"BOOR" TO BE PRESENTED

Bob Tillotson's "The Boor" is presented tonight at the Student Union. This play, a series of dramatic sketches by the Alpha Mu, will be presented to the college audience coming from a road show in Lowell, where it was presented Wednesday night preceding the basketball game.

The scenario unfolds as follows:

Benjamin Franklin Smirnov, a young man who hates the Quaker costume of by-gone years and strolled casually through the streets of Boise, a loaf of bread under one arm and several copies of the Saturday Evening Post under the other. During the course of his wanderings Welton read a copy of the magazines he was carrying and reliable sources say he muttered something about "A penny saved is a penny earned." Typical comments of Boiseans as reported by Graham: "Are you really Ben Franklin? I thought you were George Washington. Legislator: "I'd like to buy that loaf of bread—I've been in the legislature all morning and I'm hungry." Man with a dime: "Here, boy, I'll take one of those magazines."

Graham said he had a good time and met a lot of interesting people including the governor, several outstanding members of the city and representatives of the Curtiss Circulation Co. who handled the affair.

Anyone ever tell you how you are?" "I don't think anyone would like to know about the idea."

is a national inquisition for the purpose of obtaining information and something about it.

Graham Stars As Franklin

In Post Campaign

Last Wednesday the Saturday Evening Post appeared on the news stands around Boise with a story about the city, the twenty-sixth in a series of articles published by Post on U. S. cities. Along with the Post appeared the founder of that organization, Benjamin Franklin, who presented an issue to Governor Robins. All this was a publicity campaign and B.J.C. contributed its share in the festivity.

Welton Graham as the young Ben Franklin donned a Quaker costume of by-gone years and strolled casually through the streets of Boise, a loaf of bread under one arm and several copies of the Saturday Evening Post under the other. During the course of his wanderings Welton read a copy of the magazines he was carrying and reliable sources say he muttered something about "A penny saved is a penny earned."

Typical comments of Boiseans as reported by Graham: "Are you really Ben Franklin? I thought you were George Washington. Legislator: "I'd like to buy that loaf of bread—I've been in the legislature all morning and I'm hungry." Man with a dime: "Here, boy, I'll take one of those magazines."

Graham said he had a good time and met a lot of interesting people including the governor, several outstanding members of the city and representatives of the Curtiss Circulation Co. who handled the affair.

New Regulations Announced

In order to facilitate uniform announcements on the bulletin board Mr. Riddlemoser, assistant Registrar, announced that a new policy has been established.

The right hand side of the West bulletin board will be used exclusively for Administration notices. The left hand side will be reserved for student activity announcements.

The East bulletin board will be used for posters in publicizing various events and functions. These posters must be of uniform size 11 by 14 inches.

Anyone wanting to put notices on the board must submit the information to the office where it will be typed on uniform cards and posted on the desired dates.

Crowd Attends Second Mixer

Last Friday night the tri-annual school mixer was uncorked under the auspices of Mrs. Burke and her social committee. Under the guidance of Mary Zupan as general chairman, the dance featured many novel deviations from the usual pattern.

In spite of adverse weather conditions, a large crowd attended, and were unanimous in their praise of those responsible.

A dance contest was staged by the students with Mr. and Mrs. Jon Triplet, new dance instructors, officiating. Prizes were given for first, second, third and fourth places. Pictures of the contest winners are on page 3.

Triplets Offer Dancing Classes For Beginners

Dancing classes will be held in the Student Union building on Monday evenings beginning January 27. Students enrolling in these classes will learn the latest steps in Foxtrot, Waltz, Swing, Rhumba, Samba and Tango.

Enrollments are accepted now at the Dean of Women's office, or at the Student Union between 7 P. M. and 8 P. M., Monday, January 27.

Entire cost for the 10 weeks' course is $15.00. Veterans who are married may bring their wives at no extra charge.

Instructors for this addition to the B.J.C. curriculum are Jon and Mary Triplet, formerly with Arthur Murray studios of Chicago.

First Girl: "I hit a telephone pole last night!"

"Second Same: "It's a wonder your neck wasn't broken."

First Girl: "Well, it wasn't broken, but it was sadly interrupted."

