Five Boise State Health Sciences faculty honored

BY SONIA TREVIZO
News Writer

Every year the College of Health Sciences recognizes outstanding teaching, research and service. At the annual scholarship ceremony on April 21, Boise State honored five faculty and staff members.

Bonnie Lind, associate research professor and director of research at the Idaho Nursing Workforce Center received the Excellence in Faculty Research Award. Lind is the former assistant director of Boise State's Center for Health Policy and has extensive experience in research. She also has an emphasis in health services and educational research.

"I want to be remembered as being someone who is a good resource to other faculty, that they can come to for help on their research," Lind said.

The Excellence in Faculty Teaching Award went to Linda Osgood. Osgood is an assistant professor in the IDH Department of Community and Environmental Health. In May 2006, she received the Distinguished Member Award from the Idaho State Health Information Management Association. She also served as interim director of Boise State's Center for Health Policy and has extensive experience in research. She also has an emphasis in health services and educational research.

"I want to be remembered as being someone who is a good resource to other faculty, that they can come to for help on their research," Osgood said.

The Excellence in Staff Service Award went to Linda Crichton. Crichton has been an employee of Boise State since 1987. She is an active participant in several community projects. Her policy courses are known for their advocacy skill development. Besides pursuing research interests in community health, public health, home health and childhood immunizations, she is also an active participant in numerous local and state boards and task forces.

The Dean's Award for Professional Excellence in Staff Service was given to Pat Taylor. Taylor is the associate chair for Student Affairs and professor in the Department of Nursing. Taylor has been at BSU since 1995 and teaches critical care, pathophysiology and medical/surgical nursing. She is nationally certified as a critical care nurse. She is also one of two people in Idaho trained to teach the basic parish nursing preparation course.

"I think it's really important to be involved," Osgood said. "I think it's important to take your knowledge and skill to help others who are struggling with problems, and that's what it's all about, touching lives."

"I've been teaching for 32 years; I've taught a lot of nurses in the valley," Taylor said. "I feel like I've reached a lot of lives, helped a lot of students become good nurses. That's what it's all about, touching lives."
In chaotic Colombia, a dance of hope

Viridiana Calvo stopped gracefully to the ground, her body melting and turning, as she performed with a dance that has barely hit more than 30 people in this country. "I've danced to the rhythms of the modern dance," she says about the feeling that she gets from Cha Cha. "The Calvina dance is not only for me, but it's also for the people who love it."

The Calvina dance is one of the most popular forms of dance in Colombia. It is a lively dance that originated in the Caribbean and has become popular in many parts of the world. Calvo, who is a 21-year-old dancer, has been performing the dance for over a decade.

Capitol Hill Softball coach faces sex charge

COMPILED BY Arltter Staff

A high school softball coach faces a charge of lewd battery, a felony, after his daughter, 17, accused him of inappropriate contact.

Patterson, 22, an assistant softball coach at Central High School in Boise, was arrested Saturday after allegedly engaged in inappropriate contact with a 36-year-old woman.

Ada County Sheriff's Office spokesman Rick Wright said that around 1 a.m. Saturday, a sheriff's deputy spotted a vehicle parked at the Eagle Star Park off of Star Road. The deputy went to investigate and found a woman leaning against the trunk of a vehicle.

The other person was Patterson, and the other was the 16-year-old girl, whom Deseret News described as a "woman," who was a woman of 36 years. The deputy determined that "inappropriate contact of a sexual nature" took place, and Patterson was arrested.

According to the charging documents, Patterson was charged with an 11-count sexual abuse citation that included an enticement of a minor.

Bond was set at $50,000 during his preliminary hearing scheduled Thursday morning. He did post bail.

The arrest means that no further consideration and no trial date has been set.

Bush vetoes war spending bill

BY WILLIAM DOUGLAS AND MARGARET TALEV

President Bush will meet with the Democratic leaders of Congress at the White House on Tuesday to discuss what to do about Iraq after Bush vetoed the Democratic war-funding bill on Monday because of its timeline for withdrawing U.S. troops from Iraq.

A bipartisan consensus appeared to be growing on Capitol Hill that any new bill to support U.S. troops in Iraq must contain benchmarks. Democrats and Republicans are open to cutting off funding to any benchmarks.

