Meet the Teacher

After a recent return from St. Louis, where the conference of the Division of Audio-Visual Instruction of National Education Association was held, we find Cyril Chasturn back in BJC directing the educational film staff.

"Mr. Chasturn has been in BJC for eight years now and has enjoyed the fine atmosphere that has always been present. Before coming to BJC he worked in the Boise public schools and at state and federal school of public instruction for Idaho. With a bachelor's degree from Idaho and a master's degree from the University of Colorado, Mr. Chasturn has on his work on his doctor's degree except for the dissertation which he wrote at the Washington State college.

While at the W.S.C., having a leave of absence, he was the chairman of the Education Department and director of the summer session.

Born and raised on a large ranch at Alton, Idaho, he has now an office with a low head of stock, one of which is a riding horse. His main hobby is fishing and is in the Washington State college.

And of course, the boy interested in running for a student representative will take the seat at 3 p.m. and at this time the faculty will be present to assist the A.W. students in giving information about the college.

Norma Dike has appointed the following people to function: Mary Gottenberg, in connection with the tea; Ilene Muhlestein, chairman assisted by Sharon White in registration; Terry Walsh, thrift; Don Maypole, chairman of the finance committee and director of the student union, in charge of transportation and invitations.

Ten Ways To Get An "A"

And Lose Your Friends

Looking for the easy way to get an "A"? Here are ten helpful hints for harassed students. Following directions carefully will guarantee your satisfaction or your money back. (Caution: do not use during examinations.

1. Bring the professor newspaper clipping of any news story that does not deal with his subject. He will be greatly impressed with your interest and help you in every way possible.

2. Look smart. Take notes again. Don't stare at it unbelievingly and in awe.

3. Read frequently and memorize "how" the professor feels about your work before you go to class. He is sure to appreciate it. (It's called "studying.""

4. Sit down near in front of him. (Apply only if you intend to stay awake.)

5. Laugh at his jokes. If he stops, tell him he must keep going. (Every joke you must speak in class, the arrangement to be called an "inclass" joke."

6. Ask for outside reading. You must answer yes. If you do not, he will ask you to stop the repetition. If you do not, he will ask you to stop the presumption. If you do not, he will ask you to stop the presumption.

7. Be sure that the book you bring to class is the same as the book the professor uses. The books are available in the library and in the bookstore.

8. Ask to be excused. The professor will be more than happy to excuse you if you ask in a respectful manner. The professor will be more than happy to excuse you if you ask in a respectful manner.

9. Do not be late to class. The professor will be more than happy to excuse you if you ask in a respectful manner. The professor will be more than happy to excuse you if you ask in a respectful manner.

10. Bring your notes to class. The professor will be more than happy to excuse you if you ask in a respectful manner. The professor will be more than happy to excuse you if you ask in a respectful manner.

Student of the Week

Bragging, sports and listing his war are among the many hobbies and talents of Denny Brubaker. Denny sings in the choir here at BJC and in a quartet in his home town of Payette, Idaho.

Mr. Brubaker, a freshman education major, is a member of ETA and spends a part of his time working in the film library. He plans to attend the College of Idaho after his graduation from Boise Junior college.

Question Box

How are you going to spend your spring vacation?

Sharon Brubaker: I am planning to go to California for a visit.

Bob Watson: I may study a bit.

Allene Sible: Fool around town at night and sleep during the day.

Don Maypole: Work!

Ted Palmer: I am going to try and catch up with my studies and go to church.

Mary Louise Ottrell: Try to keep out of trouble.

Rex Pratt: Nothing! I think I'll live at the "TK."

Jerry Keener: Stay home and rest. Also I will try and get over from my trip to Washington.

Charles Riddle: I am going to get up at the rest of the time.

Darlene Young: I am going to have as much fun as little work as possible.

Valkyries Hold Meeting

The regular meeting of the Valkyries was called to order by President Mary Gutenberg.

The roll was called and the minutes were read by Rosalie Harkin, in the absence of Delores Handwerk. Helen Halt was appointed chairman for the day being a member present.

All Senior Girls From Ada County Invited

Norma Dike, newly elected president, on behalf of the A.W. has announced that her organization will undertake the annual task of entertain- ing the sophomore, junior and senior girls of the county on March 19 between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m.

The tea will be held in Morrison hall with registration taking place in the ballroom. As in the past, members of the A.W. will conduct a tour of the campus, showing them the spots of interest and helping them to choose the school of their choice.

The tea will take place at 3 p.m. and at this time the faculty will be present from Boise High school, St. Teresa's academy, Eagle, Kuna and other high schools.

After the tour, the groups will gather at Morrison hall where the tea will take place and at this time the faculty will be present from Ada county high schools.

Suggestions Wanted
We, of the Roundup staff, invite all BJC students, parents, and teachers to send us their suggestions and criticisms, both good and bad, in the form of letters to the editor.

This is your paper and only through your suggestions will we know what you want in it.

Without exception, no unsigned letters will be published.

We shall reserve the right to print only those letters which we feel will be of general interest to the students and administration of Boise Junior College.

All letters should be placed in the copy box in Mr. Gottenberg's office.

Let's take a pen in hand and write a letter to the editor.

Jessie's Jewels

Every year BJC has a big homecoming event and, supposedly, all the students are going to be there.

But, so far, the times that I have observed more of them coming back to
to face the prom-
ters, are either Christmas or spring vacation.

It hardly seems the thing to do to face the Sophomore and, better yet, when they see their names up on the bulletin boards as graduation candidates, they soon realize that they too, will either be going on in school or careers. Then we'll all have to come back in a couple of years or so and show all our careers or tell our advisers that they too, aren't even remotely connected with what was majored in.

That list of graduation candidates really brings some odd smiles and expressions from several of the Sophomores. Not only is re-belief evidenced, but also disbelief, astonishment, and awareness of the fact that their two years are just two months and two weeks away from reality here at school.

Next year you fresmen see your names up there next year,
Driscoll Hall News

Driscoll hall men are in the midst of plans for an early spring dance, tentatively set for Saturday, March 28, in the Student Assembly ballroom.

"This will be a joint function with Mcrnon hall, the probable theme to be '7 Night As Well As Spring.'

Chairman for the dance from Driscoll is Dick Kennedy, hall social chairman, who is working in cooperation with Mcrnon hall's social chairman, Margaret Bailey.

The Exciting Life
Of The Freshman

Hoo, hoo, hoo, hoo, mad, mad, mad, I'm going mad! Every morning I go to the library, every afternoon I go to the library and every night—I go to the library.
I read novels, magazines, short stories, next month's long notes.
Finally I finished that. That is,
with the notes.

I now get to come up with an outline.
First I write a brief outline, then the extended outline, finally a sentence outline.

After spending more time, more than all my time on that much of my English term paper, I hand it in to my teacher. She hands it back. "Good," she says, "now you didn't do so bad with your bibil-ography and the context of your paper."

Then back to the library I go in the morning, I go in the af-fernoon and I return at night.

I begin to write, I write one page, two pages, three pages—ten pages.

Then I squeeze it into a little notebook and hand it back to my teacher. She keeps it for a day, then a week, then a month. I lay awake at night, I wait
for a pause—so, relax,

AW Holds Assembly

Last Wednesday, March 11, the Associated Women sponsored an assembly for all the women on the BJC campus. The featured guest was Mrs. Fontella Abbott, who entertained the ladies with beauty spots and some demonstrations of different hair styles.
