11-6-1985

University News, November 6

Students of Boise State University

Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
KBSU disputed

by Karen Kammann
The University News

BSU President John Keiser has asked Director of Broadcast Services Dr. Lee Scanlon to seek a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to offset the costs of running the student radio station and its programming.

According to a CPB memo, a station must have a minimum of five full-time employees in managerial and/or programming positions in order to qualify for one Community Services Grant given by the corporation. This staff may not include students whose student status is a condition of their employment, the memo said.

Myers said the station currently has 29 student staff members and 18 staff members from the community.

Myers said she feels she has heard conflicting stories from the administration as to whether the station would lose control to it if the station became CPB-qualified.

"I don't know whether we're being played or not," Myers said. "I don't know how they're going to co-ordinate this." Myers said.

Scanlon, acting chairman of the communication department, said the professionals would be "on board for back-up" and that he did not perceive that CPB qualification would mean any radical changes at the station. He said the students would be "doing basically what they've been doing all along.

In a meeting with the Associated Students of Bois State, Scanlon said he was in favor of maximum student involvement and that there would be some programming changes, but the changes would be ones that "everybody is familiar with," Scanlon said.

Keiser said that, with CPB qualification, students would be shifted from-scheduling and less involved in decision-making.

Keiser said becoming CPB-qualified would probably benefit KBSU by increasing the station's broadcast area, providing professional-quality training for the students, allowing more students to work on the staff and increasing the quality of the programming.

Keiser said KBSU "just isn't competitive the way it is." Two-thirds of the people currently working at KBSU are not students, Keiser said, adding that he would like to see more students at the station.

Myers said the station currently has 29 student staff members and 18 staff members from the community. Former ASBSU President Steve Jackson and Keiser signed a contract which said that "the radio station will develop student staff positions to parallel every professional staff position. Specific job descriptions will be developed to ensure that students will be engaged in paraprofessional or clerical capacities and opportunities."

The contract said "the student paraprofessional staff and professional staff will have equal voice and input."

Keiser said that "equal voice" was never to include decision-making power. "We want students to learn from people who know more. I don't think a university should be legally bound by it, according to Myers, who is an ex officio member of the board.

ASBSU Senator President Pro Tempore Karl Vogt said that if the senate felt the contract was not being upheld, action would be taken.

Scanlon said he could not give a legal opinion as to whether the contract was valid unless all of the documents and tapes that have been made concerning the station for as long as it has existed were compiled in a chronological order. He said it would be impossible to tell how the station could be made to take action and make decisions concerning the station, and that figuring it out would be much like doing a little search on a very old piece of property.

Music professor Lynn Berg cools off in the dunk tank, set up by the student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference as part of Homecoming Week. Photo by John Replogle

Memorial comes to BSU

by Cindy Schuppam
The University News

ASBSU's Executive Branch, comprised of the president, the vice-president and the treasurers, is the student government's financial branch in charge of the student handbook, he has the power to approve or veto any action taken by the student senate and the power to call special meetings of the senate. The president can also recommend that the senate consider measures he feels are necessary.

The president appoints the treasurer and may nominate officers and committee members to fill vacancies that occur or dismiss any presidential appointee given just cause, according to the ASBSU Constitution.

Jung may also serve as an ex-officio (non-voting) member of any student government committee.

As vice-president, Ralphs is president of the ASBSU senate and chairs its weekly meetings. She acts as a liaison for the ASBSU executive branch, sitting on various faculty committees and attending meetings such as that of the Faculty Senate. Ralphs may also serve as an ex-officio member of any student government committee.

Jung may also serve as an ex-officio (non-voting) member of any student government committee.

If the president were removed from office or were unable to perform his duties for any reason, Ralphs would become ASBSU President.

As treasurer, Falck maintains the student government's financial records. He prepares monthly financial reports. See Executive page 8.
Campus

In Brief

Literary magazine solicits writing

Students wishing to submit material to be considered for publication by cold-drill, BSU's literary magazine, are asked to observe the following guidelines:

1. Manuscripts should be typed (or may be handwritten).
2. Manuscripts should not include author's name or address; a separate sheet of paper should have a list of the author's name, a mailing address which will be valid in Dec./Jan., title of the submitted work and phone number.
3. Manuscripts should be copies of the originals. Materials selected for cold-drill are chosen by student editors who do not know the identity of authors until after a work has been unanimously selected.

