ent Chaffee s from East

Junior College President Chaffee returned last week from Washington, D. C., where he represented six northern states at a committee meeting of the American Association of Junior Colleges. Chaffee was one of six representatives from junior colleges of the nation who met in constitutional session of the A.A.J.C. The resolution will be presented at the next meeting scheduled for this year in New York. Chaffee is one of the few representatives from schools in urban areas who are increasing the number of schools while the other representatives have been decreasing. Chaffee is a past president of the association. He is the only member of the association who has been elected to the presidency in the past year.

Recovers

Dr. F. Matthews of the University of Idaho who has been hospitalized since a kidney stone necessitated hospitalization during the Christmas holidays, is expected to return to his regular duties in the college hospital.

Polio Drive Is On

Three service clubs were quick to answer the call of the March of Dimes drive which is now in progress. The Valkyries, the Pi Sigma Sigma and the Intercollegiate Knights have already begun work on the project. If you had been down town on Saturday, January 7, you may have seen some of the Valkyries selling miniature crutches to the people on the street. They cooperated with many other service organizations in this city-wide project. Helping on this same project, the Pi Sigma Sigma illustrated that the students in these service clubs were ready to go to work for the March of Dimes. If you have been in the Student Union building in the past week, you no doubt saw the words, "Shell Out For Polio," greeting you as you walked in. This is the theme for the Intercollegiate Knights' part in the fund-raising campaign. They are going to sell 900 bags of peanuts which were ordered especially for the March of Dimes drive. If each student would buy only one bag, the I.K. would have a 100% sell-out. Let's help them out! Don't forget to drop that extra dime, nickel or penny in the canister in the Student Union. It can mean so much to some people.

Dr. John Booth Speaks to F.T.A.

The Future Teachers of America gathered last Thursday evening for a social-business meeting highlighted by an address from Dr. John Booth. A delegate to the president's White House Conference on Education, Dr. Booth serves as the executive secretary of the Idaho State Board of Education. Major points covered in his discussion were that the conference served to reaffirm the belief of the American public in our educational system; The public, realizing that a crisis exists in classroom shortages, is willing to spend tax dollars to correct the situation. In an overwhelming majority of better than two to one, the delegates voted favoring federal aid to schools. As evidenced by the recent legislation presented to congress, Dr. Booth pointed out, "The rank and file of Americans believe in this program, and are behind us all the way!" In a more jocular vein, Dr. Booth spoke to the students on "Why You Shouldn't Enter Teaching", an interesting and amusing discussion which excellently employed the negative psychological approach to emphasize the positive. He told the members of the common criticisms of today's education program and then gave rebuttal to the criticisms from the teacher's standpoint. The talk was also of serious benefit to the student teachers as Dr. Booth told them, in part, what to expect from their profession, the community, and the parents. Other business of the local FTA included the election of new executives for the next term. The man selected for the presidency next year is Bob Watts, present historian of the group who will serve as vice president the remainder of the year. Other officers selected as being most capable for the posts were: Nona Jacobson, secretary; Jackie O'Toole and Gerry Heron as historians. Three delegates were appointed to attend the annual IEA convention at Pocatello next April and a humorous pantomime skit with Oscar Nelson, Betty Curtis and Mr. Warr ended the evening.

World Affairs Institute To Appear at Boise J C

"Could a third world war start in the Middle East?" This will be the main topic of the fourth annual world affairs institute at BJC Feb 10 and 11.

Harry N. Howard of the U. S. Dept. of State, and Rom Landau, noted British writer on North Africa, will be among the outstanding speakers.

Topics on the program will include: "The Arab Revolutions", "No Africa in Upheaval" and "Will American aid keep Russia out of the Middle East?"

Movies of life in Middle Eastern countries and a panel on relating the Middle East to a free and peaceful world will be featured.

Registration fees will be $2.00 for the general public and 25 cents for students.

A flip of the coin decided possession of the trophy in the 20th annual Inland Empire junior college debate tournament. For the first time in the history of the tournament, three colleges tied for top honors. The debate was held at Moscow last Friday and Saturday.

DEBATE TEAM TO PARTICIPATE IN TOURNAMENT

Wennstrom, BJC debate team will leave today to participate in the Idaho State Lower Division tournament at Moscow.

Mr. Wennstrom said that some time during the middle of February the team will participate in the state college debate and forensic meet to be held at the College of Idaho. On February 20 and 21 the team will go to the Northwest Intercollegiate meet in Portland and on March 3, 4 and 5 will take part in the Tournament of Champions in McMinnville, Oregon. Tentative plans call for a trip to the University of Montana some time in April for the Northwest Invitational meet.

