THE SPRING SILLY SEASON

Ho hum, yaas. Here we go again. The yearly silly season's here. Really, don't jests have anything better to do than to run around the campus in rags with red pennant and dubFel. What are they trying to dress up is this tradition of the service clubs on future members. It doesn't seem to matter whether the jokes are really amusing or not. We all seem to enjoy the jests, even when we don't laugh at them. And how funny that the police don't find anything wrong about it.

We'll have a few extra dollars somehow locating them—those chairs are too hard and packed too closely. They complain along with a renewed sense of being. new sight and stimulus; more about the quality of the physical plant than the quality of knowledge. The winds of the northwest tore through the college campus, and the cliche) boys will be boys. However, this time there is no objection to this form of entertainment. "Shack up and relax," found it necessary to move into a room about a directions shop. The chairs were tall, sturdy, and comfortable. They complained about the crowding, and refused to take a 7.45 class or one in the afternoon.

It seems we are regressing. The campus is full of people with perverted lips; It seems we are regressing, the student government. It seems we are regressing, the student government. It seems we are regressing, the student government.

BARNETT, C. H. (Chairman) called a meeting of the student government, in the Student Union, at a motion of the crowd. Mr. Barnett had made a special effort to come to the meeting. The SPRING SILLY SEASON

No hum, yawn. Here we go again! The yearly silly season is here. Really, don't pledge have anything better to do than to run around the campus in corn mazes? How embarrassing! I think this is impressing the tradition of the service clubs on future members, but such things are rather unbecoming don't you think? Oh well, in spite of the inconvienence this causes the students, the papers are not brushing winning any effort has been on file with student government, this effort will be recognized, though expensive. I wonder if any family members feel it is imposing and definitely out of place in their classroom.

Really, this type of having went on university campuses 25 years ago. It seems we are reverting. Fun is fun, and most of the time there is no objection to this form of entertainment, and the children delight, often annoying effect it has on fellow students. This effort will be recognized, though expensive. I wonder if any family members feel it is imposing and definitely out of place in their classroom.

THE BON MARCHE

Easter is upon us. Naturally, you already have your Easter ensemble and must. Okay, we've been over the essentials that are in such a huge variety. Here's a checklist of things that you definitely do not want to forget:

Hair and Handbag. Are they right? Do they match? BON MARCHE selections of shoes and bags are great.

Self. Better have an extra. Unless you have Camelback legs the BON MARCHE. They won't mend and you won't need a overhaul at all.

203-11th.- If you haven't found one that suits you pretty yet, wait a bit. Go to the BON and find the one you were looking for over there. If a hat isn't complete with your outfit, a man-made new color-coordinated scarf to perfect in one of wind.

Pillow. If you are going to take a breath of spring you must buy the fragrance too. Domestics expect at the Bon Marche to tell you that event that is right for you.
Baseball, Track Initiate Season

Baseball and track will kickoff on Friday, March 27th and Saturday, April 4th, respectively. The BJC baseball players will crack the schedule here against Idaho State University. The cinder court under the direction of Coach Ray Lewis, will start with an Invitational a week later with Eastern Oregon, Northwest Nazarene College, College of Idaho, and possibly Treasure Valley Community College participating.

Now that the basketball season has run its course, it is time to relax the school spirit that was built up during the latter part of the year, the cheerleaders urge. "Let's not let the spring sports down," they say. "There is no reason why the student body should let's get out and support spring sports," Judges Will be Bud Godby and Chris Raphael club has joined the national Interscholastic Rodeo Association. The rodeo is sponsored by the Jerome Chamber of Commerce and an invitation to compete.

Basketball.Saga Foods manager, Tom Widen- house, started the Saga Foods manager, Tom Widens. It seems that BJC Junior College men are finally beginning to catch on to the touch of spring in the air. However, out of 1,000 students that hung the campus of Brownland those 50 students are just a small part.
