5-4-1993

Arbiter, May 4

Students of Boise State University

Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
A 57-year-old female social work professor recently filed a civil suit against two of her departmental colleagues and three university administrators.

The suit, filed by social work professor Phyllis Day, charges sexual discrimination, age discrimination, contractual breaches, violation of the Idaho public policy, part of the plaintiffs contract, interruption of due process, violation of the Idaho Human Rights Act, defamation, emotional distress, tortious interference, failure to investigate and self-defamation.

The lawsuit names Larry Selland, former acting university president; Daryl Jones, former acting vice president; Robert Sims, dean of the College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs; David Johnson, then-chair of the Department of Social Work; and Arnold Panitch, professor of social work.

The lawsuit, filed in Idaho's Fourth Judicial District Court April 14, asks for general damages as may be proven at the trial, in excess of $10,000. Brian Donesley, Day's lawyer, said he did not know how long the process would take, but there may be an attempt to settle out of court.

Defendant Jones said, "That's a personnel matter and we're not able to comment on that at this time."
Students inducted into honor society

The following students were recently awarded membership in Beta Gamma Sigma, the national honor society in business and management.

Daniel Stieneke, Swee Kes Tan, Yue-Guan Wei, Debra Platts, Duane Exley, Nita Torres, Jennifer Arnell, Debra Blume, Kathleen Kempton, Maria Buxton, Donna Maier, Karen Geselle, Evelyn McCain, Darla Rankin, Cheri Siddoway, Davin Tingstad, Cheryl Hasson, Andrew Hampton, Ingrid Mealer, Kristina Inskoep, Derek Gafford, Rose Nickerson, Brent Hocklander, Carl Arriola, Kent Nee, Kelly Carlen, David Llamas, Shelli McClure, Kelly Kaudien, Mary Marks, George Johnson, Tami Ryals, Robin Darnell, Daniel Kincaid, Shayn Wallace, Christine Jayo, Daniel Gripp, Stephen Mader, Cory Armstrong, Timothy Mesenbrink, Jeffrey Feeler of nationally recognized book units and winners are:

- National Athletic Trainers Association will host a dinner at 7 p.m. May 7 at the Sandpiper restaurant to recognize students graduating with honors or distinguished honors for the Honors Program. Students graduating with honors are Lillian Brutan, computer information systems, Emmett; Rebecca Cordell, theatre arts, West Linn, Ore.; Lucinda Edick, biology, Nampa; Philip Johnson, art, Boise; Philip Sheridan, social work, Westminster, Md.; and Michele Sherrer, marketing, Fruitland.

- Students graduating with distinguished honors are Myla Batson, humanities, English, Idaho Falls; Gordon Denison, political science, Pocatello; Sharon Gallivan, communication, Boise; and Noyam Hale, psychology, Boise.

Program honors outstanding faculty

Seven BSU faculty members were honored April 21 at the seventh annual Associated General Contractors' Faculty Recognition Dinner.

Nominations for the prestigious awards were submitted by students from throughout the university; winners were selected by a six-member committee of administrators, faculty and staff. The academic units and winners are:

- College of Arts and Sciences—Helen Lojek, English professor.
- College of Business—Mohon Limaye, marketing and finance professor.
- College of Education—Ron Pfeiffer, curriculum director of the National Athletic Trainers Association and health, physical education and recreation professor.
- College of Health Sciences—Kate Callaghan, nursing professor.
- College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs—Ben Parker, communication professor.
- College of Technology—Ed Downsahl, manufacturing technology professor.

School of Applied Technology—Wanda Metzgar, business and office education instructor.

Construction group awards scholarship

BSU student Curtis Holmes of Burley, Idaho, has been awarded the Stanley F. Pepper Memorial Undergraduate Scholarship by the Associated General Contractors' Education and Research Foundation. Holmes is a junior majoring in BSU's construction management program.

Construction management is a four-year academic program that includes coursework in calculus, physics, engineering, business and construction. Graduates receive bachelor's degrees upon completion of the program.

Workshop probes hospital placement

Is the high cost of health care related to the geographic placement of hospitals?

Details in Idaho: A Geographic Perspective to Access for Care," a three-day workshop being offered June 9 and 12 at BSU, will examine hospitals, the population base and changes in the service pattern.

The instructor is James Meade, who earned his doctorate in geography at the University of North Carolina. The workshop will study hospitals' population bases and changes in their service patterns, including a case study of Boise hospitals and their expansion.

Cost of the one-credit workshop, which runs from 6 to 9:30 p.m. June 9-10 and 8 a.m.-5 p.m. June 12 to $101 for graduate students and $80 for undergraduate students. For registration information, contact BSU's Division of Continuing Education at 385-1689.

Book competition seeks proposals

Writers, artists and designers with ideas for unique books are invited to submit proposals for the Rocky Mountain Artists' Eccentric Book Competition at BSU.

The competition is being held by the Hemingway Western Studies Center at BSU "to encourage the creation of beautiful, terrifying, intriguing and ingenious—as well as inexplicable—books which will change, if not the world, at least the Intermountain West," according to project editor Tom Trusky.

Book proposals should relate to public issues of special concern to Rocky Mountain readers, such as race, religion, gender or the environment.

Trusky says winners of the competition will have their books published in editions of 100-1,000 and receive $500 plus standard sales royalties. Proposals specifying offset, computer or screen printing on commercial papers will be favored, says Trusky, a BSU English professor.

Initial screening of applications will be done by the Hemingway Western Studies Series editorial board. The final selection of up to three works will be made by a jury of nationally recognized book artists and architects.

Publication proposals should be sent with a SASE after Sept. 1, 1993, to Tom Trusky, Hemingway Western Studies Center, BSU, 1910 University Drive, Boise ID 83725. For more information, contact Trusky at 385-1999.

Dinner to recognize honors graduates

The BSU Honors Student Association will host a dinner at 7 p.m. May 7 at the Sandpiper restaurant to recognize students graduating with honors or distinguished honors for the Honors Program.

Students graduating with honors are Lilian Brutan, computer information systems, Emmett; Rebecca Cordell, theatre arts, West Linn, Ore.; Lucinda Edick, biology, Nampa; Philip Johnson, art, Boise; Philip Sheridan, social work, Westminster, Md.; and Michele Sherrer, marketing, Fruitland.

