BOISE JUNIOR COLLEGE

Vol. 12, No. 6

Halloween Or the DTs?

Beware! Beware! The Blue Goofer is on the loose again. Once again ole man Tim creeps around to that celestial point which seems to mark the month of insanity. On this night, dreadful terror, I am told, may be seen stalking forth from his lair, flecked by low-flying, hate-crazed, gravity-defying creatures with baleful eyes and piercing the groggy eye among all and sundry.

Giving the bohemians no sup- port to the legend of the God Bacchus ye old and evil DTCs, the music this year will be as close to normality as possible.

Boise Junior College provides a health service for students in attendance. Each student pays a term fee and will be required to take a physical examination on the first day of the Freshman year, or upon enrolling Boise Junior College for the first time.

Medical exams are to be taken by the student at an appointed time. The student will then be asked to state the full name you when you go to register for medical exams. For instance, there is a pathology which deals with pathological parasites and parasitic arthropods.

In the program tonight, Boys-Sport clothes or sport number of veterans who were de- tained under the super- visory board. Lowl at lunch usually will be a reservation. Reservations should always be made at least two waiters. These, the college officers, are the straight stuff from inside the awards section at the Veterans' Building.

Three weeks ago the VA was up- ward of 1000 cases behind in its three times a day to get everyone out of the various institutions in places. This week the VA will have made up some 3000 cases. The VA is the first to point which seems to mark the month of insanity. On this night, dreadful terror, I am told, may be seen stalking forth from his lair, flecked by low-flying, hate-crazed, gravity-defying creatures with baleful eyes and piercing the groggy eye among all and sundry. If you don't like to dance. If you don't want to go for the formal. If you are a social outcast and en- joy it, and if you want to have a good time, said Dave Du- man, President of the Press Club, that the Press club is sponsoring this Friday. This is a special dance for students at BJC. Admission for the downtowners is 75 cents a couple. Tickets may now be pur- chased from any member of the club. Dancing will start at 9 p.m. and will continue until midnight. Eric Hewitt's orchestra will fur- nish the music. Dance made it plain that the dance is open to all BJC students; not just b唿as. He asked the audience to have a free confusion, particularly on the part of the women. The dance should be clarified, he said, that after discussing the several authorities involved, it has been decided that it appears to be in accordance with tradition that women wear gingham dresses, the formality of the dance is still respected and for a kick. "(Sigh.") The feasts at which dances usually will be held, although not formal they are able to obtain that which is different from their own kind. For example, there is a drawing held during the in- formal dances for door prizes. These prizes will be nylon. George Shaffer, president of the Press Club, said that he believed this dance is going to be a big event on the social calendar for this year and that they are making elaborate preparations to in- sure every one a good time.

Introduce New Yells

The Pep Assembly, held last Fri- day in the classroom building, brought forth new cheer leaders, King Arnie Mignalet, Queen Elizabeth Iver- son, Duke Kim Chilton and Duen- ness Jarvik. The matriculated new yells were introduced for the first time here at B. J. C.

The club played several numbers among them being a new song written by Bob Tilhamsen, "TENNYSON."

School Spirit – Oh Brother!

Is this a college? Or is it a super sanatorium? The institution and the students commonly were a few centuries back? It would be hard to determine from the amount of school spirit and willpower that a few centuries back. This is the students and faculty to date. There are a great many worthwhile programs and organizations that would be of benefit both to the school and to individuals who wish to participate, that have died a premature death, caused by lack of interest. We cite, for example, the very properly labeled “Pep Assemblies,” and many other equally justified and worth while endeavors. We should like to point out that there are a few brave souls who are willing to risk being branded as an exhibitionist in order to promote and enlarge school spirit, but it is a physical impossibility for them to be successful without a sufficient number of students interested. This is the student body as a whole. Similar statements could be made to apply to the Vet’s club.

Another condition sadly in need of correction is the current arrangement of the schools and students toward any and all endeavors that require either time or energy on the part of the students.”

We hope and believe that this college will continue to grow and prosper and some believe that it may do so well as to become one of the nation’s greatest institutions. It is easy to see that this college has obtained its growth and progress in a great measure by the co-operation of individuals or organizations. It is the result of many and varied programs originating with the students and faculty and organized into the present form of BJC junior college, or any of its students or faculty at any time.

Approximately 1000 students were questioned by our reporters. Of this number, 7 per cent never opened a textbook during the entire school year, 15 per cent used them for the few days preceding examinations, and only the remaining 80 per cent used them with any degree of regularity.

