

ORCID & MANAGING YOUR ONLINE PROFESSIONAL PRESENCE

Albertsons Library can help you create and maintain a professional presence online using one or more of the tools outlined in this tip sheet.

ORCID

ORCID, a nonprofit organization that assigns ORCID iDs, provides a method for authors to assert ownership of their work and distinguish themselves from authors with similar names. Boise State has partnered with ORCID to allow you to connect accounts.

Connect ORCID with the NIH & NSF

Additionally, the NSF and NIH will soon require grant applicants to have an ORCID ID and provide a simple method for adding citations to a SciENcv Biosketch quickly and easily from ORCID profiles. Find instructions on our support page.

SCHOLARWORKS

ScholarWorks, Boise State University's open-access institutional repository, houses research and scholarship produced at Boise State. By adding your work to ScholarWorks, you are providing barrier free access to readers worldwide. Publications and other research outputs (posters, conference proceedings, videos, etc.) added to ScholarWorks provide powerful insights into an author's research impact through download counts and PlumX metrics, and enjoy increased visibility through search engine optimization. To add your work to ScholarWorks, contact us at scholarworks@boisestate.edu.

SELECTEDWORKS

Albertsons Library builds and maintains SelectedWorks pages for Boise State University Faculty. These pages, built in tandem with ScholarWorks, Boise State's institutional repository, provide users worldwide with insight into the powerful research happening at Boise State. Authors with SelectedWorks profile pages are equipped with a powerful set of tools to greater highlight their publications and track impact through download counts and geographic readership information. To see if you are eligible for a SelectedWorks profile & page, contact us at scholarworks@boisestate.edu.
