Dance Slated

Inter-Collegiate Knights will crown a duchess at their Golden Plume ball, December 11. The dance will be held in the Student Union ballroom from 9 to 12 p.m.

The candidates for duchess are Judie Richmond, Marilyn Smith, Jo Coffin, Nancy Kennedy, Nancy Wanlace, Jeanne Newton and Roberta Wilson.

December 7, 8, and 9 are the dates set for the BJC Studio Players' presentation of the TV show "I Love Lucy," under the direction of Merrill C. Hansen.

"I Love Lucy", a comedy in three acts, occurring in the living room and kitchen of the Ricardo apartment at the present time, describes the unpredictable antics of Lucy Ricardo and the alternate bafflement and exasperation of her husband and friends as they attempt to keep pace with her.

Lucy (Nancy Wanlace), a delightful, lovable, unpredictable, scatterbrain with an imagination that tends to run riot on occasions, finds balancing a budget both exasperating and difficult. She dreads her husband Ricky's monthly inspection of her household accounts and tries to wangle his inspection. Finding it impossible, she submits and presents her accounts to her husband. Ricky (Marvin Gardner), a nice-looking, comparatively easy-going young man is shocked to learn that the bills paid are for the previous December. As a result, he informs Lucy that she will receive no more allowance until the bills have been paid and she is to have no credit or use any charge accounts. In the meantime Ethel (Glenda Hall), a friend a few years older than Lucy, casual, matter of fact and with a dry, slightly vitriolic sense of humor, drops in to visit Lucy over a cup of coffee, lend her moral support, and to puzzle over Lucy's unique method of paying bills. Fred (Wally Winegar), her husband, a big, hail-fellow-well-met sort of man who is allergic to work, also stops in at the Ricardo apartment and lends his moral support to Ricky.

Ricky is further exasperated by an attractive, starry-eyed, teen-Peggy (Sylvia Griffin), who has a mad crush on him and features herself stealing Ricky from Lucy.

To help Peggy forget Ricky, Lucy decides to teach Arthur (Martin Sielaff), an awkward, diffident high school boy, how to dance so that he will ask Peggy to the school dance. As a result Arthur falls in love with Lucy and determines to take her from her dismal surroundings.

Lucy further complicates matters by mistaking Ricky's boss, Mr. Littlefield (Elton Robinson), a stern, imposing-looking man, for Ricky's barber and insults him over the telephone. Ricky, who is working towards the managership of his nightclub, becomes very angry with Lucy and a quarrel results.

Later Ricky sends a message telling Lucy to clean the house and prepare for a photographer, Miss Whiting (Jo Coffin, a brisk, business-like woman, who is coming to take pictures of their home to print in a musician's magazine. Lucy, still exasperated with Ricky, and Ethel turn the house into a shambles and masquerade in hill-billy costume to greet Ricky and the photographer. Miss Whiting begins a gleeful picture snapping session, into the center of which Ricky's boss, Mr. Littlefield, and Mrs. Littlefield (Joan Brown), walk.

The play finishes in hilarity, confusion, and surprise.

Playing the part of Joe, a delivery man, is Garry Goodfellow, and Don Maypole serves as an extra.

Serving on the stage crew are Don Maypole, Norma Gaver, Lee McKinney, Latae Hummer, Joan Armstrong, Marcia Green, and Wally Winegar. Properties: Marcia Green, Joan Armstrong, Arven Spofford, Don Jevons, Ed Hart, and Lee McKinney. Lights: Don

The club is also planning an instructional for this year, and is considering holding dances at Bogus Basin at the lodge after skiing.

BJC Choir Makes Television Debut

Yesterday afternoon, the BJC choir made its 1953 debut over TV station KIDO. The program was the first of 12 scheduled Christmas concerts this year.

Next Sunday evening the choir will present its annual candlelight concert in the auditorium to which the public is invited.

This will be the first year that the choir has made a Christmas tour. On December 10 the group will entertain high school audiences in Marsing, Kuna and Homedale; on December 11, Fruitland, Payette and Weiser, and on December 16, the choir will sing in Meridian, Nampa and Nyssa.

A special number which has been prepared by eight selected voices in the choir is "Laud Our Saviour", a cantata by Buxtehude. The octette is composed of Shirley Rigney, Allene Siebe, Marga Lindemann, Ruth Ann Fountain, Harriet Davis, Jerry Crandall, Dennis Law and Bill Winkler. Accompanying them on violins will be Marlon Peterson and Delores Hansen, and the organist will be the director, Mr. Bratt.