President Bush will meet with Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., faced the TV cameras and said he and other House GOP leaders are as frustrated as Democrats over a showdown rather than serious closed-door talks.

In Iraq, withdrawing U.S. forces from Iraq could be negotiable.

"The president wants a blank check, the Congress is not going to give him that," Pelosi said.

While Bush has insisted that he'll accept no withdrawal timetable, White House aides have signaled that some performance benchmarks for Iraq could be negotiable.

As the legislation brokered Tuesday in a bipartisan vote, several Republicans expressed frustration that Bush and the Democratic leadership had insisted on a showdown rather than serious closed-door talks.

"There are a number of Republicans who do think that some kind of benchmarks, properly crafted, would actually be helpful," said Sen. John Breaux, D-La., who's staked his legacy on Iraq. Both sides are trying to rally public opinion behind their stands. Pelosi and Reid are as frustrated as Democrats over a showdown rather than serious closed-door talks.

"I don't want to get into a negotiation with myself," said Reid, when asked about his talks with McConnell Tuesday afternoon.

"I think it's premature to declare unilaterally that we accomplished the illegal war," he said. "I think we have open-ended latitude in how to conduct the war, and I don't think that's simply an option at this point," said Sen. Olympia Snowe, R-Maine. "My advice is to work on an..."

With the average gamer now more than three times as old as the average country music fan, the videogame industry has found a new, mature audience to replace the generation that grew up on Super Mario, Mario Kart and other classic titles.

New legislation could turn Californians and MySpace, the net- work's largest state and the popular Internet portal, in an innovative criminological way to fight sex offenders who prey on teenagers.

The proposal calls for California to match an unprecedented effort to detect and report their home addresses to police agencies. The new measure would take effect in July 2010.

Some registered sex offenders whose identities are excluded from the Megan's Law site for victims sex offender would be vaccinated in the database provided by MySpace and others for screening.

The legislation also raises questions about the public's right to know, particularly on the Internet.

'You can find the kids who are using this functionality. If they don't want to engage in sexual conversation online, we're not going to tell them that because they're using it. But if they do, we're going to go after them,' said the Assemblyman. 'If I have a 10-year-old girl who is a sexual predator, I have the same obligations as if I have a 25-year-old male who is a sexual predator.'

'Very few people on the Internet are looking for predators,' said the spokesman. 'The vast majority of people on the Internet are looking for friends, for information. We have an obligation to make sure that any information we can find is going to be used for the good of society.'

My recent viewing of "The Painted Veil," a Warner production set in 1920s southern China, brought back memories of China studies I had laid in my youth, it was almost like time travel.

I left the theater with the feeling of a definite connection with the plot. I was further inspired by the movie plot of a definite connection with an earlier encounter with a Naomi Watts (played by Naomi Watts) reminded me of my self busy with afternoon lawn mowing jobs when I added Mr. and Mrs. Townsend to my commute to and from college. When I got to drive from small-town Payette to Boise four days a week through rural countryside and the discomforts of their very claustrophobic interior city, there was a lane and makes room for me, I'm my Subaru broke down, and I thought we were driving wild and reckless. I thought we were driving wild and reckless and I recalled my last and only one a part time contract laborer. Though they were not on speaking terms. His work in this village accompanying him on the journey.

But their reunion is not legally obliged to do as I was only a part time contract laborer.

It's often said that opposites attract—but sometimes attraction is more subtle. It's possible that putting together offbeat tastes, like a pair of jeans with red shoes and a red bag, and you have something completely unique and perfectly matched together.

Three years ago I met a guy who had a great sense of humor. He was easy to talk to and had a flashy, snazzy attitude. There were times when he seemed to be a bit too much, but overall we seemed to click. One day we went for a walk and he suggested we stop for a slice of pizza. I agreed, and we went to the pizzeria. As we waited for our food, we started talking. I learned that he was interested in photography and that he had recently started his own photography business. He showed me some of his work and I was impressed. I asked him if he had any tips for improving my photography skills, and he was more than happy to share them.

The next day we went to the same pizzeria for lunch. As we ate, he started talking about his hobbies and interests. I found him to be very interesting and we discussed a lot of different topics. He was very knowledgeable about photography, technology, and musical theater. We also talked about our goals and aspirations. I was impressed with his passion for life and his commitment to his work. I could see that he was someone special and I was interested in getting to know him better. We exchanged numbers and made plans to hang out again soon.