In Our Opinion . . .

Looking over our campus this last week, ever with the editorial ear to the ground, trying, of course, to ferret out some worthy complaint or scandal, we find that there are certain vexations that we should mention.

Some of the most common groanings heard emanated from the cafeteria—student ramblings about the quality of the grub at the Student Union more than piqued our curiosity and we thought we had best find out.

Last Friday gave us the chance. With a predisposed mind to be rather nauseated, sure that we were being heroic and giving our all to the noble art of journalism, feeling quite like a man must feel when he's walking the last mile, we entered the chow line.

What we found there completely amazed your editor! And brought him down to earth, too! We feel rather sheepish in taking the complaints of some of these contemptible little jerks to heart. Should have realized that they're an immature lot, and not too bright. Been a civilian too long, perhaps.

The chow we found in the line that day was so superior to what we lived on for four years in service there is no comparison! Only a personal opinion but we thought the meat, cheese, salad, vegetable, milk, bread, butter and pie, all fresh and good, far outranked our previous diet of powdered eggs, powdered milk, powdered potatoes, and other odd and sundry powdered things.

And all the nasty, snide little remarks about Miss Gesner behind her back, of course by some of our hot-shot students who never had it so good. "NUTS!" we know a lot of doctors who will gladly trade their mess sergeant of chef cook for her.

We suggest that these poor, underfed, unhappy souls take their four-bit piece to one of the commercial establishments and see what they can get with it. We suspect that they'll be running back to the Union shortly.

Enough of this before we get carried away on a crusade and insult someone . . .

Sometimes it's amazing to see all the discontent fermented over the smallest, inconsequential matters. . . growing pains, we suppose. . .

Meet Fred Norman

"Hey, Supper!"

Have you heard this pet expression come from the lips of a dark brown haired, brown eyed male about 5' 10", weighing 175 pounds? Have you wondered who he is? Well, here's the important statistics of this sophomore.

His name is Fred Norman. Although his home town, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, is a thousand miles away, Fred declares, "I like the experience of being away from home." Fred is student body vice-president this year. Moreover, this ambitious student is president of Delta Sigma Omega and a member of Phi Theta Kappa. He was a quarterback on the football team until he received an injury early in the fall. Besides being assistant director of "The Late Christopher Bean" play, Fred also presided as master of ceremonies at the Delta Psi variety show.

Fred is taking a general course at BJC, dramatics rate an important place in Fred's curriculum and future. "I intend to go two years here and then go to Cal-

Students of 1957 will have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Harry N. Howard of the U.S. Department of State at the fourth annual world affairs institute, February 19 and 21.

Mr. Howard will speak on "Could a third world war start in the Middle East?"

All students and faculty are invited.

found. Then I'd like to try one year at the Pasadena Playhouse," stated Fred. "I might even consider attending the University of Michigan for a medical degree."

When asked what he thought of BJC, Fred replied, "I think an awful lot of it. I feel I have gained more by staying here rather than transferring to a university."

Because he likes to be creative, Fred feels that acting provides a great challenge. He believes in attempting what he wants to do most, no matter how tough it may seem in the beginning.

Now to the lighter side of life. Spaghetti and meatballs is his favorite dish. "I like music a heck of a lot," he exclaimed. Frankie Laine is his favorite singer, while "Because of You" rates as his all time favorite song. Fred also collects the top tunes and definitely prefers slow pieces for dancing. When asked what he thought of the way the students danced out west he replied, "It's different!" Comparing the eastern and western girls, he declared "You're putting me on the spot. In general they're all about the same . . . very nice."

Now you've become better acquainted with Fred Norman. This isn't the last you'll hear of him though, for he is what BJC claims as one of her best all-around good students.

By Marilyn Petrick

The tell-tale . . .

Recently I obtained the names of the staff members who were up to a two-story brick building located with Fremont and down and returned with winter attention. I passed while the little man opened the study door, and then walked up the stairs. I became a part of the "Meat and potatoes" program. At this time, I thought I would try to eat a small portion of the menu. I thought I would try to eat a small portion of the menu. I thought I would try to eat a small portion of the menu.

If I were to make a particular place in my mind from now when I thought most represented college life, it would be the BJC student Union building. I thought, "What would I remember most about the Union?" Well, I remember the times I'd had to try to get a piece of food while playing a game of Hearts. I remember the times I'd had to try to get a piece of food while playing a game of Hearts. I remember the times I'd had to try to get a piece of food while playing a game of Hearts.

