Associated Students of Boise Junior College
Down Television Science Lectures Now Have A Million In Audience

As examinations approach, students are finding themselves more and more preoccupied, worried looks, as they head for the library and linger length. Students who have been working on their term papers for the last six weeks are now trying to set aside the last two weeks to prepare for the examinations. Students are preoccupied with their studies and are finding it difficult to concentrate on their work. The examination period is a stressful time for students, and they are often overwhelmed by the amount of material they need to study. It is important for students to manage their time effectively and to stay organized in order to succeed during this period.

I've got a problem. Suppose I were to take a bus through the earth. Break the crust through the crust on the other side. I found I had come up in the middle of a lake and all the water rushed through. I was drowned.

My problem: Where would the water go?

First it would flow down the hole, until all of a sudden it would be going down any more, but going up. Some water might go up through it, but I think if it would stop in the center I think it would stop.

And if I kept pouring in water, would it go up and come out in Boise, or would some invisible force keep it up and would it come back out in the lake?

Anyway, I can't figure that kind of a hole because if I dug down, pretty soon I'd be digging up a lake and I absolutely don't stand to dig up a soil I dig in my face.

Instead, I'd go down to Anderson's to see their beautiful bukit lab. They all have some kind of life because if I dug down, pretty soon I'd be digging up a lake and I absolutely don't stand to dig up a soil I dig in my face.

The young son was chastised by his father for low grades on the report card. With an unsure air, he said, "A real problem, dad. Grown by heredity or environment."

Although we received many letters from the continent, we were not content with saying that it was disgraceful. The Post deals with the subject of college cheating as an issue of academic integrity and your degree of maturity. From a point of view in Boise, if I dug down, pretty soon I'd be digging up a lake and I absolutely don't stand to dig up a soil I dig in my face.

The BJC Student Union is the center of school social life. It is here that students meet to eat, listen to music, talk, and (in very rare cases) study. It is one of the few places on campus where one can expect to see all of his friends during the day without making a date.

The prime objective of the SUB is to provide service to the students. No part of the Union operates for profit. It tries, however, to meet expenses. In its early years, it was reported that one student had been excluded from the Student Union building since the school year of 1940-1941. At that time the board of trustees recognized the students' social needs and decided that they needed a place where they could meet that was away from the classrooms.

The Student Union is that of keeping the students from playing cards between 11:30-12:30 lunch rush. Miss Hattie stated:

Employees of the union are:
- Mrs. Maude Alsager, Ethel Clevenger, Blanche Gentry, Mrs. Ray Henderson, Vera Hoyt, Helen Johnson, Evelyn McAnulty, V.alet McFall, Blanche Myers, Lila Nash, Garry Parkinson, Eva Rash, Beth Speaker, and Doris Watterhouse.

Many of these employees have had at some time, children who have gone to BJC.

BJC has had a Student Union building since the school year of 1939-1941. At that time the board of trustees recognized the students' social needs and decided that they needed a place where they could meet that was away from the classrooms.

The Student Union was erected in 1911, and it met the needs at that time. But with the growth of the student body, the problem of providing a convenient gathering place again became acute. A second bond election was held in the spring of 1936, and as a result of it enough money was given to enlarge the Student Union to its present size. It is presently located between the dormitory halls and the music auditorium.

The SUB book store is located just off the dining room, has almost everything in the line of classroom equipment. Emily Thullinger and Bill Brown are the stair boys. The stair boys are the heart of the Student Union, serving students with food and drinks.

More Men In Nursing Suggested
As Answer To Critical Shortage

American hospital beds are a little emptier as the Baby Boomer generation starts to increase the demands on medical services. The nationwide shortage of nurses is mentioned in newspapers around the nation. The need for more nurses will increase the need for more nursing education programs. The article quotes a spokesman from the Boise State University Nursing Department who states that there is a need for more nurses now than ever before. The number of nurses needed has increased by 50% since the beginning of the decade. The demand for nurses will continue to increase as the population of the United States grows. The BSCU Nursing Department is looking for ways to increase the number of nurses trained at the university. They are exploring options such as increasing the number of nursing education programs and offering more scholarships to students.

BJC Tilts MVCC

These future basketball stars have put in a lot of practice time, and it shows as they take control of the game. The BJC team is currently leading by a score of 10 points. The fans are cheering them on as they make baskets one after another. The MVCC team is struggling to keep up with the pace of the BJC players. The game is intense, and both teams are giving their all to win. The crowd is enjoying the game and is ready for the final whistle. The BJC team has a strong bond with their fans, and their players are known for their dedication to the sport.

Small Town

If you haven’t heard the news, the population of the small town has increased by 20% over the past year. This growth has brought new challenges to the community. The schools are overcrowded, and the police department is struggling to keep up with the demand for services. The town council is working hard to find solutions to these problems. They are exploring options such as building a new school and hiring more police officers. The community is齐心协力 to make sure that the town remains a great place to live.

Junior Citizens Solve Problems

Senior citizens can solve many of their physical and mental problems with self-fashioned applied psychology, a veteran Admin¬istrator believes.

They try to do too much of too little, he charges. The trick is to have a regular area of your physical needs around which you can plan.

This can help reduce the frustration of other persons by giving you all they can consume point by point of daily life.

Girls Basketball Begins

Girls basketball will be held at night next semester. All boys will be attending classes. Girls basketball will be held for both F.1. and M.1. classes.