Students graduating with distinguished honors are Myla Batson, humanities, English, Idaho Falls; Gordon Denison, political science, Pocatello; Sharon Gallivan, communication, Boise; and Noyam Hale, psychology, Boise.

Construction group awards scholarship

BSU student Curtis Holmes of Burley, Idaho, has been awarded the Stanley F. Pepper Memorial Undergraduate Scholarship by the Associated General Contractors' Education and Research Foundation. Holmes is a junior majoring in BSU's construction management program.

Construction management is a four-year academic program that includes coursework in calculus, physics, engineering, business and construction. Graduates receive bachelor's degrees upon completion of the program.

Workshop probes hospital placement

Is the high cost of health care related to the geographic placement of hospitals?

Details in Idaho: A Geographic Perspective to Access for Care," a three-day workshop being offered June 9 and 12 at BSU, will examine hospitals, the population base and changes in the service pattern.

The instructor is James Meade, who earned his doctorate in geography at the University of North Carolina. The workshop will study hospitals' population bases and changes in their service patterns, including a case study of Boise hospitals and their expansion.

Cost of the one-credit workshop, which runs from 6 to 9:30 p.m. June 9-10 and 8 a.m.-5 p.m. June 12 to $101 for graduate students and $80 for undergraduate students. For registration information, contact BSU's Division of Continuing Education at 385-1689.
Study aims to find out why students drop out

K. Neily Cordingley
Assistant News Editor

A recent study conducted by the BSU Institutional Research Office has given the university feedback on why students leave BSU.

The survey's development began in March 1992 in a university retention committee. The study polled alumni who graduated between the fall of 1985 and the spring of '92. The survey also included incoming freshmen and transfer students. Last fall, 27,000 questionnaires were mailed out, and 38 percent responded.

According to Institutional Assessment Coordinator Jim Weber, the survey aimed to collect information on who comes to BSU, which groups seek to drop out, why students seek to drop out and what services help them stay in school.

The study found that students who drop out but lack close ties to the university, such as involvement in campus social organizations. Making friends helped students to stay at BSU and graduate, according to Weber. He said students who stayed in school also tended to feel that faculty members cared about their students.

But, as Weber said, most students who drop out do so after only their first year, which doesn't allow much time to make friends or get involved.

"BSU needs to connect students with the campus as early on," said Weber. "What we need to do is develop strategies (programs and activities) to try to foster those kind of linkages [to the university]."

The study also found that the "top notch" students of Idaho are beginning college elsewhere.

Weber said the high school transcripts of BSU's incoming freshmen indicate that they are not the "top notch" students of Idaho. ACT scores of incoming freshmen average 18, and their high school G.P.A.s average 2.48.

Not surprisingly, the study found that the tougher the program, the lower the graduation rate.

Of new freshmen who entered short certificate/diploma programs in 1986, 60 percent had graduated at the end of six years. Just 20 percent of students who enrolled in associate degree programs in 1986 had graduated by the end of six years, and new freshmen who enrolled in baccalaureate programs in 1986 followed closely behind with 15 percent having graduated by the end of six years.

Weber said that graduation rates for freshmen who did not appear to be different than graduation rates for white males.

Another reason why some students do not graduate, according to Weber, is they lack a goal.

"If you come to the university with a goal in mind ... there should be some kind of a time limit," he said. The university needs to help students "crystalize goals," and Weber says this needs to be done early on.

The study also found that the average age of new freshmen at BSU is three years higher than the national average of 19. Weber said it isn't a real strong statistic, he said there is a slight relationship between age and graduation rate. He said older students—who tend to be weighed down with more obligations—don't earn their degrees as fast as young students.

Juggling the roles of parent, spouse, employee and student, Weber says school "becomes less and less a priority for them (older students)."

Weber also found that there is also a negative relationship between students with jobs and their graduation rates. The study showed that students who worked more than 20 hours per week had lower G.P.A.s. These students were unable to graduate quickly because they could not take as many credits while they worked.

Other Idaho universities enroll an average of only 78 percent in-state students.

The study also found that the "top notch" students of Idaho are beginning college elsewhere.

Weber said the high school transcripts of BSU's incoming freshmen indicate that they are not the "top notch" students of Idaho. ACT scores of incoming freshmen average 18, and their high school G.P.A.s average 2.48.

Not surprisingly, the study found that the tougher the program, the lower the graduation rate.

Of new freshmen who entered short certificate/diploma programs in 1986, 60 percent had graduated at the end of six years. Just 20 percent of students who enrolled in associate degree programs in 1986 had graduated by the end of six years, and new freshmen who enrolled in baccalaureate programs in 1986 followed closely behind with 15 percent having graduated by the end of six years.

Weber said that graduation rates for freshmen who did not appear to be different than graduation rates for white males.

Another reason why some students do not graduate, according to Weber, is they lack a goal.

"If you come to the university with a goal in mind ... there should be some kind of a time limit," he said. The university needs to help students "crystalize goals," and Weber says this needs to be done early on.

The study also found that the average age of new freshmen at BSU is three years higher than the national average of 19. Weber said it isn't a real strong statistic, he said there is a slight relationship between age and graduation rate. He said older students—who tend to be weighed down with more obligations—don't earn their degrees as fast as young students.

Juggling the roles of parent, spouse, employee and student, Weber says school "becomes less and less a priority for them (older students)."

Weber also found that there is also a negative relationship between students with jobs and their graduation rates. The study showed that students who worked more than 20 hours per week had lower G.P.A.s. These students were unable to graduate quickly because they could not take as many credits while they worked.

More news in brief

Langan tapped to lead management group

Jeffrey Langan of Caldwell has been elected president of BSU's Construction Management Association for the 1993-94 term. He also was awarded a prestigious undergraduate scholarship from the Associated General Contractors Foundation for 1993.

Langan is a senior majoring in construction management. He is a 1983 graduate of Caldwell High School and is the son of Gerald and Margaret Langan.

Langan has been on the dean's list and won first place in the student chapter presentation in 1992. He completed an internship at Armitage Contractors, the Boise School District last fall.