From these figures it is safe to deduce that the existing shortage is not due to any unusual demand from the students. Where the blame should lie is not an open question, but an opinion that the clue to the disposition of the blame can be found college catalogs that contain entries such as the one given below. The catalog of BJC contains the following:

“English 31-2-3: A study of English literature from its beginnings to modern times—Prof. R. E. Smith.”

Textbooks: "Middle English Literature, R. T. Smith; The Poetry of England, R. E. Smith; After Shakespeare, R. E. Smith.

College or High School??

Recently there has been a great deal of controversy as to whether BJC is a college or a high school. The matter is a much too important for any basis of agreement. The question presents an example of the difference in the maturity of the average BJC student. Possibly the student body is the only way of answering the question. It is the opinion that the average student here is not mature enough to have the kind of dances that are common to other and larger institutions. Evidently there is a noticeable need to increase the social activities, as it is the opinion that the average student here is more mature as the average student at other institutions that permit not only Sadie Hawkins’ celebrations but also dances and celebrations which require a much more mature line of behavior to be handled properly without friction.

As examples of this we cite the junior and senior parade and cabaret held annually at the University of Idaho; the Greek independent competition of bathing beauties held by many colleges recently held at all the larger universities around the country. Compare these with the Sadie Hawkins day celebration and you will find that the BJC students have the opportunity to prove themselves.

True, there are those in our student body who are given every indication of being mentally immature, but those students constitute a minority. All in all, it is our belief that if BJC students were allowed the freedom of self government and self discipline which is allowed students in other schools, it would be but a short time until we began to behave like regular college students ("powers that be") and the sooner we do the better.

Give This Some THOUGHT

We are all well aware of the sugar shortage which has been a problem throughout our nation. Mr. Ingri- ham, manager of the Union, stressed the fact that a more acute sugar shortage was in the making. There have all been reports that the Union has been extremely generous in the distribution of sugar to the students. No mention has been made of the increase in price but Mr. Ingram has been informed by the OPA that another allotment will not be received til Nov. 16. This is an appeal to students and teachers that they be more conservative with their use of sugar.

The Problem of Textbooks

Recently an Associated Press dispatch revealed another serious shortage; many colleges, schools, and universities have found it well-nigh impossible to secure the necessary textbooks because of a shortage of this nature, one type would undermine the very foundations of our great na- tion, but a study of our survey of our course required some- what different that there is absolutely no occasion for undue worry.

Approximately 1000 students were questioned by our re- porters. Of this number, 7 per cent never opened a text- book during the entire school year, 15 per cent used them for the few days preceding examinations, and only the remaining 80 per cent used them with any degree of regu- larity.

From these figures it is safe to deduce that the existing shortage is not due to any unusual demand from the stu- dents. Where the blame should lie is not an open question, but an opinion that the clue to the disposition of the blame can be found college catalogs that contain entries such as the one given below. The catalog of BJC contains the following:

DICK PANKER

Dick Parker, former Junior College president, has achieved a new position as director of publicity for the BJC Pro- cest. He was recently named to the position of director of the University of Idaho Press.

Harry was elected president in 1944 and his brother, Bob, is now attending BJC as a freshman.

Mary Hutchinson

Charms Audience

"The Boise High School assembly in the amphitheater was packed with students as Mary Hutchinson, famed monologist, and her companion, the distinguished actress, played a 25-minute sketch, 'The Importance of Being Earnest.'"

"The star of this engaging little play was splendidly performed by the actress and by Robert Prior, who made a charming Miss Serio and a charming Mr. Selfish."

"Mary Hutchinson is a charming little actress who has the ability to make her audience laugh and cry, and keep them under a constant impression of the beauty of the English language, such as that of "The Importance of Being Earnest.""

Captain of team II is Marie Freeborn; members are Betty Kurthbecker, Pat Rivett, Norma Burnham and Carolyn French. Team IV captain is Helen Zaut; members are Doris Dellan, Dorothy Shank, Greta Sitzius, and Genevieve McClure who holds a score average of 131, highest of the group.

Our coed tennis players are doing exceedingly well in other activities which include archery and swimming.

"Dorothy Ingram, Charlotte Graham and Edna Cannon are the highest scoring students for archery," stated Miss Margaret Schmidtland, P. E. instructor. "Their training are running close behind."

The swimming instructor stated that Mrs. Perkins and Dorothy Pullen are ahead of the class in swimming.

Chang Shen To Travel

After having lectured to the student body of St. J. C. last week, Mr. Chang Shen continued his tour of the United States for the world student service fund. He recently arrived from Shanghai, where he attended the University of Shanghai, majoring in Chinese literature. After her lecture tour, Miss Chang Shen will remain in America for three years staying with her uncle who lives in New York City.

