Tuesday's rally packed the Quad with hundreds of community members, faculty members and students (including Michael Mitchell, left, and Connor Swink, right) who were out to show their support. It's a good start, but one rally is not going to do it. It will take dedication to make this violence go away.

Shiite ministers resign from Lebanese Cabinet

The property of renewed ethnic cleansing over Lebanon as the United Nations Security Council passed a resolution to establish a tribunal to investigate those responsible for the death of former Prime Minister Rafiq Hariri. The council approved the draft, which was submitted by the Shiite-led government in Lebanon, to pave the way for the majority to accept the resignations, leaving the government, plunging the country into a civil strife at a time when it is still struggling to recover from the ruin inflicted during the summer war. The Lebanese Cabinet was due to meet Monday to approve the draft.

Being distributed in Europe and the U.S., MetaGeek’s goal is to expand its product line and kind of become the head of the company (also referred to as the "Chief Geek"). Woodings founded his company, MetaGeek, in 2003 as a software and computer chip company doing wireless mice and keyboards and I.T. services, while working for the Entrepreneurial Center and is the CEO of the company. Woodings said, "Like mapping out your product versus your competitor’s product, along with the services and pricing.” Although Woodings said he might have made it without the TECenter, the process would have been more difficult, riskier and time consuming.

"We want to help the entrepreneurs reduce their risks associated with developing their venture and help them maintain their progress by increasing profitability," said the TECenter’s John Gough and Reischl said that in the past two weeks they have been looking at taking a fresh look at student businesses.

"Some of our students have now become entrepreneurs at the TECenter by starting their own business," Porkorney said. "So, they have a measure and they kind of already understand the way that we work and the services we provide.

Pecking at a statement made by James LeDuc, Ph.D., on the Department of Health and Human Services website, it is likely that the H5N1, it may be a totally new form of bird flu that will spread. The bird flu is an "equal opportunity flu" that will affect all healthy individuals. It doesn’t pick on the age, race or gender of its victims. It can attack the top of the level as well. It does not discriminate in terms of social status — it would target, predictably, from what we have known, the young and healthy." Reischl said.

Gough and Woodings said that in order to become a business one needs to look at the company’s strengths, weaknesses, and customers. They said that if one is looking at the equations then the business should have no longer function connect to the other component they plan to focus on in their businesses to work together. They plan on doing this with a system of parts "where we are much less signals so people can see the network and shows the wireless mice and keyboards and I.T. services are available.

The first step in the planning process is being critical. Washington, D.C., will not be able to determine what a good plan is for individual companies because each company is different. "We are looking for a financing strategy and a marketing strategy. We are looking at a supply type of an organization," Woodings said. John Gough explained that a company must be able to work with the government in case of a disaster such as a fire or earthquake. He said that the projects of the students will be finished because sometimes communities may potentially be affected and unable to help. This is why we call the TECenter the "very unique" Gough.

The comprehensive, highly collaborative preparedness planning now underway is critical to minimize the impact of such events," LeDuc said.

Michael Aaron, a Secondary Education/Behavior major, agrees that the TECenter’s services and preparedness plans are useful, although "with 48 hours and being a disaster plan is helpful, getting into an organized process with a disaster plan to have light attached to it. With the world we live in, it is harder to light that off. We need to have a very organized plan," Aaron said.

The people infected by the H5N1 virus from direct or indirect contact with the H5N1-contaminated animals, have resulted from direct or indirect contact with poultry or H5N1-contaminated animals. Thus far, these cases have occurred in previously healthy people, and have resulted from direct or indirect contact with people with poultry or H5N1-contaminated animals," the Times reported on their website.

THE ONLY WAY TO ENSURE THAT YOUR GOLDEN YEARS ARE NOT SPENT IN A GERIATRIC SHOP IS TO BEGIN PLANNING NOW.

BY BRANDON STOKER

If you were offered an investment opportunity that would provide a 1% return on your investment, how long would it take you to become interested? If it takes you more than 100 years to earn a 1% return, then the best time to invest is now.

The pension financial consoles of our parents, teachers, and doctors - they hardly need to be reminded. The rest of us...well, we're the heroes now.

Consider, most students pay up to $1000 per month in expenses. Simply put, college years are a saving time when the time for money is best to be spent. As you graduate, acquiring more money becomes a burden and doing things the smart way is a must. There is absolutely a time to be young and do things the easy way. The sooner you become aware of this, the better.