Authors whose works are selected for cold-drill receive one free copy of the magazine when it is published on March 1. Material is copyrighted by cold-drill (and BSU) and all rights revert to the author upon publication.

The deadline for submitting material is Dec. 1 and selection notification will be made by Jan. 10.

Addresses submission and inquiries to: Tom Trucky, c/o cold-drill. Department of English, Boise State University, Boise, ID 83725.

Pre-register for spring semester by November 8

Pre-registration for currently enrolled BSU students will continue through Nov. 8.

Watercolor workshop offers one art credit

BSU Art department chairman Louis Peck will conduct a one-credit workshop in landscape watercolor painting, Nov. 9 and 16 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

The workshop is designed to accommodate all levels of painters, from the beginner to the advanced. Students is room 235 of the Liberal Arts Building, is available for one lower division, upper division or graduate credit in art.

Registration is now open for the workshop at the Office of Continuing Education, LA 247, 8 a.m.-4 p.m. ARTS 112. Cost for course is $10, $15 for part-time students can add the credit at no extra charge.

Faculty art to show

The annual BSU faculty art show, featuring works of all the faculty of the department of art, opens Friday, Nov. 8, with a reception for the artists at 7:30 p.m. The exhibit and reception will be held in the BSU Museum of Art, located on the first floor of the Liberal Arts Building.

The show will be open weekdays through Dec. 6.

Contest held

Do you like to sing but don't have a voice? The BSU Intramural Office is sponsoring a Lip Sync Contest to find the best "air band" on campus. The contest finals will be held at the half-time of the BSU vs. Mesa College basketball game, Dec. 6. The "bands" will be judged on their ability to "sync" originality and stage presence. The grand prize is $100. The registration deadline is Wednesday, Nov. 13, and forms are available at the Intramural Office in the Pavilion, entrance number 3.

Zinsser to speak on art of writing

William Zinsser, writer, editor and teacher, will speak Thursday, Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. in the Morrison Center Recital Hall. Zinsser's talk on the craft of writing is sponsored by BSU's Writers and Artists Series.

Zinsser is the author of On Writing Well, which has sold over 300,000 copies. He was with the New York Herald Tribune for 13 years as an editor, critic and editorial writer. He left the newspaper in 1959 to become a free lance writer, contributing to such magazines as The New Yorker and The Atlantic. He was a columnist for Life magazine from 1969-1972. He taught at Yale University before accepting his current position as general editor of the Book of the Month Club.

Zinsser is the author of 11 books, including Writing. With a Word Processor, which will William Safire called "the most helpful, humane and stylish book produced on that intimidating machine!" His latest book, Willie and Dwayne: An American Profile, is a portrait of the jazz musicians Willie Ruff and Dwayne Mitchell, whom the New York Times called "as good as any reporting being written today!"

Zinsser's talk is free and open to the public.

Getting a close-up look at a top-notch collection of shots. These supercharged photos represent the very best of the Kodak International News-paper Snapshot Awards. To top it off, the winning photographers weren't big shots. They were amateurs, people who used cold-drill (and BSU) and all rights reserved. Kodak film. Because time goes by.

Kodak

377-1232 344-6677

The OUTDOORSMAN

6987 OVERLAND

6732 GLENWOOD

EMILIO ESTEVEZ

STARTS FRIDAY NOVEMBER 8TH

AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU.

The University News Wednesday, November 6, 1985
Campus News

Center offers support

by Phil Matlock

The University News

The BSU Women's Center, being organized this semester by Ruth Grothe and Sue Matthews, will offer a support system to non-traditional female students. Childcare sharing is one of the goals of the center, according to the organizers. Both Grothe and Matthews enrolled at BSU after establishing their families and working in other areas. They said that because of the problems they encountered adjusting to campus life, they saw a need for a support system for students like themselves. The center will provide a smoother transition for both returning students, and students enrolling for the first time several years after graduating from high school, according to Grothe and Matthews.

"We've decided that there is a 41 percent attrition rate among non-traditional students. An estimated one out of every three students will be non-traditional students by 1990, according to the research of former Arts and Sciences Dean Dr. William Keppler."

Grothe said the transition is awkward for female non-traditional students. Finding childcare to fit a student's schedule, and simply learning the way around campus are major problems for this type of student, Grothe said.