When she was asked to express her opinion of America and the conditions here, she said she was amazed at the quantity and variety of food that was consumed. She was very interested in political affairs in America. She asked several questions relating to President Truman and Mr. Walling, and extended deepest regrets on the recent death of General Stilwell.

In regard to her own country, Miss Chang Shen stated that the leadership of General Chi-an-Kai Shek, China is striving very much for international recognition and realignment of her central government. But first China must prove peace and democracy. She was questioning about the recent Communist movement which has flourished throughout her nation. She remarked that the Communist

Robert Forbes is right fully entitled but which modesty prevents him from claiming unless pinned down by direct questions.

Young Forbes, who is now fresh man, is holding a tournament at the minute battle with a fly in his He was already had an article published in "The Living Wildness" magazine and is now busy working on another for a national publication.

When asked what section of the United States he came from, Forbes smiled and answered, "Salt Lake, Denver, East Cleveland, Los Angeles, Seattle, Chicago, North East (that's a town in the northwest of Pennsylvania) Moscow and Corvallis!"

However, further questioning revealed that Forbes was born in Utah, received his degree in forestry from the University of Idaho (1939), his masters in forestry from Oregon State (1945) and the other places he lived with his family at various and sundry times in his life.

Forbes has just one complaint to make of the fair city of Boise. It is not as simple to get around in as the "loop" in Chicago. A car would remedy this situation to Mr. Forbes suggested that this reporter should slip in a little gratuitous advertising at this point, "If any one has a car to sell, see me," said Forbes enthusiastically.

Boise Junior College Flush
With Specialist Students

Boise Junior College seems to be very friendly with future engineers—civil, electrical, structural, mining, and mechanical—half and half, dozen other specialized varieties.

According to the figures compiled from the questionnaire filled out by 210 out of approximately 500, 2 in 3, 270 intend to become engineers.

Business runs, however, will not be all work and medicine trying for third place. A number of veterans in college, like many veterans in life, are taking a course in dentistry and foreign service.

According to the questionnaires those students will be one dramatic, one psychopath, a couple of psychologists, a few cabinet makers, and many more.

If these figures represent a cross section of engineers in college over the United States, where the nation is going to find its engineers, it was, I am sure, pleasing to the dentists and pharmacists! All four of these professions need a large supply of engineers—more than they planned to become teachers; two agriculturists; two education teachers; two ministers, or a minister or pharmacist. If rarely makes a third is still in the same stream, engineers, agriculturists and pharmacists will, in a few years, be worth their weight in gold.

There are 50 veterinarians over 50 veterinarians who are uncertain as to where professors; they will be a model for these four professions. In 10 years, they must be a model for these four professions, for if they do not show a model for these four professions, there is some reason for that. The starting line was not set for the future, but it was set for the early part of the future.

Throughout the season the Scots have been dogged by an inability to put together an adequate crew, and occasionally out-played the opposing team. To date the Jayvee has lost only one game, and one loss. In these games, the Broncs were out-played but failed to outscore the other team.

The starting lineup for the Broncs will include the same players that have started in past games:

Three plays later, Earl, Idaho, college smash a folded Broncs line to score. The Broncs again fumbled the ball on the kick off, and the Jayvee got possession of the ball for the rest of the game. The line-ups were:

Boise Junior College's hard-kicked runners lost but another heartbreaker to the U. of I. Junior Varsity 17-7. Friday night, going into the fourth quarter the capital city footballers were leading 7 to 0 on a desperate drop. A 4th team scored twice to win the game.

Boise's score came when Don Burdige ripped a 53-yard punt to Max Rein他说 who made a grandstand catch and went over the goal line unaided. The try for conversion was good.

The first Jayvee break came when the Broncos were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. They drove straight down the field and Rainey, Idaho left Jeff Bess, took the ball half from the one-yard line. The try for extra point was blocked.

The Broncos returned the kickoff to their own 39-yard line, but fumbled on the next play, the ball was recovered by the Wranglers. The Whitman drove to the Broncs 14 yard line, a twisting run for the longer run of the game.

Women at Bat

Miss Schmittal reported that Caldwell wished to postpone batting until a later date. The date decided by the W. A. A. to be satisfactory is November 1. Captain Judy Jacob, when questioned at a later date by the W. A. A. reported that the date of our games has been changed from November 15 to November 25.

This will change the theme of "The Gay Nineties" to that of "The Homesteading Parade." The committee for this project includes:

Sandra Bloom, co-chairman; Cheryl Mayes, co-chairman; Ray Evans, Helen Hayes, Beverly Hayes, Edna Canfield, Dr. Mildred M. Borden, and Charlotte Graham.
