TEACHERS RETIREMENT PLAN: TOO COSTLY FOR IDAHO?

The all important issue of whether or not to uphold the teachers' retirement plan is now in hot debate among the Idaho legislators.

The situation is something like this: Teachers in the State of Idaho have been contributing a certain percentage of their monthly salary to the retirement plan. The teachers' contributions are supposed to comprise half of the monthly sum, the other half is obtained from the district, county and the state. In some cases the district and county are unable to meet the specified amount, in which case the state is required to provide the difference. At the present time the state is delinquent some 2 million dollars.

The question now in the minds of the legislators is this: Is the teachers' retirement plan essential enough to warrant the state's payment of this huge sum?

It might be interesting to note here that in the state of Idaho a teacher is not eligible for social security benefits, which makes the present issue all the more important.

If the plan is rejected, Idaho would be the only state in the Union without security benefits for teachers.

K's Convene in Utah; Boise Gets The Vote

The Intercollegiate Knights convention was held at this year at the University of Utah where BJC was elected to be the national home office. The host chapter was the Scalper Chapter. Roy Freeman, Bill Booth, Bill Gottenfeld, Mike Thompson, BJC Club, and Margaret Compton were the delegates from the Golden Plume chapter of BJC.

Registration was held Thursday, February 21, when Dr. Olpin, president, gave welcoming addresses to delegates from 28 chapters throughout seven western states.

That night the assembly again convened and sessions for national officers and offices were held. Keith Omer, from Gold "K" Chapter at BYU, was elected Royal Duke for the coming year. Bill Wayne Bills, former Golden Plume member, was elected Royal Duke.

B-Cubes, a national social fraternity, was elected to be the Roundtable, the I.R. annual. There are 48 housing units located on the campus for married students.
This is the story of how a rughed sport served to give a youth a real chance to participate, and how that youth took advantage of the chance.

Dean Ingraham was too light for football, too short for basketball, and held little interest in baseball, but he did have a competitive attitude. This spirit, however, was not brought out until this year when Dean found himself being to be the sport he had been looking for all his life.

Although he had gone out for athletics in Boise high school he had always been out from the start. A starting fact was revealed recently when Bob Gilbert, Bronco basketballer, was asked his favorite sport. Instead of listing basketball as top on his list of sports, Gil stated that the hop sport run second to billiards. The former La Grande athletic likes to play pool during the time before a game, but team members tend to stay away from him in his niche because of his skill at billiards. In fact, his pool skills are so good that he is able to make shots that are virtually impossible for the average pool player. At every practice the coach relieves and helps him develop his game.

The Voice of the Bench

The regular season, but when the gun tied about 10 times during the game wasn't enough that the score was 42-42. The five minutes of overtime carried heart failure for an example. The BJCers had wild ball handling. The subs, Ben Ethernet, Crooks and Ingraham. Their first year of boxing.

Dean himself sums up his life with elation, "He has happiness it has brought to this school, and be a friend."
