WUS Conducts Campaign

BJC Roundup

BOISE, IDAHO

October 26, 1953

Election Results

Results of the freshman election which was held last Friday, are as follows: President, Fred Orchard; vice-president, Bob Rakozy; secretary - treasurer, Glenda Hall; and representatives, Jo Coffin and Marilyn Smith.

Finally, the "WUS Week" mystery has been solved!

WUS, which stands for World University Service, will be conducting a campaign this week to raise funds to aid needy foreign students in securing college educations. The local chairman is Larry Smythe, BJC freshman. His committee consists of Marian Peterson, Shirley Thomas, and Kenneth Edson.

Annually, about one half million dollars are contributed by American college students all over the United States. The International Relations club is sponsoring the campaign here.

Without the help of this fund, many foreign students would be unable to further their educations. One of the themes of the campaign is "We speak for those who have great need and who are unable to speak for themselves."

Union Nite Planned

Looking for something to do this Friday evening? Then plan to attend the Union Night from 9-12 p.m. in the BJC Student Union.

Union Nights, such as this one, are somewhat a custom on the BJC campus. Their purpose is to fill in the calendar when there are no major athletic or social functions, and to enable students to become better acquainted with one another.

These affairs feature dancing, either to an orchestra or a jukebox. This week Mike McReynolds' combo from Nampa will be on hand. Besides dancing, one may play cards or sip a coke, as the fountain is open on these nights.

An activity ticket and 25c are required for admission. Posters are placed in the main hall of the Administration building and in the Student Union, so keep your eyes open!

These Union Nights are sponsored by a committee headed by Bunny Kane. Assisting her are Helen McDaid, Carol Berry, Josephine Lizaso and Phyllis Browning. This group schedules the Union Nights and obtains the orchestra. They also obtain chaperones and plan the intermission entertainment.

See you Friday night at the Union, cutting a rug or cutting cards!

Howzabout 8 O'clock?

Question: What is the insight to your inner turbulence upon the start of an 8 o'clock class?

Wally Eaton, Soph., Mayfield—"Regurgitation, up-chuck, barf, etc."

Dick Ingalls, Fresh, Boise—"I am sleepy, hungry and always out of breath from running the last mile."

Jim Doolittle, Fresh, Star—"My what? At 8 o'clock! Who in the H knows anything then?"

Gus Robinson, Soph., Oregona—"I don't even think of it."

Herman Waf, Soph., St. Louis, Mo—"Good gosh, makes no difference to me. I find 8 o'clock classes highly stimulating and intellectually satisfying."

Truman Winn, Fresh, Dixie—"Don't know, I never seem to make them. I seem to have morning sickness. Someday I am going to try one and see how they are."

Pat Owen, Fresh, Boise—"Oh, goodness! A little tired from the night before. Never too well organized. I seem to have a hard time adjusting to the hour."

Mildred Light, Fresh, Boise—"About half asleep, sometimes I seem to make it on time, sometimes I don't. The subject matter goes in one ear and out the other."

Darlene Kirk, Fresh, Boise—"I just sit and dream and think of the hard subjects coming next. I think one should get up earlier than I do to be awake for the class."

Meet Valerie

From London, England, comes Valerie Lindsey, a cute little frosh with a decidedly British accent.

Valerie finds our campus very friendly and is surprised at the large number of organized social activities for youth. While friendly enough, students in England are more formal until well acquainted. Their classes, too, are more formal in contrast to our "freer" ones.

After finishing at the Cophthall County school for girls in London, Valerie worked for two years. Then she planned to go to work in Sweden until an invitation from friends in Boise changed her plans. She is staying with them while attending IUC.

Majoring in chemistry, Valerie hopes to form a career around that subject, preferably in a hospital laboratory.

While American slang was new to Valerie at first, she is now accustomed to it, and is even becoming quite proficient in its use. Americans certainly do have their own way of expressing themselves," she said.

Football, American style, is very interesting to Valerie. In England they play soccer, which they call "football." The game of football, as we know it, is known as "Rugby" to them, deriving its name from the discoverer of the sport. Soccer may well be called England's national sport, while hockey, basketball, and tennis are played here.

