Paintings of Lewis Peck Displayed

In One-Man Show of Idaho Landscapes

Exhibiting paintings of Idaho landscapes at the Fitchman Galleries until March 25, is Louis Peck, head of the BJC Art Department.

"About half of the 36 pieces in the show demonstrate a new representation in the low-keyed winter colors of the Idaho hills," Mr.
Peck explained. "I have tried to represent the feeling of the strange, hunting, lonely kind of beauty that is so often overlooked in the quest for the bold, flamboyant color of summer and fall."

Some of his paintings are done in oil paint, a media which Peck describes as a "fast-drying water base plastic that is opaque, resembles oil in appearance and can be handled with the rapid fluidity of color water," Mr.
Peck emphasized that in this show an attempt has been made to show a feeling of reality, yet without

BUILDING COLLEGE TRADITION

Traditions on the Boise Junior College campus are constantly in a state of change. A student on two-year college campuses do not have the ability to establish customs and practices of long standing. The needs of the students change as does the appearance of the campus. We are told that students now are taking a more serious attitude toward college. "Joe College" activities are becoming fewer and fewer.

New projects now being developed by students, such as the Boise Junior College Student Council and the new campus store, are working in an effort to push us toward a new "B-J College" atmosphere that is reflected in our "TJ" student newspaper. This is a true reflection of the student's changing attitude toward college activity.

Every year, the student body and the many clubs and organizations take part in traditions on the Boise Junior College campus. This year, the traditions include the Tau Alpha Pi Hobo March, the Valkyrie Book, and the traditional BJC service club lunch. "Joe College" activities are becoming more important as they are reflected in the student's changing attitude toward college activity.

It is going to be an early Easter this year, and probably a chilly one. The spring coat will be in style to keep off any Easter coat. Ask the salesmen. They will know what to recommend for you. Easter coats, like all others, are sold in the Boise MARCH. A popular model with a coat and a dress. It is worn with a coat and a dress. It is a good investment for the money. It is not too expensive.

The Boise MARCH handles a lot of all-weather coats. These are not only just raincoats, but are all the same name implies. For the particular coat that wants an "Easter Coat" which she ran on through snow for school, dates, fun and semi-dress; in rain or snow, you can buy the coat for the price you are looking for. Check with the salesmen experts at BIC MARCH for YOUR all-weather coat.

Probably the cutest, most popular coat in the past department is by Debut. These coats are designed for young women on the run and are worn by them. Incidentally, you have seen Jan Wilson in her pink baby-doll Debut? Now, there's a girl with style!

Boise State will begin one of the few cross-country seasons at BIC this spring, by working under Lee Hodges, one of the top Boise State basketball players of this fall, and the top wrestler in the field, is the state champion track team at Borah where he specialized in the pole vault.

Lee Blackburn, from Emmett's state champion relay team last year, will give BIC support in the half mile, as will the Zink, George Washburn, running the 4th, and Warren Carpenter as the mile, all so will add needed strength.
