CADET TEACHERS

"We strive for quality, not numbers", states Norman B. Adkison, head of the Department of Education and Psychology. "The Boise Junior College offers a two-year course in the training of elementary teachers, under the school laws of Idaho and the approval of the State Board of Education. Upon completion of the required course, graduates of this department receive State Elementary Certificates and the title of Associate in Education."

Teachers in this course have for their training school the unexcelled opportunities afforded by the Boise School system and here, under normal conditions, with the best supervision, these cadet teachers combine theory with practice. The kind cooperation of Superintendent W. D. Vincent and Elementary Supervisor Laura Brenn, and the highly qualified teachers of the Boise system make this ideal condition possible.

Even though this department has been in operation only a few years its graduates are holding the most responsible positions in the elementary schools of the state. They are being advanced and promoted and are assuming positions of leadership that indicate good background and high training standards. The Boise Junior College demands better training in English, the social sciences, and child psychology, and the results are very satisfactory.

"It is my earnest desire and conviction that the Boise Junior College will not add any teachers to the profession who are not superior in character, knowledge, the understanding of children, and in actual teacher practice", says Adkison.
