making livable places

transportation
preservation
and the limits of growth

investigate boise student research series Boise State University College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs making livable places

transportation
preservation
and the limits of growth

- investigate boise student research series
- Boise State University
- College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs
Eighth Street’s Capitol Terrace wryly comments on the fantasy architecture of the 1927 Egyptian Theatre at Capitol and Main. Built by the Capital City Development Corporation (CCDC) in 1988, the parking structure rose from the sandstone ruins of Boise’s largest department store.
Eighth Street’s Capitol Terrace wryly comments on the fantasy architecture of the 1927 Egyptian Theatre at Capitol and Main. Built by the Capital City Development Corporation (CCDC) in 1988, the parking structure rose from the sandstone ruins of Boise’s largest department store.
The Investigate Boise Student Research Series ... the Boise State University College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs proudly sponsors a nine-credit field school for the study of the Treasure Valley. Each summer, about 40 students interact with professors, practitioners and public officials in a storefront classroom downtown. Students tour, investigate and compose documented research papers concerning political and social problems that vex municipal government. Top papers are peer-reviewed and edited for publication. Topics include housing and homelessness, neighborhood preservation, the political economy of energy and natural resources, and the challenge of urban renewal downtown. For information and sponsorship opportunities, contact Dean Melissa Lavitt at sspadean@boisestate.edu; (208) 426-3776.
The Investigate Boise Student Research Series ... the Boise State University College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs proudly sponsors a nine-credit field school for the study of the Treasure Valley. Each summer, about 40 students interact with professors, practitioners and public officials in a storefront classroom downtown. Students tour, investigate and compose documented research papers concerning political and social problems that vex municipal government. Top papers are peer-reviewed and edited for publication. Topics include housing and homelessness, neighborhood preservation, the political economy of energy and natural resources, and the challenge of urban renewal downtown. For information and sponsorship opportunities, contact Dean Melissa Lavitt at sspadean@boisestate.edu; (208) 426-3776.

Todd Shallat, Ph.D.
Investigate Boise series editor Center for Idaho History and Politics tshalla@boisestate.edu

David Eberle, Ph.D. consulting editor
Larry Burke
managing editor
Mary Harbst
student editor
Adele Thomsen art director
Melissa Lavitt, Ph.D.
Dean, College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs

© 2010 Boise State University
College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs
1910 University Drive - MS 1925
Boise, Idaho 83725
ISBN 978-0-557-32324-1

To order copies contact the College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs at sspadean@boisestate.edu
(208) 426-3776
Alley history presented through art was a theme of the 2009 “Investigate Boise” field school on urban affairs. Pictured: Kerry Moosman’s 2001 tribute to the Idanha Hotel.