Basketball coaches hired

Athletic director Gene Bleymaier didn't waste any time finding new coaches to guide Boise State's basketball fortunes as assistants from two programs that went deep into this year's NCAA playoffs were selected by the university as FOCUS went to press.

On March 27, Oregon assistant coach Greg Graham was named the Bronco men's basketball coach, three days after the Ducks lost in the Midwest Regional final to Kansas. Graham, 46, has been Oregon's top assistant for the past five years.

The previous day, Jen Warden, an assistant at Colorado, was named coach of the Bronco women's team after the Buffaloes were defeated by Oklahoma in the NCAA West Regional final in The Pavilion. Warden, 31, served as Colorado's top assistant and recruiting coordinator since 1997.

Warden

Graham replaces Rod Jensen, the Bronco men's head coach for seven years who was removed after the team completed a 13-17 season, its first in the Western Athletic Conference, and home-game attendance fell to a record-low average of 4,323 fans per game.

Jensen guided the Broncos to an overall record of 109-93 during his seven years at the helm. He was with the Boise State basketball program for 19 seasons.

Warden replaces Trisha Stevens, who resigned after the Bronco women finished 10-20 in their first year in the WAC. Stevens' overall record in her six years as head coach was 77-93.