"Although the center is being organized primarily for female non-traditional students, the center will also offer help to non-traditional male students," Matthews said.

The center will also offer peer counseling to non-traditional students, Grothe said. Grothe, who returned to school at 37, said that the pressure of choosing classes, working and caring for her children made attending the university an awkward transition. Peer counseling would make that transition easier, according to Grothe and Matthews.

Grothe and Matthews said they tried to organize the center as a personal project for a semester. They then researched funding for the center as an independent study within the psychology department. At present no funding or location has been found for the center.

"We were basically at the recruitment stage" Matthews said.

---

Alternate TV shown in SUB

by John Starr

The University News

BSU provides an alternative to regular television programming from 8 a.m.-10 a.m. and 3 p.m.-5 p.m. Campus Network is a satellite program received on equipment donated to the SUB by Campus Network, Inc. Twenty hours a week of programming are taped and shown on the SUBs two television sets, one located in the Union Street Cafe, and the other in the Recreation Center.

Campus Network donated a satellite dish, video equipment and the technicians to connect the system.

In return, the SUB is obligated to air the taped feed a minimum of 20 hours per week, according to SUB Director Dennis Freeburn.

Six shows, ranging from documentaries to progressive rock videos, are received in the SUB. Freeburn said a "small but loyal" group watches Campus Network. Most television viewers in the SUB are there to watch the daytime soap operas.

Earlier this year, Freeburn had a device installed on the televisions to prevent any tampering during the times Campus Network is shown because of a few viewers who didn't want to watch it. The SUB must meet the 20 hour per week obligation in order to keep the equipment donated by Campus Network.

Freeburn said the old security office in the SUB is being remodeled into a television lounge with seating for approximately 40 people and a giant screen television.

Future advertising for Campus Network will be stepped up to attract more viewers to the "student oriented" programming, Freeburn said. Other planned events involving Campus Network include a Video Dance at Chaffee Hall.

---

Reported rape cases not always legitimate

by Mary Fackrell

The University News

Only three rapes have occurred on the BSU campus since 1983, according to Sergeant David Stittsworth of the Ada County Sheriff's Department.

Since the Sheriff's Department took over campus security in the beginning of October, one rape has been reported but it was proven not to be a legitimate case. Stittsworth said 95 to 99 percent of all rape cases are not true rapes. He said there are two main reasons why people claim they were raped. They may feel guilty about having sex, but may not have marriage or sexual partners, and this would cut down on the incidence of rapes. He said many rapes happen to people who have been pick-up at a bar and do not really know the person very well. He said he would discourage anyone with anyone you are not familiar with, male or female.

Rape victims are not always female, he said. According to Stittsworth, there was a flasher in the Morrison Center parking lot last month, but the victim waited several hours to report the crime so the police had little chance of catching him.

Stittsworth said security on campus has recently been stepped up. Not in an effort to catch more criminals, but to prevent crimes from happening. He thinks people who think twice about committing any crime if they security is tight.
Opinion

Women's Centers help female BSU students

The recent efforts of two separate groups on campus are directed towards fulfilling the need of an essentially ignored section of the student body—women. Students Ruth Grothe and Sue Matthews have been working diligently to set up a center to assist the non-traditional female student. Both Grothe and Matthews know the frustrations of trying to survive and fit in to an alien college atmosphere. The projects proposed peer counseling, childcare referrals and new student orientation will serve to make the transition to student easier. Grothe and Matthews work is a project is a necessary and welcome edition to the services offered at BSU.

But non-traditional women students are not the only ones needing attention. The need exists for a center where all women can feel comfortable to gather and interact with other women. Communication student Joanne Russell is working to make this a reality. Russell's efforts in spearheading a drive to set up such a place are to be applauded. The eventual plans for the 'space' include a library dealing with women's issues, referrals to other agencies and services and most importantly mutual support. The success of petitions recently circulated and presented to the board of governors indicates the interest of the student body. A space is needed, and plans are to have that space available sometime during the spring semester.

The work of these groups is a welcome addition to BSU. The budding days of emerging feminism may have cooled, but the issues still remain and demand attention. At least, work at Boise State University will have a place to work and interact collectively. When at least half of the student population is composed of women, it is surprising that such efforts haven't been made before. They deserve our support.

