Will You Finish?
We are now on the home stretch of the academic year. You work will either be brought to a successful completion or evaporate into a cloud of failure. Too many Americans and people in general, make a start, leave the starting line with tremendous fanfare and energy, then begin to falter and many never cross the finish line. Remember a certain Saturday, many years ago, when 2000 and underclassmen with 85 participants met in a foot-mile cross country, which took the runners up hills across the top of the hills and back to the finish at Penauna College in Claremont, California. Many passed out into a temporary fast and fell, because they had gone too fast. As I ran that course, I saw first one and then another drop, out of the race. Out of the 85, about 35 finished, the rest had quit, and I was left with great respect for the courage, drive and persistence it takes to win.

Each year I saw a similar situation and watch students start out, with college year by the beginning of the second semester, 30-40 will have totally dropped out. This year of over 1,000 students, 40-50 will either dropped out during the first semester, or failed to register for the second. Many of these remain, are only making a halfhearted attempt to see what they started. These students go on into life with the same results. Many enter college and merely make a pass at doing a job. The quality employers are looking for is perseverance, young men or women who make that goal.

Brain or mental ability are a small part of success. The ability to continue the job that is being done is what is wanted. In track, there is a "git," in that it is contained in one word.

IN OUR OPINION...

The conditions of the schools of a people reflect the maturity of the education.

If this is true, then how mature are the students of 876? Take a look at their grades and the personnel list; it makes one wonder.

People expect those known as a school of excellence because they are expected to do their job. By the same token, one should not only be a hard worker for that education, but also from personal pull. One of the greatest traits of a school of excellence is not the amount of fun a student has in high school, but what he does in the years to come.

Recently there have been several changes in the school system. This has led to great confusion and anxiety. It is good to have a school, yes, but in order to make one good, it needs people who are willing to help and work for a common goal.

If you are interested in the opinion of your coach, then you should see what the 876 high school is all about.

THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE IN 876.

MISS RUTH McBRINNEY, BJC Librarian, is Featured Teacher of the Week

Miss Ruth McBrinner, BJC Librarian, is an alumna and has devoted her life to the college library since 1914. She is past president of the State Library association and editor of the Journal of Libraries and Librarians. Since the establishment of the Library at 876, she has held a position for seven years at the University of New York.

When asked at what time from Miss McBrinner, she said that she got up at New York time and that she usually got up at 6 a.m. She had a goal for the next seven years at the University.

ALUMNI NEWS

The sale of the catalog was announced and the catalog was sold for three dollars each. It was sold by the BJC Alumni Association. The catalog includes all the women who have graduated from the school since 1914.

BJC Adds New Ceramics Class
To Present College Curriculum

BJC's new ceramics class, taught by Mr. Louis Peck, head of the art department, has 12 students now enrolled, and plans call for considerable emphasis on it during the summer session.

Last fall, a kiln was purchased and studio clay was bought. Students' work is now kept in atmosphere-steam clay from California.

Hogged and tempered clay in plastic containers ready for use now used by the department. It is a high grade clay made to fire at a range of 2000 to 2600 degrees and is used primarily for glazing.

It is contemplated that later some terra cotta clay will be obtained which can be used for sculpture and hand moldering.

Equipment in the newly expanded department, according to Peck, consists of two small four-kick wheels, talud and storage facilities. A larger kiln will be provided for the summer work as well as equipment for glazing, glaze compounds and a spray cabinet in which to apply the glaze.

At the present time, there are four kick wheels in operation. With this type the operator controls his own power by the application of his foot. A third kick wheel was installed to add to the equipment. This summer, said Peck, Mr. Harry T. Gohar, associate professor of fine arts from Utah State university, will conduct two summer classes in ceramics. It is planned that this will be a very popular class which will add to the summer course.

The novel feature of it is that the students will try to develop their own clay glaze and learn the techniques of the firing process. They will be required to present their work to the students of the course and be asked to explain the making of it in order to complete the instruction.

The maximum enrollment for the course this summer will be 12 students since the facilities are limited. It is contemplated that a course will be offered next fall and during the day as well as evening hours.

Library Catalogues
Jewish Publications

By Edna Hender

Recently, at Boise Junior College, the library received two new publications, both volumes from the Jewish Chasidic Society. Among them are:

The Melody Shop
By A. J. Hamilton, describes the development of modern Hebrew literature as a record of the historical and social forces which have shaped the present-day Hebrew movement. A new edition of this classic book.

A Treasury of Jewish Publications
By Nathan Ausbel, contains stories, traditions, legends, humor, wisdom, folk songs, daven, sources on the history of the Jewish people. Includes the Torah and the history of the Jewish people from the beginning to the present day.