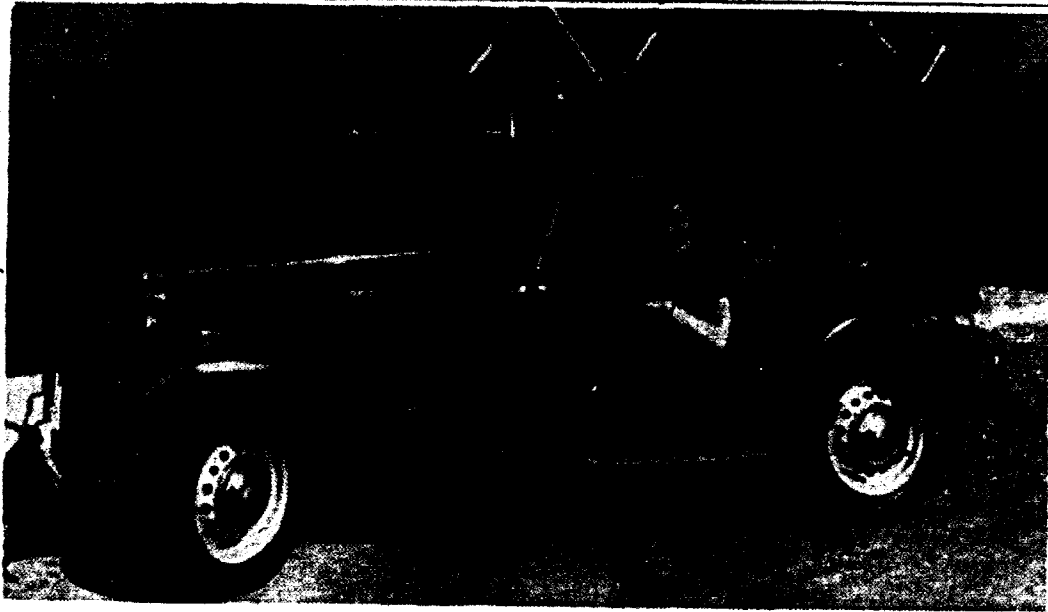

Scholastically, the main difference between the two countries is in the exams. There, they are accustomed to "big, tough" finals with no tests between.

Valerie's charming accent and her background in England make her an interesting student of the week.

Trade Courses to Be Feted October 31

How would you like to build your own house or soup up your old family bus? You might not be able to do all this, but a good working knowledge of these skills is available right here at BJC.

For a number of years the school has offered wood and machine shop along with auto body repair training. This year they have added a full time course requiring 25 hours a week productivity on live jobs pertaining to the trade. Another five hours a week is required on related instruction in the classroom. A live job is a job on an item which upon completion will be used to perform a function. None of the jobs in these shops is done merely for training then scrapped. Projects that will give the student the maximum training are obtainable and then released, such as any commercial shop would do.

This school is operating upon a reimbursable program under state and federal funds. These funds are used to finance the salaries of the instructors. Therefore, students throughout the state are enrolled at the same cost as those living in the district.

October 31 is marked as Industrial Vocation day. All vocational and industrial instructors of the area and representatives from labor and management groups will be present. Each group will have a guest speaker who will present the problems of that group. Students will participate in the discussions with each speaker.

Mr. Vernon Beckwith, supervisor of the IUC vocational classes, believes that the students will have a good opportunity to understand the complex systems of labor and management.

Instructing the courses are: Mr. Vernon Beckwith, woodshop; Mr. Thomas Newton, auto mechanics; Mr. M. A. Lund, machine shop; and Mr. Lyle Trapp, auto body repair. All are qualified tradesmen and are certified by the State Board of Education to teach manual arts.

Sports Cars Now Part of BJC

The sports car craze that has hit the United States via California has finally come to Boise Junior College and with it comes the roar of dual pipes, the screech of a down shift and four wheel slides. Add to these the slang of "cornering, topping out" and the sports car philosophy of automobiles. What it all adds up to is a new sport in the United States that has been dead since the days of the Stutz Bearcat—namely the sport of driving for the fun of driving.

Most popular of the sports cars in the old stand-by, the British M.G. Although this little car is not a hot sports car, its 50-50 weight distribution, stiff suspension, quick steering and low center of gravity enable the M.G. to take corners as fast as a $15,000 Ferrari. The small— for sports car— cost of $2,300 and 30 miles per gallon make this a very popular car. For this price one can have the fun of driving and enjoy it just as much as that man with his Jaguar or Cad-Allard. A run down on some of the other popular makes of sports cars shows that what the M.G. lacks in speed it compensates in price. Take the C-type Jaguar with 210 horsepower this car can hit 170 miles per hour and from a dead stand, accelerate to 100 miles per hour in only 15 seconds time. This year a Jag won the 24-hour race at Le Mans, France, at an average speed of 106 miles per hour a sports car record. A 190 h.p. Jag in Boise, M-type, costs $6,200 and the stock 169 h.p. Jag costs $4,300.