Letters

Drug column prohibitionist

Editor, The University News

After reading Steve Lyon's insightful and obviously well-researched article, I decided to conduct a study of my own among my friends. My sample was drawn from the population of BSU and was used to gather some data on drug use.

Lyon's brilliant use of literature every "drug user"'s favorite cliché "Why do you think they call it the "drugs' are made for man in my presence. I also wish to express my appreciation for the excellent presentation, "If you can't say it, don't do it!", which I found to be quite fulfilling. I also wish to express my appreciation for the excellent presentation, "If you can't say it, don't do it!", which I found to be quite fulfilling.

After days of grueling research, I uncovered the following startling revelation: The word "drugs" comes from the ancient Greek derivus and signifies "bad meaning to abuse (i.e. "to abuse") and many people believe that any person with a gram of sense would be likely to question the validity of my research. In conclusion, any assumption that drugs is an evolving word in any language would most likely be ridiculous. Yet I suggest that my invention of the word drugus is no more ludicrous (and therefore unnecessary) than the most of the rash generalizations and unproven statements made in total ignorance of the subject.

It is not that I wish tocondemn drug abuse in any form, but I wish to condemn any tenenti personal experiences with recreational or prescription drugs. What I do object to is the way Steve Lyon's people use drugs to be "club" or "social" kinds of people. I object to the way that far more complex than that, Steve.

Lyon makes a number of points, and I will agree with all of them. I resent Lyon's comment that "Nobody is out to get you or push you or anything. It seems that I had let my depleted personal but nevertheless emotionally draining at times. I think every student knows an uncomplicated task, but that turns out to be frustrated that comes with dealing with such writer. Hey, it's not my department. I am afraid that it is far more complex than that, Steve.

As I See It

Red tape abuse abounds

by Steve F. Lyon

What's big and impossibly full of red tape? A bureaucracy.

In this world, there is one constant; that is something that each and every person loses, gets put on hold by and pushed around by on a daily basis. My most recent interaction with the system occurred last week at a downtown bank which shall remain nameless. It seems that I had opened an account there.

The teller's window was woefully undersized. My four dollars without so much as a thank you

I asked innocently enough.

"Oh, okay," I said, my head hanging low,

I slumped against the counter, seriously feeling defeated, dejected. The bureaucracy

It gets put on hold by and pushed...Buzzini, John Replogle; Steglich, Chief, Schwenk

The paper distributes 8,000 copies on campus and 5,000 copies

Boise:

Karen Kammann; Lisa Miller

The University News staff: Editors, Jason Vankuiken; Managing Editor, Edith Decker; Copy Editor, Karen Kammann; Photo Chief, Stephen J. Geraci; Layout Chief, Ralph Redl Blossom; Assistant Layout Chief, Steve F. Lyon; Sports Editor, Chris Wallus; Reporters, Cyra Dinkelspiel, Julia Tentschert, Curtis and Schumann, Bill Shorty, Chris Butler, Ryan Bloom, Billie Bakay, Susanne Norris, Ediston, T.S. Eliot, Hawthorne, Einstein, and many others that had to make some changes; Kevin T. O'Connor, Deb Manager, Kelly Pentzel, 2 percent inspiration and 98 percent perspiration, stemming realism as a check in life's balance. T.S. Eliot, Hawthorne, Einstein, and many other great thinkers had to make some changes; Kevin T. O'Connor, Deb Manager, Kelly Pentzel, 2 percent inspiration and 98 percent perspiration, stemming realism as a check in life's balance.

Liberal arts isn't for everyone

Editor, The University News

On Steve Lyon's recent article concerning business vs. art education, Lyon makes some valid points, but discounts some important ideas.

"Business is like a business major is a unique learning experience. I began the business curriculum by studying some business books, but I found it to be more interesting. I think every student should have the chance to try business, but I would not recommend it for everyone."

Universities also have their own particular bureaucratic structure. One, I suppose, a little less intense than the others because it is emotionally draining at times. I think every student knows thatTerence, B. Bright, 1984, "Business is like a business major is a unique learning experience. I began the business curriculum by studying some business books, but I found it to be more interesting. I think every student should have the chance to try business, but I would not recommend it for everyone."

Universities also have their own particular bureaucratic structure. One, I suppose, a little less intense than the others because it is emotionally draining at times. I think every student knows thatTerence, B. Bright, 1984, "Business is like a business major is a unique learning experience. I began the business curriculum by studying some business books, but I found it to be more interesting. I think every student should have the chance to try business, but I would not recommend it for everyone."

