The 1956 edition of LES BOIS was entered in competition with the Columbia Scholastic Press Association critique and was awarded a second place certificate. This was the first book to be entered. The 1957 edition took a second place also.

Last year the yearbook, edited by Jan Obenauer with Jean Robinette as her assistant, received a first place certificate and attained 904 points out of a possible 1000.

Factors taken into consideration in making the award are: idea of book, layout, editorial coverage, photography, engraving, printing, paper stock and binding.

Wisdom is Like a Dam...

The halls of learning are ever lengthening, for in this year 1959 they reach from the dawn of time to the very threshold of outer space.

But wisdom is for naught unless it is tempered with compassion, mellowed with dignity, shared without bias, enlarged upon with prudent use, and applied with willingness for the betterment of fellow men.

Wisdom is like a great dam. It needs a firm foundation, a good design well proven by experience, and the finest of materials for the everlasting strength required to hold back a river — or to stem the tides of ignorance and prejudice.

Learn well. Build well.
