

Acknowledgments

I wish to express my gratitude to a number of people who helped make this dictionary possible. Although I assume responsibility for any shortcomings it might have, these people deserve credit for its merits. I thank:

-- Thomas W. Larsen, who read a preliminary draft and provided many insightful and needed critical comments on virtually every page;

-- Rose Anne White of UC Press and anonymous referees, who read portions of preliminary drafts making important corrections and criticisms;

-- The entire Tümpisa Shoshone tribe, who generously taught me all I know about their language; in this regard, I especially want to express my gratitude to the late Mamie Boland, who displayed endless patience with my thickheadedness, and to Mrs. Juanita Landis, who helped me check many details;

-- Members of my family, Victoria, Nicolas, and Veronica, whose love and support kept me going.