Asylum, Kevin T. O'Connor BSU student

The University News

Asylum, Kevin T. O'Connor BSU student

"There are many underlying causes of drug abuse, and I find it depressing to begin with."

On Steve Lyon's recent article concerning business vs. art education, Lyon makes some valid points, but discounts some important ideas.

"Business is like a business major is a unique learning experience. I began the business curriculum by studying some business books, but I found it to be more interesting. I think every student should have the chance to try business, but I would not recommend it for everyone."

All the world is in a mess, but thank God we can transcend the mundane elements with creative thought and imagination. Why rock the boat?

Abstains yours,

John Liebrich

Kiss fan finds faults in review

Editor, The University News

To say the least I was quite upset at the review of Kiss's new album. The title, is a bit mind-numbingly left off the review.

I will admit, I'm a big fan of Kiss from way back, but since I got passed the initial state of shock at the review, I was able to find more than a few faults with Laurie Hobbs article.

For starters, she obviously hates Kiss. No big deal, but the lines this distraction is a waste of your time... "Art school trained"... "King of the Mountain" which she did not mention. Then, she could have gotten the words wrong. Also, she could have said "something similar is the album" instead of the album "...it should have been that..." or "it should have been that..." The only drum solo on "You Slice It" has a this... but thank God we can transcend the mundane elements with creative thought and imagination. Why rock the boat?

Asylum, Kevin T. O'Connor BSU student

The University News

Asylum, Kevin T. O'Connor BSU student

"There are many underlying causes of drug abuse, and I find it depressing to begin with."

At least half of the student population is composed of women, it is surprising that such efforts haven't been made before. They deserve our support.

The University NEWS

The University News staff: Editors, Jason Vankuiken; Managing Editor, Edith Decker; Copy Editor, Karen Kammann; Photo Chief, Stephen J. Geraci; Layout Chief, Ralph Redl Blossom; Assistant Layout Chief, Steve F. Lyon; Sports Editor, Chris Wallus; Reporters, Cyra Dinkelspiel, Julia Tentschert, Curtis and Schumann, Bill Shorty, Chris Butler, Ryan Bloom, Billie Bakay, Susanne Norris, Ediston, T.S. Eliot, Hawthorne, Einstein, and many others that had to make some changes; Kevin T. O'Connor, Deb Manager, Kelly Pentzel, 2 percent inspiration and 98 percent perspiration, stemming realism as a check in life's balance. T.S. Eliot, Hawthorne, Einstein, and many other great thinkers had to make some changes; Kevin T. O'Connor, Deb Manager, Kelly Pentzel, 2 percent inspiration and 98 percent perspiration, stemming realism as a check in life's balance.
Mime troupe offers comic vignettes.

Theater Beyond Words will also perform "The Prophets," written by Tennessee Williams and directed by Kathy Devlin. The play will be performed at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 11 through 13 and at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 12. The play is about a group of six people who come together to form a new church in a small town. The play explores themes of faith, religion, and the search for meaning in life.

On Stage

Manilow hits home

French to lecture

Judy French, Teacher Education Professor at BSU, will give a lecture titled "Superheroes: Are They Appropriate" at 3 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 7, in the Ada Lounge. The lecture is open to the public and admission is free.

Calendar

Wednesday, Nov. 6

- Arts and Entertainment:
  - Advising and pre-registration for new and re-entering students, SUB 1-7 p.m.
  - Oregon Shakespeare Festival School Visit Program, Encounters with Shakespeare in SPECC, 10-10 a.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 7

- Lecture, Judy French, Superheroes: Are They Appropriate, SUB 7 p.m.
- Campus Crusade film, Campus Crusade film, Mestmatic Prophecy, SUB 7 p.m.

Friday, Nov. 8

- SPB film, The Wild Bunch, SUB 7 p.m.
- Film screening, SUB 5 p.m.
- Faculty/Arts Recital, John Baldwin, percussion, Morrison Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.
- United States of America Motor Spectacular, Trick and Treat Pulls, Pavilion, 8 p.m., through Nov. 9.
- Augsburg Recreation Association, ski film and sports display, Morrison Center, 7 p.m., film at 8 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 9

- SPB film, The Wild Bunch, SUB 7 p.m.
- Film screening, SUB 5 p.m.
- Theater Beyond Words, Potato People, 8 p.m.
- Film screening, SUB 5 p.m.