As the memories came flooding back, I suddenly realized that in much as I felt a part of it, I enjoyed the Union. I suddenly saw a stranger. There are more important aspects to this Union than my own memories. I will never forget that I learned my Swedish. I learned my Swedish. I learned my Swedish.

It was from an interview with Miss Hattie Gesner, the director of the Union, that I learned these facts. Miss Gesner, whom the students all refer to as Hattie, has been on the staff since 1950. She remembers when she first came out here how amazed she was at being called by her first name. "I see now it's just a northwest habit," declared Miss Gesner. Hattie recalled that the Union was constructed in 1941. The addition was built on in 1951. Through the help of student activity fees the building is maintained. "It is not operated for profit, but is primarily for student service," stated Miss Gesner. "Therefore, we don't encourage the general public to eat here."

The building consists of a ballroom upstairs which is rented for dances, youth meetings, or educational purposes; three lounges which are used for club meetings and various other purposes; a supply room, and finally the cafeteria and fountain part. The two dining rooms seat 500 people. Three cafeteria style meals plus a fountain lunch are served each day.

One of the most astounding facts I discovered was the terrific amount of food consumed by BJC. It's terrifying enough to see the waiters, weighing light and heavy, the fattest to begin attention. I passed while the little man opened the study door, and then walked up the stairs. I became a part of the "Meat and potatoes" program. At this time, I thought I would try to eat a small portion of the menu. I thought I would try to eat a small portion of the menu.

Finally, I discovered what a wonderful and friendly staff the Union employs. Appointments and thanks go to each one of the employees for his job in making the Union a pleasant place. The staff includes: Mildred Reed, Emma Strömberg, Ethel Cleveland, Elizabeth Stone, Lynn Burke, Ray Henderson, Eva Bush, Helen Johnson, Marie Parkinson, Beth Strömberg, chairman, Bertha Whitcomb, Pats Whitehead and Esther Hart.

What Are B-Cubes?

There are no square corners on the B-Cubes. They are always one of the student organizations in school. Promoting pep at the BJC is only part of their job, they work hard as advisers and discussion steersmen as well.

The group, which is limited to Freshman women holds its meetings every Friday during the break season.

Biggest social event of the year for the B-Cubes is always the Cotton social, an all school dance given in the spring.

Officers for the present season include: Lee Hanson, president; Jonetta Moeller, vice president; Ann Strömberg, secretary; Jackie Rivett, social chairman, and Anna Lawwill, publicity chairman. The faculty advisor is Miss Roe.

Mrs. Helen Johnson

Teacher of the Year

Another smiling face at BJC's campus this year is Mrs. Helen Johnson. Her son has, for the last year, been teaching second grade at the College of Idaho. She has her graduate work at the College of Idaho. She has been teaching at different schools in the variety of Washington State College. Her husband and she live in Nampa. She is principal of the elementary school in Nampa.

Being secretary of Business Education is another, and full time leaves little time for her to do love to cook, though because I love to eat, my son laughingly said.

We're sure that the Idaho best more than bell this fall when she joined the BJC staff. She has found the job very friendly and to be the best she has ever taught.

Although she commutes Nampa and Boise, Mrs. Johnson said she is very happy to be at BJC.

And in the words of Chaffee, "Believe me, we're happy to have Mrs. Johnson this year."

Symphony Appears In Special Concert Sunday

The music of W. A. Mozart, on the 200th anniversary of the Boise Junior College Community Symphony will present an all-Mozart program January 22 at 8:15 p.m. The concert will be heard in the auditorium and is being presented as a public service with no charge.

The program will be the well known Symphony No. 40 in G Minor. It is particularly fitting that musical organizations throughout the world are giving tribute to this composer, for he realized very little public acclaim during his lifetime, which was beset with poverty and ill-fortune. A prolific composer, there is no area in the whole field of music that has not been enriched by his writings. Critics and musicians alike would agree that there has been no brighter genius in the world of music, past or present.

The Mozart program includes examples of his middle and his late period. The Overture to the "Abduction from the Seraglio" was his first mature operatic work. The opera has a Turkish setting and its title may be translated "The Flight from the Harem". The G Minor symphony included on the program as one of three great symphonies of the last period of his life and has probably been heard more often than any of his 40 other symphonies. The clarinet concerto was finished but a few months before Mozart's death and reflects the respect that he had acquired for this "new" instrument.

S. Results

Last year's donations, University Service week, totaled the donations for this year $5812 from BJC. The donor was the Valkyries, amount of $2500. The amount per student was $12.50. We extend our thanks to all students and faculty for their contribution. Fifty-eight dollars from the great amount. That is a hundred more dollars and you will get a lot more. We will fill a need for books. There are still opened for student or faculty member to raise the percentage. Donations can be forwarded to Max Mellaney or David

Library News . . .