CMC is a 25-member group of students majoring in construction management, which is a four-year academic program that includes coursework in calculus, physics, engineering, business and construction. Graduates receive a bachelor's of science degree. About 100 students are enrolled in construction management, which is offered through BSU's School of Engineering Technology.

In the Army, you'll take charge in more ways than one.

There's an added dimension to being a nurse in the Army. You'll have increased health care responsibilities. And you'll enjoy the respect and prestige that come naturally to people who serve as officers in the Army.

The Army Nurse Corps.

"You'll be a respected member of an exceptional health care team," opinion and counsel will be actively sought and listened to. And you'll have the opportunity to practice nursing in a variety of environments, from high-tech military hospitals to MASH units, from flight line to field hospitals, in the United States or overseas.

Here are some of the reasons to consider becoming an Army Nurse: good pay and benefits, opportunities for continuing education in your chosen specialty, security that moves with you when you do, and job experience you can't put a price tag on.

Discover the Army Nurse Corps difference. Talk to an Army Nurse Recruiter today.

1-800-USA-ARMY

ARMY NURSE CORPS. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

IN THE ARMY, YOU'LL TAKE CHARGE IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE.

In the Army, you'll take charge in more ways than one. There's an added dimension to being a nurse in the Army. You'll have increased health care responsibilities. And you'll enjoy the respect and prestige that come naturally to people who serve as officers in the Army.

The Army Nurse Corps.

"You'll be a respected member of an exceptional health care team," opinion and counsel will be actively sought and listened to. And you'll have the opportunity to practice nursing in a variety of environments, from high-tech military hospitals to MASH units, from flight line to field hospitals, in the United States or overseas.

Here are some of the reasons to consider becoming an Army Nurse: good pay and benefits, opportunities for continuing education in your chosen specialty, security that moves with you when you do, and job experience you can't put a price tag on.

Discover the Army Nurse Corps difference. Talk to an Army Nurse Recruiter today.

1-800-USA-ARMY

ARMY NURSE CORPS. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.
Summer ends busy season for ASBSU

Several other bills stimulated controversy during the year. The first was a senate bill donating $1,000 to the BSU Student Nurses Association to help fund their end of the year pinning ceremony. The second was a senate resolution offering official BSU support for the "Women by Women" exhibit which appeared at the Liberal Arts Building during March. The display included nude photos of Madonna.

The third was a bill providing $750 to the Associated Students of Light for a new wheelchair for a former BSU student. The bill, which passed by a vote of 12-3, was later struck from the bill by the ASBSU Judiciary when it was determined that the bill was a cash gift to an individual, which is prohibited by the ASBSU Constitution.

In addition, the ASBSU Senate passed a resolution against the Idaho Citizens Alliance and their effort to get a anti-gay rights bill on the 1994 ballot.

Sanchez was pleased with some of her bill passing during her term—short as it was. The feeling of these was the successful passage of a bill designed to establish the ASBSU Unallocated Reserve Account to raise money for the BSU baseball team.
Candiates disclose finances

K. Nelly Cardingley
Assistant News Editor

The ASBSU Election Board met Tuesday morning to brainstorm possible election code changes.

Lee Jones said the chief problem with elections is that ASBSU offers students too many polling places.

Paying two people to man each polling place is expensive, Jones said clubs could cut this expense. "If a club could man a polling place and that club be their community service project."

Jones said by eliminating unproductive polling places, other polling places could be open later in the evening. Jones said he would like to see the Morrison Center and one College of Technology area polling place eliminated.

During spring elections, the Morrison Center brought in only 55 valid votes, and only 89 valid votes were cast at the Applied Technology polling place. Some board members agreed that the numbers just weren't worth the hundreds of dollars in labor costs, but one new senator disagreed.

Sean Clontine, representing the College of Business, said it would be counterproductive to start taking away polling places now that BSU achieving such high voter turnout.

Janes said that if students want to keep all the polling places, the clubs in each building could take some responsibility.

Another problem that was discussed is voids.

Of the 1,862 votes cast this spring, 224 were voids. Voids occur when a student votes for more than one senator or presidential ticket. The ASBSU Election Board said many voids could be eliminated if instructions — even in both verbal and written form — were clearer and more consistent.

Rob Meyer, Student Activities and ASBSU Election Board adviser, discussed campaign poster issues.

Meyer said many administrators and others do not like posters being taped onto buildings and inside classrooms, primarily because of the residue left behind by the tape, which over time collects dirt. But Meyer said without campaign posters, many students would not know elections were taking place.

The board discussed whether or not candidates should be required to disclose how they funded their campaign.

The board concluded that the costs would be extremely skewed because some candidates would have access to computers and copiers, while others would have to pay for those services. Board members said it should not be the election board's responsibility to gather and provide the information.

The board did not set any decisions in stone at the meeting, but it is likely some changes will be made before next fall's elections.

ASBSU announces '93 awards for organizations, advisers

Dawn Kramer
News Editor

ASBSU announced their annual awards at a ceremony last week.

The awards given included organization of the year, advisor of the year and ASBSU Hall of Fame.

Those named to the Hall of Fame were Gary Myers for student government, Ziddi Mangu for student organizations, Noyem Lee Hall for outstanding academic achievement, Ann Tilbott for varsity athletics, LaVelle Gardner for performing arts, Marlene Fagg for outstanding alumni, Jerry Squires for vocation education, and Jennifer Sheets for community service.

The organization of the year was Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity. The adviser of the year was Margie Cook for the Black Student Union.

The religious organization of the year was St. Paul's Catholic Student Group. The professional organization of the year was the Construction Management Association.

The Greek award went to Iota Phi Sorority. The cultural group of the year was the Construction Management Association.

The Honor Student Association received the academic award.

For the sports organization, the Baseball Club took home the prize.

Student Productions grabbed the service and special interest category.

The top residence hall was Chaffee Hall.