Another cantata, "Pastoral Cantata", by Corelli, will be sung by soprano soloist, Allene Siebe.

Griffith Bratt, choir director, says that the Christmas tour will be an ambitious undertaking, since it is so early in the school year. He added that he knows of no other local choir which attempts such an early full schedule of concerts.

Club News

Associated Women

The Associated Women are sponsoring the collection of funds and food packages or canned food for needy families. A box will be put in the main hall starting December 14. Jars for money will also be put up. Remember to give so that all the families in Boise will have a happy Christmas. Donna Billas is the general chairman for the event.

Inter-Faith Council

Dr. Baker has announced that an extensive Christmas program will be presented by the Inter-Faith Council on the morning of December 17. He said there will be tableaux depicting two scenes—one featuring the angels and shepherds, and the other featuring Mary and Joseph. A narrator will read from the scripture, and the choir will sing.

Life Lines to Sponsor Drive

The Boise Junior college Life Lines will open a blood donation drive starting today and ending this coming Thursday when the bloodmobile will be on the campus to receive donations.

The Life Lines, all of whom are Boise Junior college students, will have posters placed in the halls and a blood booth by the main doorway for those students who would like to donate. It is hoped that BJC will be able to outdo the University of Idaho in donations. The booth will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Thursday the Bloodmobile will arrive and the blood will be donated in the student ball room from 12:00 to 4:00.

Besides the students the faculty of BJC are invited to donate blood also.

Those students who have never given blood before and are afraid of the results may be at ease. The process is painless and usually has no after effects.

Remember that the war in Korea is not over for those GI's who still need blood to live. One of them may be your friend, neighbor, or relative—let's not let them down.

Maypole. Program: Norma Gaver and Lee McKinney. Ushers: Glorienne Elloraga, Lee McKinney, Shirley Larson, and Vivian Adamson. Publicity: Kay Shallman and the art classes. Refreshments: Mrs. Hansen and Lee McKinney.

The play will be presented in the "student built" studio theater in room T1.

Refreshments will be served after the play.

"I Love Lucy" was adapted by Christopher Sergel from the television program by Jess Oppenheimer, Madelyn Pugh, and Bob Carroll, Jr.

Letter to the Editor

Received the following letter from Mr. Larry Smythe, student, Boise Junior College:
Charles Shangle, Editor, Roundup

In recent weeks I have become aware of the complacent attitude of many students on the campus. They come to school, go to class, then go home. They seem to have no genuine interest in their studies, only to do what is required. I have talked with several instructors, Dean Matthews, and President Chaffee and they all gave their stamp of approval on this idea that has been kicking around the campus.

Seminar, or small discussion groups consisting of four, five, or six students could be organized at the discretion of the students. They would decide on a topic of interest to all the members, whether it's religion, politics, economics, or digging deeper into subjects. Then they would elect a chairman and decide on a time that all could be present.

Dean Matthews said arrangements can be made to have several classrooms made available to these groups. Afternoons after 2:00 would be the best time to obtain this space. But whatever arrangements the groups want will try to be accomplished.

If the students wish to go ahead with this project, Mr. Shangle, I would appreciate it very much if they could leave their reactions in the Student Affairs room. In this way we can measure the response.

Larry Smythe

There you have Mr. Smythe's idea. What do you think of it? For those of you who are interested in this plan write your ideas on a small piece of paper and bring them to room 118.

Lost

Marga Lindemann has lost a blue canvas-covered notebook containing English and psychology notes. Will anyone finding it please turn it in to the office or take it to Morrison hall?

Sideline Opinions

By Roy Davis

Prospects for a successful basketball season were only slightly dampened Tuesday night when strong Northwest Nazarene college boys downed the Bronco squad 64-51 in the season opener.

Handicapped by lack of experience, the Bronco aggregate was unable to fight off the more experienced NNC squad. Nancys took an early lead through the outstanding rebound work of center Mickey Iwan. They had complete mastery of the backboard throughout the contest, staying off several Bronco attempts to rally.

During the final period the Nazarenes pointed on the coal, taking the biggest lead of the evening. At the final whistle NNC had enlarged its lead to 18 points.

However, Coach George Blankley was far from disappointed over the showing of his green BJC hoopers. He was still confident that once a few of the rough spots had been ironed out the Broncos would be hard to beat.