Sunday, Nov. 10

- SPB concert, The Gladiators and Yabby You, YMCA, 8 p.m.
- Film screening, SUB 5 p.m.

Monday, Nov. 11

- Veterans' Day Commemoration registration, Student Activities Office, through Dec. 13.
- The Wall, Potato People, 8 p.m.

Tuesday, Nov. 12

- BSU aquatics lunch meeting, SUB Lookout Room, 11:30 a.m.
- SPB concert, The Gladiators and Yabby You, YMCA, 8 p.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 13

- SPB concert, The Gladiators and Yabby You, YMCA, 8 p.m.
- Film screening, SUB 5 p.m.
- Theater Beyond Words, Potato People, 8 p.m.
- Film screening, SUB 5 p.m.
Features

Student adapts to

Photos by Chris Butler
to handicapped life

by Cindy Scheppe
The University News

BSU senior Dana Gover has been confined to a wheelchair since her neck was broken and her spinal cord partially severed in a car accident near LaGrange, Ore., in 1979.

When she moved to Boise to attend BSU, Gover was initially self-conscious. "I felt as if everyone was always staring at me," she said. She avoided going out in public as much as possible. "I felt strange and unlike me," she said.

"My first day at BSU was terrible. My mother came along to help. We got lost, I was late to classes, and two of them weren't accessible," she said.

Learning where curb cuts, ramps and elevators are located "takes time," Gover said. Inaccessible areas still exist at BSU, including the second floor of the School of Health Science Building and the second floor of the Music Building, as well as several of the small surrounding annexes.

Some bathrooms, such as the women's room on the first floor of the Science Building have not been adapted for wheelchairs and the ramps in front of the Business Building are too steep to meet present codes.

Gover said doors are often difficult to open because she has to get close enough to reach the handle but stay far enough away to allow the door to swing open. Then she has to hold the door open while maneuvering her wheelchair through the doorway. "I really appreciate it when people hold doors open for me," she said.

People passing Gover on campus have three predominant reactions: a stare openly at her, some stare at her and then quickly away. Gover said these reactions were expected. "People don't know how to react because of a lack of exposure to handicapped persons, or a lack of understanding. They might even have had a bad experience with someone disabled previously, which affects their reaction," she said.

She said two reactions in particular bother her: being ignored and being treated like a child. During a communication class, when working in small groups, a male student asked everyone's opinion except Gover. "It made me angry. Then I just kept joining into the discussion until he had to acknowledge me," she said. "She is bothered by people who put her on the head and say, ‘Oh, you poor thing,'" she said.

"I've accepted it. Why can't they?" she asked.

Gover said that although BSU is doing a good job of meeting the needs of disabled students, there are a few problems. She said non-handicapped people park in designated handicapped parking spaces even though they are clearly marked. Another problem, which Gover said is less publicized, is cars parked too close to the entrance trays in wheelchairs from getting on their lifts. They are then forced to wait for the owner of the blocking car to remove the wheelchair, prevent those in wheelchairs from getting on their lifts. They are then forced to wait for the owner of the blocking car to remove the wheelchair, before they can use the lift.

Gover said she prefers to be described as physically limited rather than disabled or handicapped. "Those words cause people to react in a certain way depending on their preconceived notions," she said, adding that neither term effectively describes her situation. Like everyone, she has limits to what she can do, "but it's not disabling," she said.

Gover said that although Gover co-presented a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi, the presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.

"At first I didn't want to be seen with other physically limited people because I didn't want people to think I was one of them. I didn't want to accept the way I was," she said. Gover said that if her accident had not happened she probably would not have attended college or met so many people. She said that her accident has brought her into contact with people from all walks of life.

Gover was chosen as student of the year by the Mayor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped in 1984 and by the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped in 1985. She also received the Student Recognition Award from the Association of Handicapped Student Services Programs in Post-secondary Education, in 1985.

Gover co-directes a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi. The presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.

Gover co-presented a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi. The presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.

Gover co-presented a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi. The presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.

Gover co-presented a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi. The presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.

Gover co-presented a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi. The presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.