Reading to suit all tastes and moods is represented in the wide variety of magazines in the BJC library. An impressive total of 150 subscriptions is currently being received. Let us call your attention to a few especially interesting ones which you may have overlooked. Theatre Arts, filled with "inside dope" on Broadway, opera, and all related topics and personalities, publishes a complete play script or opera libretto in each of its monthly issues. The Reporter, only a few years old, already has a well-established reputation for thorough, objective reporting on important, controversial issues of the day. The Atlantic has long been recognized as a magazine with high literary and intellectual standards. Anyone not yet acquainted with its thoughtful, analytic style has a treat in store.

Veteran's Corner

P.L. 550—Korean GI
Q How are payments made under the Korean GI Bill?
A. A veteran in training receives an education and training allowance each month from the government. This is the only payment made. VA will not pay for tuition and fees separately to the school. With the help of the allowance, the veteran must meet all his own training expenses.
Q Are there any ceilings on allowances under the Korean GI Bill?
A. Yes. There is a $10-a-month ceiling, but it applies only to veterans taking on-the-job training. Should a veteran's training allowance plus his earnings to be received as a trainee exceed this amount, VA will reduce the allowance accordingly. However, there's no ceiling as to what he can earn.
Q Then, there's no ceiling on the outside income of veterans going to school under the Korean GI Bill?
A. None at all. Veterans in school may earn any amount at all in their spare time, without having their GI allowances reduced. In fact, school-going veterans need not even report outside earnings to the VA.
Q As to what date will the allowances begin, in the case of a veteran who has filed his application with the VA?
A. The effective beginning date for the payment of allowances will be whichever of the following dates is the latest: (1) the date

Cunningham Spoke

Glenn Cunningham, ex-Olympic participant and outstanding track star, spoke to BJC students this morning at 10:00 a.m. in the auditorium. Mr. Cunningham was a long-time holder of the indoor mile record set at Dartmouth in 1938, captain of the American track team which toured the world in 1933 and an entrant in the 1936 Olympics. The address he gave this morning was part of a tour of 24 Idaho communities which is to include 37 personal appearances. Mr. Cunningham's speaking tour is being sponsored by the Idaho Allied Civic Forces.

VA receives the application, (2) the date the veteran enters training (as certified by the school or training establishment) (3) the date the course is approved by the state approving agency.

Q When will the allowance start for a veteran who has filed his application with his school?
A. In that case, the starting date will be the date the school certifies that the veteran entered training. This applies only if the VA receives the veteran's application from the school within 15 days from the time he begins training.

Handicap Bowling

The bowling class is holding a handicap bowling tournament, the winner to be determined by the total scoring of the two weeks' class score. Twenty dollars in trade at the Howdy Partner will be given in prizes to the high scorers competing in the handicap. It is divided into 11 prizes for the men and the same number for the women. Ed Graves of the bowling alley has donated the prize to the college.

In a bowling handicap each player is given a certain number of points to add to his total score. A good player adds less to his than a poorer contestant. This gives everyone a chance to win. In fencing, Mrs. Boyles reports the following girls tied for first place thus far: Deana Bowman, 3 wins, 1 loss; Shirley Fredericks, 3 wins, 2 losses; Janet Madsen, 3 wins, 2 losses; Lee Pinson, 3 wins, 1 loss. High scorers in badminton are Bobbie Maki and Barbara Shaffer.

Intramurals Need More Hoop Entries

At long last it seems the intramural program will get underway. But, if some more basketball team entries aren't submitted to Coach Smith, it is doubtful if the long waited for intramurals will ever begin. At the present there are only four teams entered, which doesn't leave much competition amongst those already submitted. For a good intramural program it is necessary for at least eight teams or more to be entered. So far only one service club, the Pi Sig, have a team. What's the matter IK's, Engineers and Esquires?

The call has been out now for more than a week and it is disappointing to find out there is such a lack of interest in intramurals on the campus. Coach Smith is in his office most of the day, when he isn't admiring the new gym, so come on you male athletes!

Four ICAC Players Make All-American

It arrived a little late, two months to be exact, but better late than never. Through the help of the Salt Lake Tribune, we at last found out who made the JC All-American from the ICAC. The highest rating attained was honorable mention and four ICAC football players gained positions on the All-American Gridiron Index squad.

Represented were Snow, Weber and Southern Utah. Ricks, BJC, Carbon and Dixie failed to gain recognition. The Badgers finished third in conference play and placed end Tom Cloud and back Gary Carson. Fourth place Weber was represented by back Rufus Barlin and LeMar Clark of fifth place Southern Utah was the fourth player selected.