For me, the best way to save money is to have a great job, a 401k, and an IRA.

IF YOU REACH RETIREMENT WITHOUT $500,000 IN YOUR IRA, YOU WILL NOT BE ABLE TO SAY GOODBYE TO WORK.

When you are young, there are plenty of expenses to keep you busy. While working, you must take care of your vehicles, insurance, and medical expenses. When you are retired, the focus is on enjoying yourself and being able to travel around the world.

The best way to ensure that your golden years are not spent in a geriatric shop is to begin planning now.

Opinions are the blind alleys of lazy or stupid people

By Shannon Morgan, Staff Writer

Some people confuse what we write in this section with what real journalists write. I'm not a journalist, but I am a student who writes for this section. I write about issues that are important to me, and I hope that others will find them as well.

I believe that our opinions section is where we can have open and honest discussions about the world around us. We can share our thoughts and perspectives and learn from each other.

The opinions section is a place where we can have real conversations about the issues that affect us. We can share our perspectives and learn from each other. We can have honest discussions and work together to find solutions.

So, let's continue to have open and honest conversations about the world around us. Let's continue to learn from each other and work together to make a better world.
Ah, the French. Ask almost any American about France, the French, and the country and the people who reside in it and you'll probably get an abundant ear-full of their dissatisfied, sanctimonious, snail-eating, poodle-loving. Metaphorically, I guess. And be careful how you say it, sir, because this particular nugget of information can make you leap from your seat with delight and straight to the maitre d'.

You made a reservation at one of the largest zirconia earrings I've, to this day, seen. I was dressed in a pale-blue evening gown (one high school blonde hair on top of my head in a bun) and I'd piled my formal too many) and I'd piled my own. I met his stare. Almost on cue, he blinked twice at her enormous faux zircon-wearing family. "I'm sorry, madam, but no reservation," he said, almost sounding like a boy awaiting the order to fire his gun. "This place is locked up for the night and you can't even be inside that restaurant, one needs a reservation literally months in advance."

"But there was a sign out front that said 'Open'," I challenged. He looked up at my gorgeous family, and then at me. It was more impressive - his expert use of color and form to create a piece that makes you feel better."

Boise State University running back Ian Johnson is among the nation in scoring with 21 touchdowns, leading rusher with 1,466 yards, and is fourth in all-purpose yards (2,173). The junior was hospitalized after the game, however, Johnson was taken to St. John’s Health Center in Santa Clarita, Calif., where he is being treated for a partially torn gluteus maximus. Earlier in the week Bronco Head Coach Chris Petersen hadn’t ruled out Johnson’s return for the game, however, it is becoming less likely now. Johnson was injured during the final play of the Bronco’s 23-20 win over San Jose State. Petersen said, “Ian’s an extreme tough guy. It gives you great hope that he’ll be back in a short time.”

- Coach Petersen, Boise State Head Football Coach

The Boise State coaching staff has been calling Ian Johnson the key to Boise State’s offensive success this season. It is not just because he has been Boise State’s most effective offensive play, but also because he has been Boise State’s most consistent player. He is averaging 6.6 yards per carry, which is the second highest in the nation, and has 20 touchdowns on the season.

Johnson rushed for 149 yards on 29 carries against San Jose State. It was his highest rushing total of the season and his first 100-yard rushing game since the Hawaii game earlier in the year.

Johnson's return for the game would be a huge boost for Boise State, especially against Utah State. The Aggies have one of the best offensives in the country and are currently ranked No. 23 in the AP Poll. They are led by quarterback Nick Fairchild, who has thrown for 1,932 yards and 15 touchdowns. Utah State also has a strong rushing attack led by running back Alex Smith, who has rushed for 1,056 yards and 13 touchdowns.

Boise State needs to contain Utah State’s offense if they want to have a chance at winning the game. They will have to stop Fairchild from throwing the ball and Smith from running the ball. The Broncos’ defense has been solid this season, but they will need to step up and play their best game if they want to win.

The game will be held at Bronco Stadium and is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, November 15. The winner will have a big advantage going into the conference championship game against San Diego State.

Boise State University head coach Chris Petersen is hoping that his team can continue their strong play against Utah State. Petersen said, “We need to play our best game against Utah State. They have a strong offense and we need to stop them from scoring.”