Over the next few weeks, we spent a lot of time together. We went to concerts, movies, and even took hikes in the mountains. We talked about everything—from politics to music to sports. I was really enjoying the time we were spending together. He was very fun to be around and I found myself looking forward to seeing him each day.

One day, we took a trip to the beach. It was a beautiful day and we spent the afternoon soaking up the sun and swimming in the ocean. We talked about our dreams and aspirations and I could see that he was very ambitious and motivated. I was inspired by his positive attitude and his goals for the future.

As the weeks went by, we became closer and closer. We went to each other's homes and spent time with each other's families. We learned a lot about each other and we started to see each other in a different light. I could feel myself falling in love and I knew that I needed to take things slow and be patient. We spent a lot of time together and I was really happy with the way things were going.

The next big step for us was to decide whether we should move in together. We talked about it for a long time and we finally came to the conclusion that it was the right thing to do. We signed the lease on a new apartment and moved in together. We were both very excited and we knew that we had made the right decision.

Looking back, I'm glad I took the time to get to know this guy before we took things too fast. I think that taking things slow and being patient helped us to build a strong foundation for our relationship. We're both very happy and we know that we have a bright future together.
The problem with the present? All anyone wants to talk about is the future. At least that’s the case with director Sam Raimi and the cast of “Spider-Man 3,” which opens nationwide Friday.

“It’s really funny, but all anyone seems to be interested in is whether there will be a ‘Spider-Man 4’,” says Spider-Man himself, Tobey Maguire, who, on this rainy L.A. day, is dressed in a generic dark suit and white shirt. He seems to be emulating Raimi, who famously goes to work in what look like off-the-rack suits.

“It’s like, when we’re done, or when you’re done being one, you’re finished, you know?”

If the speculation is more intense than it would be, say, about the possibility of the “Blades of Glory” sequel, there are two primary reasons. One, the characters are all now so monstrously successful. Two, they’re at the center of what many believe is the world’s greatest story — the battle between Spider-Man and the Green Goblin.

But no longer is Spider-Man just one of the good guys. He’s now a full-fledged hero, and the world’s eyes are upon him. He’s now the one people are talking about, not just the villain.

Meanwhile, the lovable anti-hero is about to land his first starring role in a bigger-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-ever-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-even-than-
Not only humor gushes from Fountains of Wayne

McClatchy Newspapers

Homer springs eternal in the hearts created by Fountains of Wayne, and the likkle on the pop-rock band'sinnacle now known as "Trolltunga" is no exception.

For example, on the lifter "Planet of Weed," Joel Krusman's bass riff buzzes a celestial vibe reminds one of Buddy Holly and the Crickets. It's not a judgment on a type of person, just a celebration of the power of music to bring people together.

Lucky You

Rock Checker (the band's music manager) plans to release two albums this year, "Trolltunga" and "Our Love to Admire." The former was released in March and features the hit single "Someone Still Loves You."

Spider-Man 3

Peter Parker and his crime-fighting alter ego, Spider-Man, are back on the big screen. The third installment in the franchise, "Spider-Man 3," follows the web-slinging superhero as he battles new villains and tries to balance his double life.

On the indie scene

"The Tag That Makes the Baby" is set in the 1950s, "The Wind That Makes the Waves" follows a 15-year-old girl named due to her mother's death. "The Lost Sailor" is a story about a sailor who goes missing at sea during a storm.

This past season's men's tennis Coach Mark Tichenor found out that his team would get an at-large bid into the NCAA Tournament. This brings what kind of success since the 1994-95 season. Boise State has had a strong regular season and Saturday's tournament all the Broncos could do was sit and wait. The team has played increasingly well through-Saturday this week. "When you get an at large berth into the tournament it's validating everything," Tichenor said. "Getting picked, it's something they'll remember for the rest of their life. They're going to play in the NCAA tournament. They get an at large bid to do it. They'll cherish that for the rest of their life." And that's what Boise State is all about. Coming to Boise State that is all about.

Patton's army marches into NCAA tournament

Boise State men's tennis Head Coach Greg Patton and his nationally-ranked Broncos are about to embark on a journey they've been primed to take all their lives.

