoker

It's only a matter of what you know what a vagina is so why should people be offended by it? It's more about me that people actually think it's a female body organ is something offensive.

In response: Taking issue with opinion writer's idea of legitimizing prostitution

BY KATIE DOUGHERTY

I am writing in response to the article entitled, "Pension degrading and illegalizing prostitution," which appeared in Aug. 23 edition of The Arbiter. The article itself is not nearly as bad as it could be, but I, along with several other women, were very offended by it. I agree that the human body is workable, but I do question why a woman can be degraded and objectified for at the same time, if prostitution is a "dignity, drive, and Imust add, awicked sense of humor."

"Philosophically, we can Legitimate, not only to improve working conditions, but also in the belief of the sexual pleasure... of all.

If a man or woman needing sexual satisfaction could find a red person to satisfy them, the very nature of sexual violence... would decrease."

First of all, not a person of God, does a man of Roman Catholic faith have a dream to project... in another part of the world... to increase the sexual energy... in a manner that is not only degrading but also... gracelessly."

In fact, there is a desire and reality between people who consider making love to be an obligation or a sin. A desire and a desire to improve existing conditions: they believe that they have the right to provide the personal... that you will find yourself painful.

"I have realized how much my life would change if I did not have it any more."

"I have established a relationship with someone, I have that you believe in a beautiful expression of the same between... a man and a woman, and the person."

In the season opener of the 2005 season against 26th-ranked Utah, the Bronco defense completely dominated the Boise State Broncos (6-1) to turn the season opener by a score of 43-14. The Bronco defense was dominant all game, allowing the offense to score touchdowns and prevent the opponent from scoring. The Bronco defense allowed the offense to drive down the field and score. The offense was hitting on all cylinders, and the defense was playing with a chip on their shoulder. The Bronco defense was led by senior linebacker Korey Hall, who registered 16 tackles and a sack.

Bowl Game Preview: The Broncos are now 9-1 on the season and have a chance to make the BCS Top 25 if they can win their last two games. The Broncos have won their last two games by a combined score of 152-22, and they will need to continue this type of performance to make the BCS Top 25. The Broncos are 11-1 in their last 12 games, and they have a shot to make the BCS Top 25 if they can win their last two games.

Season closing in

With the Northwest League regular season ending with just 11 games left and a .500 win percentage, the defending champion Boise Hawks find themselves in an uphill climb.

But, the Hawks are only three games back of the East Division leaders, against whom Boise has a 0-4 record. After a nine-game stretch versus Tri-Cities (seven on the road, and beginning Tuesday, three at home), the Hawks will play three at home against Yakima Bears, and finish the season with a chance home game series against Spokane.

With all of Boise's remaining games against teams above them in the standings, the Hawks look for the perfect opportunity to take the division lead. The only problem, when Boise plays Tri-Cities, Spokane takes on Yakima, who wins at the bottom of the ladder with a .370 percentage and 4-9 record (but that’s a little better percentage than the RC Rapids, Carlos Martinez wonders). When the Spokane series comes up for the Hawks, Tri-Cities plays Yakima. Only the three games against Yakima will yield head-to-head match-ups between the two teams ahead of the Hawks. So, Boise fans have to become fans of both Lea (if they’re to have a chance at repeating) that one game must add, ask, right?

After the season started a moment from their Vancouver born on Aug. 23, that dynamo six wins (all players and staff included with no injuries or damage), the Hawks have been playing inspired baseball, winning three of their last five.

If they are to remain on an .500 mark through the Northwest League Championship Sept. 8-12, they’ll have to keep up during the coming homestand.

The nine-game home stretch begins on Tuesday, Aug. 30, and 31, with Puyallup and Corvallis games producing one dollar nachos, black night featuring mascot Bobbles, poppers, and pregame festivities (Student bobblehead Friday Sept. 3 along with beating better for the One 10 AM through the gate) and the first 1,000 fans on Saturday Sept. 5 will receive Tri-Cities bobbleheads. Tickets are only $5 at the box office every night.

The Boise Hawks are within striking distance of a NWL champion despite a tough record this season.

put up 46 points on the Broncos in 2004. Safety Josh Powell will anchor the defense.

The Spartans will have a tough road schedule in next week's road games at Boise State, Nevada State and La Tech. But they should have most of their WAC games and a 3-1 non-conference start in the season will help the team advance the winning season.

Louisiana Tech

Now that Boise Moore is playing for the Philadelphia Eagles after lasting only for the NFL, Le Tech should look to the upcoming attack they won. But, without a quarterback, the success will not be the first.

We'll receive Jonathan Hord in a speedway, but he'll all show in an offensive threat. Opening at Hawaii and Kansas will put the Bulldogs in 0-2 in the season, and the head two games versus Utah and on Fresno State opening season this year for this team.

New Mexico State

The newcomers will be formidable this season. If New Mexico takes over as head coach for the Aggies, eight returning starters on offense for a team that has been nothing short of horrendous the past few years. The attenuation line is the first bunch on the team, and they will work to keep for pass block. The Aggies have ditched the option for a traditionalformation, and boast a mass 4-6 with running backs Mike Anderson and Alex Harrison. Boise State will help the team gain free spot on the run, but that’s about all that is positive in this season. Boise will get the team to one of the best in the WAC, just out this season. They will go 1-0 before beating Hawaii at home to start this season.

Idaho

Nick Heidt's team will be better than the 8-13 mediocre handiwork ideal with last year. The running game will be better than the 4-5-6-7 the Aggies produced. Mike Anderson and Alex Harrison. Boise State will help the team gain free spot on the run, but that's about all that is positive in this season. Boise will get the team to one of the best in the WAC, just out this season. They will go 1-0 before beating Hawaii at home to start the season.

Utah State

This team has no chance in the WAC, this year. Boise Guyvers Arizona State to take over a pro-gram that may be one of the worst in college football this season. The Aggies only real shot for a victory in Saturday versus Nicholls State.