America's top car, the Cunningham C-5 can hit some 220 miles per hour and from a dead stand accelerate to 110 miles per hour in 9 1/2 seconds! Cost? $10,000 to $15,000. A Chrysler-powered Cunningham placed behind Jaguar at the Le Mans race and lost only because of the fantastic Jaguar brakes that permitted the car to hit the corners at 150 mph before down shifting to 40 mph.

So next time you see one of these little machines, don't laugh at them and most of all, don't try to take a corner at the same rate of speed. We hate to lose students.

Support Our Team

Saturday evening Boise Junior College Broncos will tackle the Owls or Oregon Tech in what may be the best ball game yet seen in Bronco Stadium.

Oregon Tech, which has beaten some of the Broncos' foes by a good margin, have some 25 experienced players this year, most of them are three-year lettermen. The fact that the Owls have lost two games this year is of little comfort to Bronco fans as both were losses to semi-professional or four-year college teams. The Broncos will probably be the underdogs in this game. Last year the score ended 14-13 and the Owls will be out for revenge.

It is the hope of the Roundup staff and the coaches that every student of BJC will come to this game and support the team. As many of you recall, Everett J. C. was a 7-point choice to beat the Broncos. Some 7,000 fans showed up for that game and the Broncos gave out with a 19-13 victory. This time let's have 10,000 fans and the Broncos will play their best game of the year.

BJC Grad Guest on KDSH

An added number to the program was "Fairest Isle All Isles Excelling," also composed by Purcell.

The program is a weekly feature from the college, broadcasting over KDSH.

Broncs Win IMC

The Broncos of Boise Junior College all but cinched the Intermountain Conference championship by downing a hard-fighting Westminster eleven 14-7.

Stymied the first half and only able to score 7 points the Broncos poured it on in the second half scoring three touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Chuck Brown on the Michigan lateral play ran 25 yards to the Parsons' five to set up the first Bronco TD. From the five Chuck passed to end Dick Joslyn and the Broncos had six. The conversion was good and the score went to 7-0.

In the third quarter Brown again has Joslyn with a pass to put the ball on the Parsons 18-yard line. Bryant Lemon on the next play went the distance to score and the score stood at 14-0.

Then it was the Parsons' turn to score. A Bronco fumble gave the ball to Westminster on the Bronco 17 yard line and in a couple the score was a slim 14-7 for the Broncs and the Parsons' hopes of beating BJC and a conference championship were alive once more.

Furiously the Broncos roared back by pounding the Parsons' line on sheer power plays. Ed Lodge went for 12 yards. Fred Mklane broke loose for 30 yards after it looked as if he was trapped for sure and would lose yardage. Lodge ended it all and the score went 20-7.

A few plays later Lodge went 90 yards and the Parsons were finished. Dick Newby added the last 7 by passing 50 yards to end Glen Crosby.

Wooden Indian Part of Elks Day

With the start of this year's Boise Junior College Elks Day football game a new feature has been added, a wooden Indian to be given to the winner of the game. Like Stanford California's and Minnesota's Mahogany Little Brown Jug, the wooden Indian will be the symbol of good sportsmanship that exists between Boise Junior College and Weber.

As has been the case for many years, the Elks Day game is now officially known as Elks Day and much of the success of the game is due to the efforts of the Elks.

Gordon H. Erdmann, exalted ruler of the Boise Elks lodge, has been one of the key planners in the game. As Mr. Erdmann put it, "This is the third straight year that the lodge has recognized the worth and value of Boise Junior College to the community by being present in a look at this game."

FRENCH CLUB

French club members met Wednesday evening, October 21, in the Student Union. Elections were held and the following were elected: Minter Young, president; Gilbert Keithly, vice president; and Shirley Byrne, secretary-treasurer. Bingo was played and plans formulated for the organization's homecoming float.

Pre-Game Hour Rough on Players

Ever wonder what it is like in the Bronco dressing room just before one of the big games? What do the players do in that one hour period before kick-off? What do Coach Lyle Smith and George Blankley say and do?

To answer these questions we went to the Bronco dressing room prior to the Everett game.

About 7:00 the players start to arrive and put on their game suits and soon the dressing room is filled with players in various forms of dress and undress. Some of them rather than dress right away, will lounge around by telling jokes or talking with one of their buddies. In the center of the room Dick Priest, Bronco manager, is giving the players T-shirts and socks. Coach Smith and George Blankley are taping ankles, thighs and wrists of some of the players.

About 7:30 the atmosphere of the room changes as one by one the players finish dressing. Most of them lie down on the floor and stare at the ceiling, thinking about the game. Others chew gum and whisper to each other; but all of them have one thing in common—they are scared and nervous, and in 15 minutes they will play an Everett team predicted to beat them by seven points. The room is so quiet, each player to his own thoughts.