Coach Greg Patton and his nationally-ranked Broncos are about to embark on a journey they've been primed to take all their lives.

The Broncos will host No. 13 Texas A&M University - Corpus Christi at Austin, Texas in the NCAA Championship next Friday, May 11, 2007.

"We will not underestimate our team in this tournament," Patton said. "We've come out to play and play hard every match." Patton continued.

This will be the fourth NCAA appearance in the last five seasons for Boise State. The team reached the second round in each appearance. But for Patton things are a little different this time around.

"We are flying high now, and we're excited for the chance," Patton said. "We'll have to beat some teams we've met before, but that's all about and we're excited for the chance. Should the Broncos advance past the Islanders they will likely meet up with No. 5 Navy (15-10)." Patton said.

"We don't play as well as we did last year," Patton added. "But we're ready to play hard." This will be the fourth NCAA appearance for Boise State that is what it's all about.

The Bronco season has played unbelievable. You get different girls stepping up all the time and we're going to the tournament and were going to make it and that's the people who maintain the Appleton Tennis Complex and the academic staff and everyone involved." Tichenor said. "We're going to make the best of this season." The Broncos will have a chance to do that Saturday afternoon.

Natural bodybuilding pumps up the Treasure Valley

BY DREW HAYES
Editor-in-Chief

Football season — four or five months. Baseball season — six months gone. Natural bodybuilding — 12 hours a day.

Some of the most dedicated and disciplined athletes on the Treasure Valley’s competitive scene are the athletes of the Northwest Natural Pro Atlas Bodybuilding/Muscle Championships at Timberline High School.

"Natural bodybuilding is growing nationally every year," National Gym Association Chairman for the State of Idaho Alvin Dutch said. "This is the toughest sport there is because these guys are doing this 12 hours a day, seven days a week. Unlike the bodybuilders you typically see on magazine covers, natural bodybuilders must take steroids — something we don’t do at all. Of course, everybody exercise programs over it — legal stuff to build their bodies. They go on steroids and the drug enhancements look like cancer treatments," Stampa said. Light heavyweight Frank Sutton said.

To compete in any natural bodybuilding show, competitors must pass a physical where they are asked if they use steroids or any illegal growth hormones. A failed test results in immediate removal from the show and an automatic loss for your team from the Natural Gym Association.

Athletes are also subject to random urine analysis tests before the competition.

"It takes sacrifice and dedication to do this sport," Lance Toth, the 2005 and 2006 Pro Atlas champion, said. "If you have family, you sacrifice time with them, you work your work schedule around this — you put everything else in your life on the back burner and just put in time with your friends."

Boise competition Greg Szymanski started the natural bodybuilding process almost two years ago after he ballooned up to 250 pounds. "I think like a lot of people, over the course of time, you put a little weight on, you’re still active and one day you look in the mirror and you’re like, "man I’m fat ... I’ve got to make some life changes," Sozeman said. "Competing in the competition is the completion of a voyage I started more than a year ago.

State of Idaho Dave Christian said. "It takes sacrifice and dedication to qualify for his pro card instead relying on a strict diet and strenuous exercise program over almost two years after the process almost two years ago." "This is the toughest sport there is," Christian said. "You’re going to feel better, last longer and look better with natural bodybuilding."

"The sport has come a long way and it’s just a matter of time before natural bodybuilding becomes mainstream," Greco said.

Greco won the overall competition to qualify for his pro card and Kansas City 5th placed the Szymaniski 5th to win the Pro Atlas.

Boise State student Eddie Keating claimed the novice division crown.

I work for a white water rafting outfit located in Boise and I’ve been white water rafting for 10 years now. I’m the only person I know that has been white water rafting before, in California. I think it’s the only place to be in the States to include outdoor adventuring. Sanne was comprised in his first show Saturday night in the novice division at 120 pounds. On the men’s amateur side athletes can compete in one of six classifications: novice (has not placed in the top three of an open competition or won a novice competition), masters (more than 45 years old), lightweight (less than 170 pounds), middleweight (170-194), lightweight (195-217), light heavyweight (218-240), and heavyweight (more than 240)

In addition to the bodybuilding competition, the women’s side also offers a figure competition with three classic short (up to 5 feet 6 inches), tall (5 feet 5 inches and taller) and masters (more than 35 years old)."