ASBSU Election Board considers dropping polling places

Todd Sholly and Darryl Wright

Contributions
Harry & Margaret Johnson $500
CJ Martin 150
Brent Hunter 100

Expenditures
200 posters, BSU Print Shop 150
200 posters, BSU Print Shop 190
Stickers, Fairview Printers 30
Flyers, Copy Central, SUB 50
Flyers, Kinloch's 20
Ske, paper and putty, Club Wholesale and Homebase 130
Campaign kickoff meeting, Round Table Pizza 100

Total $750

Deborah Lewis and Fafa Alidjani

Contributions
From outside sources 200
From themselves 400

Expenditure
General expenses 600

Total $600

Lisa Sanchez and Sean Lee Brandt

Contributions
Mujeres Unidas de Idaho 220
Emerald City Club 140

Expenditures
Deana's Wig Boutique 20
Photographer 55
Payless Drug (Galactic eggs) 12.60
Simplot Micron Center 28.35
BSU Print Shop 133.40
Happy Days Trading Post 20
Tate's Rents 35
Waremart (candy for eggs) 20
Misc. 50

Total $354.35

* $5.65 is unaccounted for. We probably ate it, wrote Lisa Sanchez.

Photo courtesy Student Media Services

Top: Former ASBSU Presidents Lisa Sanchez and Todd Sholly stand next to their portraits which will join the portraits of all past ASBSU executive officers in the Senate Forum. Right: BSU President Charles Bueh'r portrait will be added to the wall of presidents in the SUB.

Ruch in turn unveilled portraits of Sanchez and Sholly which will be hung in the SUB.

The awards banquet had a record attendance of nearly 400.

The best new organization of the year was the Teacher Education Club.

ASBSU President Charles Bueh'r, who will be added to the wall of presidents in the Student Union.
Crime at home

Dorms aren’t the haven they promise...

A school year’s crime reports

Chaffee Hall
Sept. 16. Theft.
Oct. 4. Leaving the scene of an accident. (parking lot).
Oct. 10. Leaving the scene of an accident. (parking lot).
Nov. 17. Minor in possession of alcohol. (parking lot).
Nov. 22. Malicious injury to property. (parking lot).

Morrison Hall

Driscoll Hall
March 11. Possession of Stolen Property (firearm)

Sheriff’s Crime Report
John B. Barnes Towers
Sept. 9. Battery. (parking lot).
Sept. 30. Stealing unattended vehicle. (parking lot).
Oct. 7. Theft.
Oct. 16. Battery.
Nov. 10. Theft (bicycle).
Jan. 5. Trespassing.
March 18. Grand Theft (2 separate).
April 19. Theft.

Punishment varies in cases taken to the judiciary. Possible disciplinary actions include community service, fines, residence hall probation, university probation, research papers and expulsion from the hall.

Boll said he believes SRL handles the alcohol cases is that they feel they can do more than just give fines. They can help offenders seek help through workshops, etc. The ASBSU judiciary is made up of students who are appointed at the beginning of each year. The cases are reviewed based on prior offenses and other considerations. The committee then makes a recommendation for punishment.

Crime on campus

Dawn Kramer
News Editor

For many college students, drinking is a way of life. Student Residential Life addresses the issue in a skit called "Life of the Party," performed by six resident advisors at Towers Hall.

"It addresses a lot of the issues that are in the background of why people engage in this behavior," said Towers Resident Director Pete Boll.

The skit explores underage drinking, drinking and driving, poor pressure and alcohol abuse. It has been performed on campus five times in conjunction with Alcohol Awareness Week and other events, for the Idaho Council on Drug and Alcohol Awareness.

"It's a real major sacrifice," said Boll about the students who have put a lot of time and effort into the program. "It's a requirement of the RA positions, and they don't get paid."

A similar program at Montana State, but his crew has really fleshed it out. Boll said two of the people involved have had experience with the deaths of friends from drunk driving and abuse of an alcoholic parent. He said these experiences make the skit's impact strong.

Boll wrote a grant proposal in the fall asking for about $16,000 to put the skit on film and distribute to campuses free. He said it has a greater impact live, but the film will reach more people. Boll should be contacted about the grant next month.

The program is set up to be non-threatening. It is about a group of friends who always party together. The skit revolves around each one reflecting on why they are there. Boll said the point is to get people to think about the reasons why they drink.

"It's a real major sacrifice," Boll said about the students who have put a lot of time and effort into the program, a requirement of the RA positions, and they don't get paid.
Report: Crime is down
But stats may not reflect full picture

Dawn Kramer
News Editor

Campus safety declined slightly over the last 12 months, according to the 1993 Campus Safety and Security Report released last week. But the report's picture of campus safety may be incomplete.

The report is issued under a 1990 federal law requiring campuses to disclose statistics on only a few selected crimes such as murder, rape, burglary, motor vehicle theft, robbery and aggravated assault. Also included in the report are liquor violations, drug abuse violations and weapon possession. Petty crimes such as bicycle theft, harassment and other infractions are not included in the report.

Battery is also not listed in the report. This year there were at least three battery reports which were attempted sexual assaults.

Another problem is that many crimes, most notably rape and sexual assault, are never reported. Also, statistics are not broken down by the different buildings on campus.

The most recent edition of the Safety and Security Annual Report lists no murders, no robberies, 37 burglary, three vehicle thefts, 14 liquor law violations, 20 drug abuse violations and six weapon possession violations for the campus as a whole.

This report is almost double the size of the first report printed in the fall. It includes safety tips and statistics for all the university's facilities including those in Canyon County and other outposts.

Many incidents—especially those involving alcohol—in the residence halls are handled internally through the ASBSU Judiciary and Student Residential Life. These statistics are showing up on the annual report, but because the stats are not broken down by building, there is no way of knowing if one hall is having an outbreak of violations.

Athlete gets second, third chance

Richard Overton
Editor

Anyone pulled over by the police hopes for leniency. BSU football player Joe O'Brien practically got a free ride.

During an early morning, 90-minute spree on Feb. 14, O'Brien was treated with unusual deference by Ada County Sheriff's officer Wes Musser before finally being arrested at 4 a.m. in the Towers residence hall.

The following story is based on the police report filed by officer Musser, and approved by the former campus sheriff, Sgt. Dave Stilworth.

The morning's events began around 2:30 a.m. when Musser and BSU security officer Robert Christensen encountered O'Brien in the first-floor lobby of the Towers. Musser smelled alcohol on O'Brien's breath and asked his age, which was volunteered verbally as 21 years old.

Although Christensen had asked for O'Brien's ID, neither he nor Musser had checked the date of birth. At 3:30 a.m. Musser clocked O'Brien driving a black pick-up eastward on University Drive at 48 mph and pulled him over. When O'Brien handed over his driver's license, Musser noticed the date of birth was Nov. 6, 1972, making him only 20 years old.