BJC won the crown for the ninth straight time but didn't play enough conference games to receive sufficient recognition from the other conference coaches. So says the Tribune.

Clark Leads Wash. JC Conf., Portland State Leads Oregon

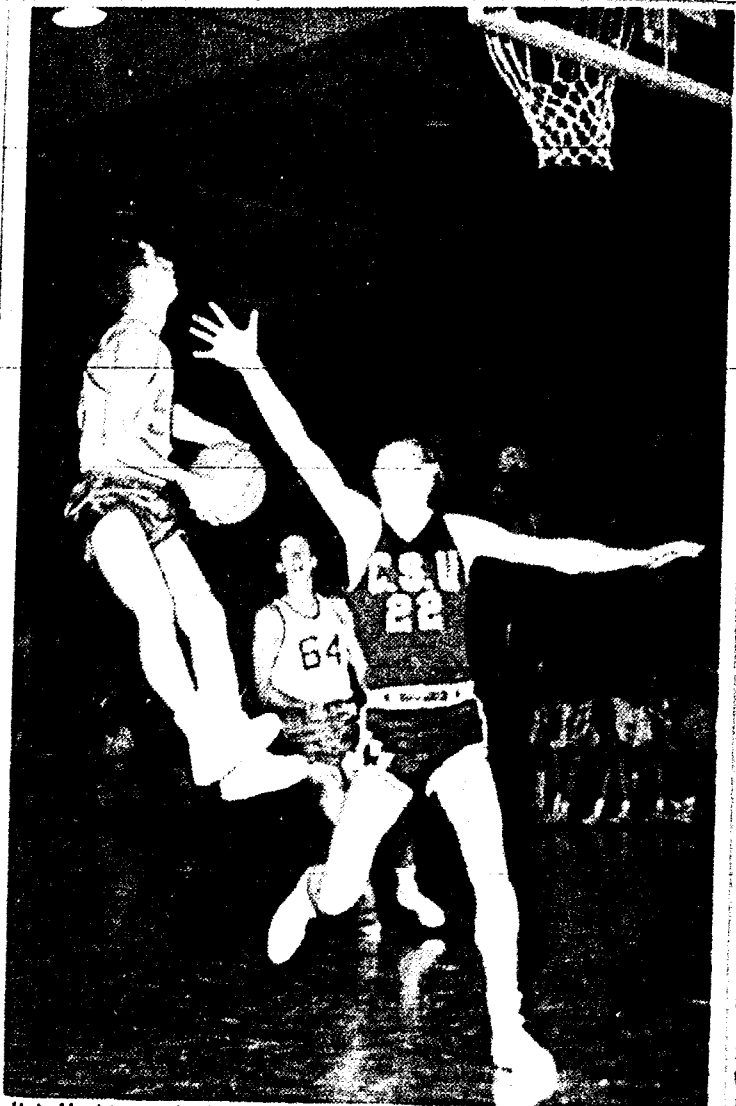

From the reports that continue to pour into our fair city from Washington, it seems the Penguins of Clark JC from Vancouver have the team to beat in the Evergreen state. Up to and including games played last Saturday, Clark had won four and lost two. Three of these wins were conference wins, which leaves the Penguins in undisputed possession of first place in the Washington JC conference. Latest conference win was a 74-66 win over Grays Harbor. Those two defeats were at the hands of Portland State JV's and the strong AAU team from Seattle, Buchanan's Bakery.

Also amongst the undefeated in conference play is Olympic. The Rangers have won two so far beating Columbia Basin and Centralia 88-82. Everett's Trojans lost their first two conference games, losing to Lower Columbia 85-74 and Clark 88-81.

While Clark appears to be headed for Washington's cage honors, the Vikings of Portland State appear to be doing the same in Oregon. They will have trouble from Eastern Oregon, though. The Mountaineers are also undefeated in Oregon conference play and it is pretty much understood, who ever claims the victories, when these two meet will be the champ. The other three member schools appear to be out of the race. Portland State won the crown last season and is favored to return it but the Vikings had better watch out for the boys from La Grande.

NNC vs. St. Martins Friday at Caldwell

Last Thursday night did a little bit of business for its basketball team at Caldwell. The changes in the Caldwell team will be noticeable, to see the new players this season. This coming Friday, at Kirkland, the team in Caldwell, the Crusaders, will play the Rangers of St. Martins College, from Olympia, Washington. This game counter to the story present on this page that the NNC will be idle this coming weekend.
