REUSSER, MARTINDALE, AND LANDERS ELECTED IN EXCITING RACE FOR
V. PRESIDENT, SECRETARY, TREASURER

In Friday's whirlwind finish to the slow-starting Student Body election, Dick Parker won the first place position over Yvonne Rutted by a large majority.

Reuuser edged out Betty Jo Jackson for vice president by a count of 62 to 28, and Loreta Mar­tyn became secretary by a count of 81 to 73 over Jean Bar­

Elder Landers was out over Betty Bushnell by about three to one, to fill the treasurer’s post.

A total of 129 of the approxi­mately 150 qualified voters came to the polls on Thursday and Friday. The ballot box was set up in the main entrance of the Administration building and the following people helped preside over the ballot box: Lyle Hamil­ton, Eileen Morris, Opal Hughes, Edmon Jones and Ruth Brown. Late Little helped Mr. Strachan tabu­lating.

Parker Calls for United Effort

"The election and the ballroom is over, now is the time for action," said President-elect Parker when asked to comment on the results.

"In order to have a working school government we must have your cooperation and your inter­est in school affairs. Help your­self by helping your school!"

Matthews Pledge Faculty Support

Executive Dean Conner Matthews extended the opinion of the faculty in the following mes­sage to those who have voted:

"We have just received word that 75% of the students have voted. Those who have not voted must have to make the student affairs "our business, not body business.

THANKS!

Thank you, students, for the warm reception and kind praise you gave the first issue of The Roundup. It is the aim of the staff to continue on the same high standard that was set up in your first 1944-45 issue.

With your cooperation, and particularly, your contributions, we hope to publish a Roundup for you every other week. The offer of free theatre tickets for good snapshots still stands. Just drop the pictures in the letter drop in the Door of The Roundup room, but please sign them first so that they may be returned. Any other contributions, such as articles, jokes, cartoons, will be appreciated. Don't hesitate, students, and here's to a good college paper that we may all be proud of.

STUDENTS! WAKE UP!

There has been a serious lack of interest in student affairs by the S. B. J. C. STUDENTS! This is YOU!

It was necessary to postpone the election of student body officers because at the deadline date for turning in nominations, only two had been received. Two petitions and four major officers were to be filled.

Believe it or not, students, this is the sort of laxity and general apathy that preceded the downfall of several European nations. Though we are not likely to have our student government overthrown, we must realize that we are now preparing for the school of life, and that now is the time to begin practicing for the serious problems we are going to meet as we leave B. J. C.

Let's show some interest and enthusiasm for student affairs. In the class elections, everyone, go to the polls. The privilege of voting is a basic principle of democracy.

Faculty Comment

Mrs. Harbey asks the students of B. J. C. to refrain from putting any notes on the wall of the building.

She was lieutenant colonel of the R. O. T. C. unit and a two-year letterman in football, as well as an honor student. "My postwar plans are necessarily undefined," he said, "thoughts I do like B. J. C."

Books of Many Kinds To Be Found in Rockwell Collection

Boise Junior college was very fortunate in being endowed with the Rockwell Memorial Library.

There are over fifteen hundred volumes, all well read and thoughtfully chosen by Senator Rockwell. In selection of books the student in mind was not to be used to make that worthwhile was chosen.

There are volumes that may be used as references in many classes, books full of recreational reading, and volumes of general information.

There are American classics and European classics. You will find philosophy, politics, political science, law books, and books on finance.

One set includes a pictorial review of the Civil War, another a history of World War I. There is even a book on Yogi. Of particular interest to American history students are the George Washington Diaries, and "History of the American People," by Woodrow Wilson. Literature students will find a "Library of the World's Best Literature." "The Human Mind" by Karl Menninger, will attract many psychology students.

One set includes "The World's Best Orations." These are but a few of the many treasures to be found in the bookshop that lie within the walls in the library.

B. J. C. Plans Postwar Expansion

With an eye to the future the Boise Junior College Executive Body is already making plans for postwar improvements on the campus. These improvements will take the form of a three-point program which will include the building of dormitories, technical and vocational buildings and landscaping the campus.

Mr. Frederick Hummel is the architect who is now working on the plans for this project. At the same time a survey is underway to determine how great the need will be. The dormitories will probably be located on the west part of the campus between the Administration Building and Capital Boulevard so students will have access to the bus line.

The possible expansion of technical vocational training will very likely be in the field of electronics, radar, aviation, and aeronautical engineering announced Condon Mathews, Executive Dean. These facilities will be set up on the east end of the campus.

To supplement the natural advantages of the campus, the landscaping project will be started early in the spring of next year to the order of the day by Boise and friendly peers.

Peggy's Postwar Project No. One

After the war, of course, we'll have sodies and gobs of plans for bigger and better college life. We think the very first thing that should be built is a bridge from the campus to the park. Not a shabby little bridge.

Coming to and leaving school via the park would be somewhat easier and definitely a more enjoyable walk than the 'round about way of the 7th Street or the McFadden.

And think of what it would add to the campus. A park!

Drama Club Holds First Meeting of Year

Associated Women to Sponsor "Fireseides"

This year a new social program for members of the B. J. C. Student Body is being introduced and will be sponsored by the Associated Women. This program consists of a group of informal gatherings as "Fireseides" and will be held periodically in the Student Union. They will be for the enjoyment and entertainment of the students. Dancing, "just visiting," or cards will be available and there will be a discussion group with a given topic for those who may have a yen to get into a good old-fashioned argument.

Occasionally a "Fireside" will be held for military personnel and officers or enlisted men will be included. On these evenings there will be no planned round table discussion.

The first "Fireside" is to be held Saturday, Oct. 7, for the student Dramatic and Faculty. The topic for discussion will be "Compulsory Military Training After the War." Let's all come, it's for US, so help make it a big thing!

Associated Women Begin School Year With Tea

Thursday, September 21, the Associated Women of B. J. C. began their activities with a tea at the Student Union Building for all Big and Little Sisters and faculty members. Yvonne Rutten was general chairman assisted by a refreshment committee composed of Gerry Hettinger and Glacia Bull. Ronnie Jan Pigg was in charge of the table assisted by Mrs. Mitchell returns in the music department for the past five years. Mrs. Richards states that this year's line-up is the largest she has ever had.

The temporary club held its first meeting September 26. Any students interested in dramatics and the stage. These members will be chosen from students who show interest in dramatics and the stage. No tryouts will be required. The temporary club held its first meeting September 26. Any student interested in dramatics and the stage will be invited to attend.

The projects of the club will be two one-act plays, one three-act play, and the annual language plays. Assemblies, skits and various sketches will be given throughout the year.

The year ahead promises to be one of the most successful drama years at B. J. C.

James B. Chrast axes Students

Mr. James L. Chrastax, faculty advisor of the Student Body executive board, arranged the election and presided in the capacity of referee. "From the standpoint of the number of students who voted compared to the number of stu dents eligible to vote, this is one of the most representative elections we have ever had," commented Mr. Chrastax.

This indicates an interest in returning to school activities and makes the outlook for the year very promising."