"When I asked O'Brien why he had lied to me back at the Towers, he simply didn't answer," Musser's report stated.

O'Brien acknowledged at this point that the vehicle he was driving was uninsured. "I admonished Mr. O'Brien concerning his multiple violations and advised him of some of the possible consequences should Coach Allen become aware of his unlawful activity," the report stated.

"I further told O'Brien that I would give him an oral warning concerning his illegal consumption of beer. I told him that I would not contact his coach, but that I was going to give him a citation for the speeding," the report stated.

Musser requested that O'Brien's roommate, who was in the car, drive back to the Towers parking lot. O'Brien was not tested for a DUI.

At 4 a.m., while Musser was in the Towers parking lot talking with security officer Christensen, he heard a report from a resident adviser that someone had stepped off the third-floor elevator and vandalized the exit sign in the A-side lounge.

O'Brien, who lived in room A-301, answered the door when the resident adviser knocked. "I asked O'Brien if he was so mad about his prior encounter with me that he had to break the exit sign. He said, 'Yes,'" the report said.

At that point Musser arrested O'Brien for illegal consumption of beer and malicious injury to property.

O'Brien pled not guilty to both charges and has requested a jury trial. The trial on both charges will be June 4 at Ada County Traffic Court.

Crime on campus

SRL judicial review statistics

Fall Semester
Alcohol 30 (not guilty 4; guilty 26)
Drugs 3 (not guilty 6; guilty 1)
Lawful Order (failure to disperse, failure to quiet down, etc.) 1 (guilty)
Illegal entry 1 (guilty—related to following)
Theft 1 (guilty)
Spring Semester
Alcohol 13 (not guilty 2; guilty 11)

Drugs 2 (guilty)
Disorderly Conduct (may include physical abuse of another person) 3 (guilty)
Harrassment 1 (guilty)
Lawful Order 2 (guilty)
Official Notice (failure to comply with official notification—one count included possession of fireworks) 8 (guilty)

May 4, 1993

Athlete gets second, third chance

April 21. Petty theft special events center; recovered stolen property
Education Building
April 19. vehicle burglary 1515 Campus Lane
April 23. grand theft West side of Stadium; grand theft 1700 University Drive
April 24. theft Library parking lot; possession of burglar tools
April 26. battery Administration Building
April 26. Theft 1700 University Drive; grand theft 2303 Campus Lane (Towers Hall)

Compiled by News Editor Dawn Kramer

Campus Crime Log

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Incident</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>April 21</td>
<td>Education Building</td>
<td>Petty theft special events center; recovered stolen property</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 19</td>
<td>1515 Campus Lane</td>
<td>Vehicle burglary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 23</td>
<td>West side of Stadium</td>
<td>Grand theft; grand theft University Drive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 24</td>
<td>Library parking lot</td>
<td>Theft; possession of burglar tools</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 26</td>
<td>Administration Building</td>
<td>Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 26</td>
<td>University Drive</td>
<td>Theft; grand theft 2303 Campus Lane (Towers Hall)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Campus safety declined slightly over the last 12 months, according to the 1993 Campus Safety and Security Report released last week. But the report's picture of campus safety may be incomplete. The report is issued under a 1990 federal law requiring campuses to disclose statistics on only a few selected crimes such as murder, rape, burglary, motor vehicle theft, robbery and aggravated assault. Also included in the report are liquor violations, drug abuse violations and weapon possession. Petty crimes such as bicycle theft, harassment and other infractions are not included in the report. Battery is also not listed in the report. This year there were at least three battery reports which were attempted sexual assaults. Another problem is that many crimes, most notably rape and sexual assault, are never reported. Also, statistics are not broken down by the different buildings on campus. The most recent edition of the Safety and Security Annual Report lists no murders, no robberies, 37 burglary, three vehicle thefts, 14 liquor law violations, 20 drug abuse violations and six weapon possession violations for the campus as a whole. This report is almost double the size of the first report printed in the fall. It includes safety tips and statistics for all the university's facilities including those in Canyon County and other outposts. Many incidents—especially those involving alcohol—in the residence halls are handled internally through the ASBSU Judiciary and Student Residential Life. These statistics are showing up on the annual report, but because the stats are not broken down by building, there is no way of knowing if one hall is having an outbreak of violations.
Students realize wheelchair dream

University News Services

Joni Bell sits in his new wheelchair.

Joni Bell, 43, was injured 30 years ago in a fall during an outing to Table Rock. The editor of the Life Care Center newsletter, he plans to enroll in IBM computer classes for the second time. [1]

Last week, Bell met members of the Light Technology Club during a visit to BSU. At the meeting, Life Care Center office manager and Bell's wheelchair attendant showed Bell how a gel cushion and angled design that enables Bell to sit more comfortably.

The new chair is 20 pounds lighter than his previous wheelchair.

Jerry Squires, former president of the BSU student group, said he was encouraged by the coordinator of the master's program for attempting to perform the obligations of and fulfilling the terms of her contract and obligations required of her by state of age discrimination, while "no male professors have ceased to employ with the department of social work by resignation or otherwise over the same period of time." The departmenl members listed were Mamie Oliver, Dorothy Huston, Ramo, Nelson and Day. [2]

BSU Athletics director Gene Bleymeier said, the money was needed for the renovation and remodeling of the Life Care Center for athletes.

(notices) 8 Arbut

Students realize wheelchair dream

Joni Bell sits in his new wheelchair.

Joni Bell, 43, was injured 30 years ago in a fall during an outing to Table Rock. The editor of the Life Care Center newsletter, he plans to enroll in IBM computer classes for the second time. [1]

Last week, Bell met members of the Light Technology Club during a visit to BSU. At the meeting, Life Care Center office manager and Bell's wheelchair attendant showed Bell how a gel cushion and angled design that enables Bell to sit more comfortably.

The new chair is 20 pounds lighter than his previous wheelchair.