She: "Who said you could kiss me?"

He: "Everybody."

J. C. Student Exhibits Works At Art Gallery

Throughout the month of January, the art works of Robert Addison, Boise Junior College student, will be on display at the Boise Art Gallery. His pictures will be shown in two wings of the gallery.

Most of Addison's pictures deal with "Americana" or with scenes of the country of which he made sketches while he was in the service. This versatile young painter employs all the mediums of art work, including block print, pen and ink, pencil, water colors, temperas and oils.

Bob is a native son, and graduated from Boise High School with the class of '43. While in the army he worked in an art shop which made posters for the armed services. There he came in contact with quite a few commercial artists who, he claims, helped to turn his thoughts seriously to art as a career.

He is attending B. J. C. as a special student, taking art courses exclusively, while biding his time until his entrance at the Chicago Art Institute next fall.

Bob hopes to become a successful commercial artist although he says the field is rather crowded at the present time. His highest ambition is to become a post cover artist, which supposedly is the pinnacle of achievement for artists.

We urge students to become familiar with regulations on the back of Activity tickets—especially the procedure and dates for withdrawing from classes. Students should also note the rules regarding making up incompletes. These must be removed by Mid-term or the incomplete becomes an F.

It is also a time for Sophomores to check with Mrs. Hershey regarding credits and grade points for graduation. If this is not checked before the spring term it may be too late.

Students who failed to make passing grades in at least 11 credit hours last term are automatically on probation this term and unless they are doing passing work at Mid-term winter quarter, are subject to dismissal.

Our Thinking Public

Once again we seem to be gravating to that final stage of desperation where we hear ourselves asking you for your earnest cooperation in school affairs and ordinances.

The time is nigh for class and club pictures to be taken for the Annual, a process fraught with difficulties even under ideal conditions, and greatly increased under the usual conditions prevailing on the campus.

As the Annual is the only permanent record of the school year, it is desirous of those in charge that a representative faction show up for the scheduled pictures.

Another point in question concerns the meanings of various signs exposed about the campus and its buildings. We are told of one occupying a prominent position in the Student union. Due to the influx of students this term, bringing as it does a shortage of eating space in the union, this sign expresses a desire for studes who have need to play cards to please refrain from doing so during the rush hours.

We weren't informed how long this sign has been hanging in view, but from observation gleaned while jockeying for a place to eat, we do know it hasn't been taken any too seriously. We feel any amount of cooperation at all will do much to reduce the number of people trampled upon trying to get the rest of the available chairs at the noon hour, the customary time for eating.

Horrors of Exams Told by Survivor

By Eugene Cudd

Last week some one hundred and over three hundred other B.J.C. students, assembled in the Auditorium with sharpened pencils and reasonable facsimiles of sharp-fifty apprehensive freshmen, and ended wits, to take the dreaded Psychology and English tests.

We were assured that these tests would not only tell our instructors all about us, (heaven forbid!) but that they would enable us to know ourselves. This statement proved just a bit disconcerting to some of the students, and one man was heard to remark that he thought that he had been shaving himself all these years, and it would be tough to find that it was some other fellow. However, on being assured that he really WAS himself, he was much happier about the whole thing.

After a talk by Dean Mathews, Mr. Eugene Giles, who was in charge of the examinations, gave a general outline of what was expected of us in the tests, and why they were being given. It was pointed out that the results will not be used in grading, but for guidance in the selection of proper courses of study by consideration of the aptitudes shown by the scores made in a variety of subjects.

From the auditorium we went to our assigned rooms, where the tests and the weeping and wailing began. Mr. A. C. Chatburn and Mr. George Bartlett were chairmen of the morning session, which included natural sciences, mathematics and social sciences, and other social sciences, and other members of the faculty acted as monitors for the tests.

As for the first of these, one never realized how much there was to know about the birds and the bees. After the math exam, one poor guy groaned that he had just worked himself back to the eighth grade. Social sciences next, but it is doubtful if many of us felt social after finishing that one. Then time out for lunch.