Gover co-presented a disability awareness program with Special Services Coordinator Janet Contessi. The presentation included a video called, "Who says you can't go sailing in a wheelchair?" which she produced, and was held at the Northwest College Personnel Association's conference near Mt. Hood, Oregon, Oct. 20-22.
"Unlimited access" available for students

by John Star
The University News

Two computer labs are available on campus for students who feel the urge to do some hacking, word processing or even spreadsheet adjusting. The labs are located in room 207 of the Business Building and room 421 of the Education Building. They are available to BSU students, faculty and staff with identification.

"Students here at BSU are lucky in that they have pretty much unlimited access to these resources," according to Manager of User Services and the Data Center Angus McDonald. He said he feels the access fosters an environment in which students can explore and learn about computers.

The use of the computer labs is free, but users need to buy their own floppy disks, which cost about $3, on which to store data. Some software instruction is available through tutorials on particular software packages, according to Frank Powell, manager of the Education Building's computer lab. He said the software available in his lab includes Wordstar, Logo, language packages (for programming), Lotus 1-2-3 and PFS Write (for Apple IIe and IBM personal computers).

Some software instruction is open 7:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 7:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Fridays, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturdays and 1 p.m.-9 p.m. Sundays. The lab in the Business Building is open 7 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 7 a.m.-6 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturdays; and 1 p.m.-9 p.m. Sundays.

Ten student employees work in the lab in the Education Building. McDonald said that, while they can not answer all questions users might ask, they try to "keep as much expertise as possible" in order to help students.

Powell said that help is available for students who want to learn to use the PFS Word Processing Program, but that they need to be fairly familiar with computers before attempting to compute on their own.

Larry Sands, Coordinator of Micro-Computer Resources for the College of Business, said he believes students need to be "computer-wise" and that the 43 IBM personal computers available in the lab give them "computer knowledge they are going to need, especially for word processing and accounting."

A data processing club called DPMA offers two-hour classes each semester on how to use spreadsheet software.

Executive

Continued from page 1.

cial reports for submission to the senate. The treasurer also assists the president with the preparation of the annual budget message which the president delivers to the student senate.

Jung and Ralphs were elected to their positions in the spring semester of 1984 the first joint executive ticket. Previously, the ASBSU president and vice-president had run separately. In order to lessen possible conflicts between elected officials who have to work closely together, but might have conflicting views, last year's senate made the requirement that candidates for ASBSU president and vice-president run together in pairs, Ralphs said.

Falck was selected for his position by the ASBSU president. A committee chaired by the vice president and made up of the Dean of the College of Business, the Chair of the Department of Accounting and two senators submitted a list of qualified applicants to the president, who appointed one of the candidates treasurer. The appointment was approved by the student senate.

The executive officers all have one-year terms. A student may serve more than one term, if re-elected or reappointed. Elected ASBSU officials may be removed from office through impeachment, which requires a majority of student senate, or through recall elections with a two-thirds majority of BSU's associated students.
Moran kicks to homecoming victory
Broncos take ISU, 29-15

by Chris Walton
The University News

Junior placekicker Roberto Moran booted his way into Bronco football immortality Saturday, tying a BSU, Big Sky Conference and NCAA Division I-AA record with five field goals in a clutch conference victory over ISU.

The Broncos' 29-15 win leaves them with a 4-4 conference record (5-3 overall) while the University of Nevada-Reno holds a 5-1 record and the U of I a 4-1 tally.

Victories over the University of Montana and the U of I in the next three weeks would leave BSU in first place in the conference and produce an automatic berth in the NCAA playoffs.

Junior quarterback Haeen Chantras, who completed 19 of 30 passes for 246 yards, completed five passes in the first scoring drive. Moran climaxed the drive with a 20-yard field goal for a 3-0 Bronco lead, then missed a 41-yard attempt later in the quarter.

ISU's first score was a 38-yard field goal by Ron Weimann with 12:08 left in the half. ISU ran 17 plays in the next drive, using up eight minutes four seconds. Moran's second scoring kick, a 32-yarder, went under 10 second remaining in the half, Rom Love made a fair catch on a short punt at the ISU 32, and communication breaks down on the next play to end the half with a 4-3 BSU lead.

BSU tailback, Jos Francis scores a touchdown. Photo by John Replinger

ISU then hit the comeback trail when linebacker Anthony Delaney blocked Tom Schimmer's point attempt in BSU territory. Four plays later, ISU quarterback Roggy Pflug tossed a 32-yard pass to senior wide receiver Tad Pearson. The Bengals then tied for a two-point conversion, but were unsuccessful in a pass play. With 2:04 left in the game, Moran kicked his record-tying 42-yard field goal for a 22-9 lead.