Jerry Squires, former president of the BSU student group, said he was encouraged by the coordinator of the master's program for attempting to perform the obligations of and fulfilling the terms of her contract and obligations required of her by state of age discrimination, while "no male professors have ceased to employ with the department of social work by resignation or otherwise over the same period of time." The departmenl members listed were Mamie Oliver, Dorothy Huston, Ramo, Nelson and Day. [2]

BSU Athletics director Gene Bleymeier said, the money was needed for the renovation and remodeling of the Life Care Center for athletes.

(continues)
Statehouse rally protests killing in Bosnia

David Boothby
Staff Writer

Nearly 50 people attended the "Rally for Bosnia" on the steps of the Statehouse on Monday. The rally was sponsored by the BSU Muslim Student Association.

Furjan Mian, president of the association, opened the rally by reminding participants of the Jewish Holocaust and declaring that a similar Holocaust is happening right now.

"We cannot let this continue," said Mian. "We must take steps immediately to stop it now." "We must do what we can to stop the ethnic cleansing in Bosnia," said Brian Whitlock, an aide to Sen. Diet Kempthorne. "Sen. Kempthorne supports lifting the arms embargo," said Whitlock.

The Muslim Student Association also supports lifting the arms embargo, according to Mian. "By asking that the arms embargo be lifted, we are not seeking to kill Serbs, but to have a balance of forces so that we can seek peace," said Mian.

Greg Jahn, volunteer state coordinator for Amnesty International, announced that Amnesty "does not take a position on the issue of the arms embargo." Jahn reminded the participants that all parties to the conflict have committed serious human rights abuses. "However, the vast majority of these offenses have been carried out by the Serbian armed forces in Bosnia," Jahn said.

"Although Amnesty supports all efforts to bring to justice all human rights violations, we must be clear in stating that all defendants must be given a fair trial in full conformity with accepted international standards," said Jahn.

In addition, Jahn pointed out that Amnesty International "is uncondemnably opposed to the death penalty as a violation of the right to life and the right not to be subjected to cruel, inhuman and degrading punishment."

"We must all agree," said Jahn, "that no matter what side we agree or identify with, that the torture and murder of civilians, and the systematic rape of women, are absolutely wrong."

Jahn declared that the world community needs to say that rape will no longer be tolerated in the context of war. "We must all assert that persons who commit these acts will be rigorously and uniformly prosecuted," said Jahn.

"Rally for Bosnia" on the steps of the Statehouse today.

"Let us leave this rally," said Jahn, fully determined to do our part as individuals and as Americans as a people. "We cannot let this stop the current horror in Bosnia."

"More than the killing of the men, I am concerned about the rape of 50,000 women," said Mian at the rally. "At the women's groups I say: 'Where are you now?' People say we have no business interfering in Bosnia, Mian said. "If we don't stop this genocide in Bosnia, it will continue and it will spread. And if we cannot stop this holocaust, we must at least tell our children in 20 years that we at least tried."

"Rally for Bosnia" on the steps of the Statehouse today.

"More than the killing of the men, I am concerned about the rape of 50,000 women," said Mian at the rally. "At the women's groups I say: 'Where are you now?' People say we have no business interfering in Bosnia, Mian said. "If we don't stop this genocide in Bosnia, it will continue and it will spread. And if we cannot stop this holocaust, we must at least tell our children in 20 years that we at least tried."

"Rally for Bosnia" on the steps of the Statehouse today.

"More than the killing of the men, I am concerned about the rape of 50,000 women," said Mian at the rally. "At the women's groups I say: 'Where are you now?' People say we have no business interfering in Bosnia, Mian said. "If we don't stop this genocide in Bosnia, it will continue and it will spread. And if we cannot stop this holocaust, we must at least tell our children in 20 years that we at least tried."
Beta Sigma Epsilon takes care of adoptee

Rebecca Jenkins
News Writer

Beta Sigma Epsilon has been doing their part to clean up the Boise River by participating in the Adopt-A-River program. The fraternity adopted a half-mile stretch of the Boise River near the Ninth Street footbridge, which they are responsible for keeping clean and litter-free.

"We're doing this because it's something we should do," said Keith Hopkins, a member of the fraternity. "We're not part of a national charter, so we don't have anyone breathing down our necks to do community service.

"The river is a big part of Boise, and we hate to see it looking like this," Hopkins said. The fraternity will be signing a contract in which they agree to clean up their section of the river at least once a month.

For so far this year, they have cleaned up the river banks twice. The first time they collected approximately 32-55-gallon bags of trash. "Our stretch of the river hadn't been cleaned in almost a year. They told us in March that the last time it had been cleaned was in August of last year," said fraternity member Ben Goodrich.

"You didn't have to go looking for trash, it found you. We collected as much trash in our half mile stretch as was collected on the rest of the river," he said.

The second time they cleaned the river, April 24, they collected 12 bags of litter. Litter isn't the only thing they found along the river, however, said Darryl Wright, former vice president of the fraternity. "We didn't pick up everything we found," Wright said. "We came across some blankets under a tree, and some cardboard covered with newspapers, and it felt like we would be taking someone's bedroom."

"There are a lot of homeless people living along our stretch of the river, and it kind of puts you in a difficult spot," he said. Wright said they did throw away two blankets which they found which were wet and infested with red ants. Travis See, president, found a mattress under a bridge. "I just left it [the mattress] there. I tried to clean it up, but I didn't want to take it," he said.

The first time they cleaned the river, they had a confrontation with some of the homeless people who stay under the bridge. "These transient guys gave some of us a hard time. These pretty-boy frat guys basically invading their home bothered them," Hopkins said.

"One of the alumni who was helping us told us they were trying to do something good. They finally ended up being pretty nice and apologizing for giving us a hard time. We went and brought them some wood for their camp fire," he said. Discarded alcohol bottles seemed to be the most common item they found along the river. "You really find out what the most popular cheap alcohol is," Wright said. "We found lots of Mudding and Irish Rose bottles. Our stretch of the river ends right at a liquor store, so the alcohol bottles are a real problem."

Rick Bean, another member, said that this summer they hope to paint over the graffiti on "their" bridges. He said they hope to coordinate it with the city.

Beta Sigma Epsilon has made their adopted stretch of river a permanent part of their organization. "It's something we should do as long as we're an organization at this school," Hopkins said, "It's not something you do just once and then smile at; you need to make a long-term commitment."
For many BSU students, summer is no vacation

Rebecca Jenkins
News Writer

White, sandy beaches; crystal clear water; bronzed bodies in badekini; not a care in the world—sounds like the typical collegiate summer vacation. NOT! So what are BSU students’ plans for summer break? The answers are as varied as the individuals in barely-there bikinis; world-sounds like the typical white sands on that white beach.