It was during the lunch period that one heard, in the hall, the library and the Union, all kinds of comment about the tests. The librarian told of one bewildered coed who wandered in seeking the story of the Christian Martyrs. When asked why it was needed, she murmured something about knowing just how they must have felt. At the Union, the customary noise accompanying the bridge and heart games was lacking. In spite of assurances that the results would not show on term grades, there was some apprehension felt. Some of the remarks were about as follows: "Boy, I didn't know I was so dumb!" and, "What does an Osmosis look like? I haven't seen one in years." The soda dispensers at the fountain say the studes were so preoccupied that several even said, "Please," when giving their orders.

But more was to come during the afternoon. With Mrs. Ada Hatch and Mr. Alvin Ritter as chairmen, the psychology and English examinations began at one o'clock. Some of us haven't figured out yet just how a yard-bird named Private Hargrove got into the thing, but we became so interested in his trials and tribulations that we forgot that we were supposed to answer the little questions on the side of the sheet. One ex-G. I. said he got so homesick for dear old Jefferson Barracks that he couldn't think of a one of the answers. One comment on the psych test was, "If I don't know nothing about nothing, I don't see how they are going to find out nothing about me." So far, we haven't been able to figure that one out.

Finally, however, as all things, do, it came to an end, and the weary first termers trooped out to the bus stop. The last comment heard was from one girl who said she was going home to hang herself on the clothes line, because she had already been wrung-through the wringer.

Some of the tests were tough, and some not so bad, but there is the consolation that they really serve a useful purpose for all of us. In commenting on the results, Mr. Giles said that they will be of great value to the Guidance Counsellors in assisting the students in selecting courses for which they show a particular aptitude, or in making changes in courses in which they may encounter trouble. Special emphasis was given to the fact that guidance counsellors are selected for their education and experience in the particular field which the student is planning to enter after college. These faculty advisers, Mr. Giles said, are not in any manner to be considered as 'bossing' or giving orders, but are more in the nature of attorneys for the students in assisting them in every possible way in planning both their college studies and their future careers.

Dean Mathews pointed out other benefits to the students in taking tests such as those given. "More and more," the dean said, "commerce and industry, as well as the government, are using forms and questionnaires of a similar nature in the selection and up-grading of personnel. The person who is familiar with that type of question sheet will be able to give far more concise and intelligible information concerning himself and his abilities." He also called attention to the fact that the experience of the tests at this time will be of value to the students when confronted with exams in the course of their regular studies.

Meet The Faculty

MR. GRIFFITH BRATT

This week we introduce Mr. Bratt of the music department. Mr. Bratt has taken over the duties of Mr. James L. who organized and headed the music department for many years. Mr. Bratt is in charge of the organ and teaches organ and classes. Mr. Bratt has been in organ and Music M. D. at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, Maryland. He did graduate work at Johns Hopkins University. Following that he was choirmaster and organist at the St. Michael's Church in Washington, D. C.

After Mr. Bratt's service in the navy, he decided to get to the rainy east coast where he chose Idaho. Comfortable with his wife and three children, he likes Boise and finds it a nice place. In addition to his work here at the school, he is the civic choros and is the St. Michael's.

Victory Bell Tolls for C. of I.

College of Idaho Coyotes let their victory bell ring long and loud after the game with the Boise Junior College Broncos, topping off this season with the tenth straight victory. Wednesday's game gave them the lead in the Northwest conference, the final score the Wednesday night game was 44-39.

During the first half of the game the Broncos showed some slick ball-handling. They were smooth, in fact, all during the game these boys put up an effective battle, but it just wasn't their day. The Broncos took first scoring honors, jumping into the lead and at intermission the score was 21-13.

The Bell Tolls for Caldwell

It was during the second half that the Coyotes began to chalk up the baskets. They staged the second half that the Coyotes began to chalk up the baskets. They staged a terrific second half with the B.J.C. boys tying twice. This was one of the most impressive game the Broncos have played this season, there was no clowning around. Pritchett takes the spotlight for high point man, but in all the team was really on the beam.

These two teams will meet again this season and this reporter will lay you ten to one the situation will be reversed.

WOMEN AT BAT

Basketball started off the winter program of the Women's Athletic Association las Wednesday. Approximately 30 girls turned out for he first praccice session.