Following the kickoff, Pflug threw two incomplete passes, then dropped back and threw an interception to ISU linebacker Jim Ellis, who ran 24 yards for a touchdown and a 29-9 lead.

In the last minute, Pflug lifted an eight-yard touchdown pass to tight end Larry Wobig, and again the two-point conversion was unsuccessful. The loss dropped ISU to 5-3 for the season with a 3-2 conference record. BSU now leads ISU 16-2 in the all-time series.

Pflug, the Bengals' third-string quarterback, was forced to play the entire fourth quarter after Vern Harris and Geo Marini left with injuries.

For the Bronco defense, which held the Bengals to 38 total yards rushing, Mike Dolby had 12 tackles, followed by Ellis with nine and Robert Bloe with seven.

Kwiatkowski, Dolby and Markus Koch each had two sacks, while Kwiatkowski, Ellis, Kevin Edmundson and Lance Sellers each intercepted one pass.

For the offense, Francis rushed for 141 yards and Chantras had 34. Ferguson was the leading pass receiver for BSU with five catches and 85 yards.

Since the game was noted as both the homecoming game and the hall of fame game, the halftime activities included the induction of five Idahoans into the ISU sports hall of fame.

Inductees included football player Doug Scott, John Smith and Dee Pickert (also the 1985 world champion rodeo cowboy), wrestler Dave Chandler and baseball player Pat House.

The Broncos meet the University of Montana Grizzlies Saturday in Missoula, Mont. Kickoff is set for 1 p.m.
Help Wanted

Thinking of taking some time off from school? We need MOTHER'S HELPERS. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. Room, board and salary included. 914-273-1626.

$60.00 PER HUNDRED PAID for remailing letters from home! Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for information/application. Associates, Box 95-B, Roselle, NJ. 07203.

$10-$50. Weekly. Mail Circulars! No quotas! Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope: Success, P.O. Box 470, Cedar, Woodstock, IL 60098.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share 3 bdrm. house. $160/mo or 900/weekly. Contact Don at 385-3205 or come by 820 West Franklin.

BARSTENDER, evenings, 25 to 30 hours per week, apply in person at Mr. Q's, Curtis and Fairview. Experienced only.

Services

All University personnel—If the TSA you want is not, qualified on campus, have your representative call us 345-4173.

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Term papers, resumes, letters, etc. Word processing. Call Sue, The Finished Product, 343-7820.

Travel

TRAVELING TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA THIS HOLIDAY? If you have room to carry boxes, I will be willing to help pay some of your expenses. Call Randy collect 619-489-5825, MWF.

Pregnant? Need help?

Free pregnancy test BIRTHRIGHT 342-1898

All help is confidential & free

The Laundry Bag

a nice, clean place to do your laundry!

dollar change available

soap, bleach, fabric softer

washing machines

(any money lost in machines is cheerfully refunded)

Open Daily 7:30 am - 10:00 pm.

now with FM stereo

Sarah Rachel

485 Main Street in the Belgravia Bldg.

$15 off on contemporary, patterned, angora blend vests and sweaters bring in this coupon to receive your discount

STARTS FRIDAY NOVEMBER 8th

AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU
Graduate to a higher degree of calling convenience.

Now you can charge long distance phone calls easily, even though you don’t have phone service in your name.

Introducing the Toll-Only Calling Card from Mountain Bell.

With this special card, you won’t need a pocketful of change to make a call from a pay phone. And you can forget the hassle of having to call collect or billing a third party—on all the long distance and local calls you make.

No other calling card offers you the convenience and range of service this card offers. With the Toll-Only Calling Card, you can call from anywhere, at any time, to any place inside and outside your long distance calling area.

Better still, you’ll be billed separately for your calls. That means you can call whenever the spirit moves you, and pay for the call at a later date. And save yourself and your roommates a lot of time and trouble trying to figure out who owes what on the monthly phone bill.

For more information about the Toll-Only Calling Card,* call your local Mountain Bell business office. Find out how you can enjoy a higher degree of calling convenience than you ever knew before.

*Subject to a one-time charge plus a credit verification and or a security deposit. The security deposit is refundable after one year with good credit.