I just want to get school over as soon as possible,” said Heather, a sophomore. “So every extra credit I can pick up is worth it.”

Heather is taking classes during the first five-week session from June 7 to July 7. She will also be working full time at the college and hopes to join University Television Productions. “UTP sounds like a lot of fun and great experience. We will be filming mostly concerts and plays this summer,” she said.

Heather has been taking film production courses, and hopes it will be a valuable skill.

“Working for UTP this summer would strictly be volunteer work, but I want to do it just for personal gain,” she said. “I feel valuable to know I am learning an actual skill that can get me a job after college.”

Heather also plans to do lots of bike riding and camping this summer, but is most excited about tubing the river. “I love how high the river is,” she said, “and as soon as it hits 80 to 90 degrees, I’m going to be down there tubing the river.”

Other students are going abroad for the summer. Alexa Stanger, a sophomore, is going to Spain for a month through the Basque Center. Stanger heard about the program through her Basque language class at BSU.

“It’s an exchange program,” she said. “We’ll be staying with a family over there, and after we get back, the person we stayed with will come over here for a month.”

Stanger said the trip will have special meaning for her because she is half Basque.

“I’ve always wanted to go to Spain, ever since I was a little girl. I used to hear my grandma talk about it and I thought the language was beautiful. I’m just really excited to go,” she said.

“It’s neat to be that much of a part of something a lot of people know they’re a little Irish or German, but I got to grow up around that part of my family and hear the language and about how they left Spain for America. It’s really important to me,” she said.

Alexa plans to visit several museums, and will even go to Paris for five days. She also plans to look up her relatives who still live there. “The lady who is taking Spanish has gone over several other times, and she said that if you know the town your family is from or their name, all you have to do is look it up and then go knock on their door,” Stanger said, “I guess they get really excited about it.”

Other students plan to spend most of their summer working. Fred Turk, an elementary education major, is planning on going to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to make good money in Jackson with the tourist trade, and since I’m camping, I’ll save money on rent, he said.

 Turk said he has two possible job prospects right now, but nothing solid. He’s hoping to be able to pay off some debts with the money he makes.

Working isn’t all he plans to do, although it is his first priority. “I plan to race my mountain bike a lot, and then take a bike trip up to Glacier National Park at the end of the summer,” he said.

His proposed bike trip would take approximately two to three weeks. The farthest he’s ridden so far is 130 miles, but he’s sure he can do it.

“I could never do it right now,” he said. “But I bet I’ll be training all summer with the races and stuff, so I don’t think it will be a problem.”

“I think it will be a good thing to do just before school starts back up. I can focus on my goals for the next year, while enjoying the scenery and exploring new places,” he said.

Other students plan to go to camp. Fred Turk, an elementary education major, is planning on going to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to make good money in Jackson with the tourist trade, and since I’m camping, I’ll save money on rent, he said.

Turk said he has two possible job prospects right now, but nothing solid. He’s hoping to be able to pay off some debts with the money he makes.

Working isn’t all he plans to do, although it is his first priority. “I plan to race my mountain bike a lot, and then take a bike trip up to Glacier National Park at the end of the summer,” he said.

His proposed bike trip would take approximately two to three weeks. The farthest he’s ridden so far is 130 miles, but he’s sure he can do it.

“I could never do it right now,” he said. “But I bet I’ll be training all summer with the races and stuff, so I don’t think it will be a problem.”

“I think it will be a good thing to do just before school starts back up. I can focus on my goals for the next year, while enjoying the scenery and exploring new places,” he said.

Fred Turk, an elementary education major, is planning on going to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to make good money in Jackson with the tourist trade, and since I’m camping, I’ll save money on rent, he said.

Turk said he has two possible job prospects right now, but nothing solid. He’s hoping to be able to pay off some debts with the money he makes.

Working isn’t all he plans to do, although it is his first priority. “I plan to race my mountain bike a lot, and then take a bike trip up to Glacier National Park at the end of the summer,” he said.

His proposed bike trip would take approximately two to three weeks. The farthest he’s ridden so far is 130 miles, but he’s sure he can do it.

“I could never do it right now,” he said. “But I bet I’ll be training all summer with the races and stuff, so I don’t think it will be a problem.”

“I think it will be a good thing to do just before school starts back up. I can focus on my goals for the next year, while enjoying the scenery and exploring new places,” he said.

Fred Turk, an elementary education major, is planning on going to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to make good money in Jackson with the tourist trade, and since I’m camping, I’ll save money on rent, he said.

Turk said he has two possible job prospects right now, but nothing solid. He’s hoping to be able to pay off some debts with the money he makes.

Working isn’t all he plans to do, although it is his first priority. “I plan to race my mountain bike a lot, and then take a bike trip up to Glacier National Park at the end of the summer,” he said.

His proposed bike trip would take approximately two to three weeks. The farthest he’s ridden so far is 130 miles, but he’s sure he can do it.

“I could never do it right now,” he said. “But I bet I’ll be training all summer with the races and stuff, so I don’t think it will be a problem.”

“I think it will be a good thing to do just before school starts back up. I can focus on my goals for the next year, while enjoying the scenery and exploring new places,” he said.
Unfinished business

As we come to the end of the academic year, a semester into the tenure of President Ruch, one can't help but notice all of the unfinished business lying about. We offer just a few of the issues that continue to foster an unhealthy community climate.

Student fees. The fact that BSU is a bargain compared to other northwest schools does not justify skyrocketing fees. Education inflation only puts the needy out of the market. Not only that, but a comprehensive audit and discussion of just where fee revenue goes is long overdue. We are not passive consumers of the educational product, and we deserve more information about expenditures.

Athletics v. Academics. Will rumored entry into a major football conference be used to justify student fee increases or the shuffling of funds based on the logic of investment? It is time for an athletic dividend — that our large long-term investment in academics isn't about to be washed away by instant gratification.

Parking problem. The flight from high posts expected over the next several years provides an amply opportunity and patience for the mud-speed logic of the state funding formula to slowly come our way.