The nucleus of the team will be made up of Ruth Wilson, Marilyn Saxton, Senia Bloomstrand, Dorothy Pinder and Mary Helen Rounds from last year's team. From Boise High comes sharpshooters Bev Mays, Charlotte Graham, Mary Zupan, and Opal Cole. Eagle High contributes the talent of Jean Mosier and Lois Roark, that will complete a roster of names that hopes to turn out a winning team. C. of I. again will be the team's hardest competiion. Other games will be scheduled with Northwest Nazarene and several local town teams.

Variety is what describes the activities offered in the winter's physical education classes. Basketball, tumbling, badminton, modern dancing, bowling and swimming have proven to be popular with both freshman and sophomore girls.

Riders of the seats attend the skiing class. Every Friday at 2:00 about 25 prospective skiers board the bus for Bogus Basin where they are instructed in the intricacies of skiing by Johnny Bushfield, Stan Tomlinson, and Mel Hoagland. Pat Bryant, Alice Vassar, Connie Abarate, Romona Babcock, Pauline Hayakawa, Greta Stunz and Miss Evans, art instructor, are among those enrolled in this course.

JAYVEES TROUNCE Broncos Down N.N.C. IDAHO CREAMERY

Friday evening at the Boise High School Gym the scrappy Jayvees of B.J.C. started sinking buckets from all corners of the floor to down the Creamery Five by a score of 40 to 30. With Call and Holden at forward, Tate at Center, Hillman and Hamilton at guards for the starting lineup, the Jayvees took the lead and were never headed.

Before the game was half over, Coach Jacoby had thrown in every man on his roster.

With still a few minutes left of the first half, Oaks sprained his ankle leaving the game with 4 points to his credit. At halftime, the score was 24 to 9.

Taking over the floor for the second half, Jacoby's boys ran up a respectable score.

The highlight of the evening came when with a few minutes of playing time left, a complete change of the lineup was made. Not thinking he would need any more reserves, the coach sent all those on the bench to the showers. The fun started when Hillman picked up two fouls which added to his three previous, made five fouls which forced him to leave the game. With the Jayvee's on the spot, they played an unorthodox type of defense and held their opponents to six points while picking up two for themselves before the game ended.

Tate and Bujarin were high with 7 points while Hamilton had 6.

SKI CLUB NEWS

Bronco Ski Club members, at their meeting Monday, discussed transportation to Bogus Basin, and the sale of their arm insignias; as well as taking a vote on how many pages they wish to buy in the Les Bois.

Further plans are being formulated for the showing of a ski film entitled "Ski Chase" and others of an interesting nature as part of a ski social to be held in the future. As yet, the plans are unsettled. However, it is tentatively planned to sell an unlimited number of tickets to this social, which will give the holder a chance to sit in on the many valuable prizes offered. It is rumored these prizes will include a pair of $40.00 skis donated by Sibs.

Johnnie Bushfield, president of the newly organized club, says any student interested in skiing or learning how is invited to join.

Revenge tasted sweet to the Boise Junior College Broncos as they downed the Northwest Nazarene College at Nampa, Monday night by a score of 55-49.

Coming in late in the game as substitute for Bob Pritchett, who had been the sparkplug of the Broncos, center Perry Winter made two quick field goals to sew the game up. A close game all the way, the Broncos had a 25-23 lead at the end of the half. The Crusaders came back with a bang and the score was soon tied at 30-all. From then on it was anybody's game with the lead changing hands several times.

Bob Pritchett captured scoring honors with six field goals and four foul tosses for a total of 16 points. Close behind were Cramer and Lee of the Crusaders with 14 and 12 points respectively.

This victory set the season's record at four wins and three losses for the Broncos.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

Next Monday, January 20, Coach Lyle Smith and his Broncos will tour to American Falls and Rexburg for their first real road trip. After beating out the Nazarenes by a slight margin last Monday, Coach Smith is in far better spirits for the outlook of this tour. With his first team shaping up and showing fine teamwork, and his reserves capably answering his call in the pinches, he feels confident in a fine showing from his boys.

About the only worry is the difference in gymnasiums and Rick's reputation of being tough to beat on their own floor. The long narrow floor of Rexburg's gym will be a deciding factor in these games and the rabid support that teams