Enrollment caps. The university is currently operating beyond its means, and patience for the mud-speed logic of the state funding formula to slowly come our way.

Salary inequities. The Arbiter Editorial Board is made up of Rick Overton, Dawn Kramer, Scott Samples, Neilly Cordingley and Adam Forbes. The Arbiter Editorial Board is made up of Rick Overton, Dawn Kramer, Scott Samples, Neilly Cordingley and Adam Forbes.

The Arbiter proudly recognizes Assistant News Editor when we needed her most. Neilly, we'll miss you in Utah. Best of luck.

Editor in chief, Rick Overton 1992-93, Dawn Kramer 1993-94
Feature editor, Chris Langhill 1992-93 • Opinion editor, Jon Krysta 1993-94
Culture editors, Chereen Myers 1992-93, Melanie Delon 1993-94
Sports editor, Scott Samples 1991-94
Staff Writers, Angela Beck, David Boothby, Matthew Fritsch, Vance Griffin, Corkey Hansen, Michelle Hink, Kevin Jenkins, Kay Johnson, John Langill, Katy Kreller, Andy Lloyd, Lily Mauldin, Bo McWilliams, Melissa McPeetridge, Jenifer Minier, Michael Monnat, Chevren Myers, Kevin Mustie, Chris Neilly-Cordingley, Rac Quay, Lynn Owens-Wright, John Skelton, Michelle Summen, Leslie Toegard, Shelly Wilson, Jon Woden, and Wally Kaye
Columnists, Jorge Andrade, Sam Gerberding, C. David Harden, Jared Bost, Louis Lewis, Robin Miller, Stan Oliver, Lauren Ross, Production Chief, Adam Forbes 1992-93, Dylan Pedersen 1993-94 • Copy Editor, Neilly Cordingley • Classified advertising design Corkey Hansen, Matthew Miller, Michael Palachuk, Dylan Pedersen, Jennifer White • Illustration, Tim Cosgrove
Photo Chief, Brian Becker • Photographers, Joel Haas, Steve Kay Knutson
Account Executives, Jay Becker, Adam Forbes, Brian Hilton, Toby Lucey
Executive Assistant, Alice Conroy • Office Administrator, Judy Carroll, Juana Nelson • Distribution, Vance Griffin
La desaparición del gran artista Mario Moreno "Cantinflas"

La semana anterior, en la ciudad de México D.F., murió el destacado artista cómico Mario Moreno "Cantinflas". La muerte le puso a fin un ser humano, un pueblo que yo amo y que, con su vida, lo ayudó a redescubrir mi sentido de la humanidad, el hombre del pueblo. Con Mario Moreno fue mucho más que un artista de cine. Fue el símbolo de las masas populares, el hombre del pueblo, el científico, el eterno enamorado e incluso el hombre píbulo y pícaro. Todo este personajes tenían en común la nobleza de sus sentimientos y la pureza de su corazón. Ellos eran en el fondo, el mismo Mario Moreno, conocido por su generosidad y por su espíritu filantropo. Mario Moreno, en alguna vez en una entrevista manifestó, "En cualquier condición que me encuentre, yo soy sobre todo pueblo". "Pese a su mexicanidad, Mario Moreno "Cantinflas" no fue solamente mexicano.

Jorge O. Andrade

Presencial Latinoamericana

Todo el pueblo latinoamericano se levó con él y llenó los teatros de cine donde sus películas se presentaron. En los últimos años, el auge que tiene el cine latinoamericano como televisión usualmente han presentado series completas de películas de este gran artista. Para el espectador de habla hispana, Cantinflas es el símbolo del cine cómico latinoamericano.

Mario Moreno fue el personaje principal en un total de 49 películas y de una serie de dibujos animados educativos y lúdicos. Cuando en 1965 estelarizó la película "La vuelta al mundo en 80 días", junto con David Niven. En alguna ocasión Mario Moreno fue recibido por el rey de España, quien manifestó que él era un admirador de este artista. El mismo Charles Chaplin llamó a Cantinflas "un genio cómico". 'La Organización de las Naciones Unidas para la Educación, la Ciencia y la Cultura "Mensajero de la Paz". Con Mario Moreno "Cantinflas" se igua parte de la historia del cine mexicano. Aunque la muerte de Mario Moreno no es una muestra del más alto nivel de técnica que los más grandes no tienen la virtud de alcanzar grandes cantidades de espectadores por su enseñanza y sello de humanidad, generosidad y paz. Por su muerte se une el mundo Latinoamericano en el entierro de uno de sus grandes artistas.

Elaine Chafais

You know what they say about college? It's a lie.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regard to the column in the April 27 issue written by Stan Oliver. I want to comment on its lack of facts and truthfulness.

First of all, you stated that "they (being Christians) cannot find a God in the Bible". If you could read the Bible, you might realize that our world is inherently evil, like, perhaps hungry kids, community helps projects or environmental concerns — something which affects everybody!

Stan, I am a Christian, and every Christian church I have been associated with has food banks for the needy youth programs for troubled kids, assistance for the elderly and, yes, we are even concerned with the beautiful earth which God created for us.

Christian churches and organizations have done all this and move, free of charge, without government funding, for the community.

Second, why is it that when Christians express their political views it is seen as "imposing on others," but when other groups do this it is seen as "expressing their views"? Christians have a First Amendment right to be politically active and express their views like everyone else.

If we feel abortion is right, we have a First Amendment right to be politically active and express our views while at the same time slamming others for their views.

I think it is possible for a student making less than $10,000 a year, in today's economy, to pay living expenses and still have enough spare cash left over for tuition and books.

Unfortunately, many of my friends are going through the same process, all in order to obtain a piece of paper that verifies the fact we have "received" education. That simple piece of paper won't be taken for granted.

Now, please, someone tell me who coined the silly phrase, "College is the best time of your life." It certainly wasn't someone like me who had already spent three years in school before embarking on my college journey.

Of course, if I were a millionaire's son I might be having the time of my life.

I'm just too exhausted to call up my parents and ask for a new car. I'm just too exhausted to go to the food conditioner and lift it to the tank. I'm just too exhausted to sort through my hundreds of coupons each month on $500 less than what they owe and who hold down a job (and/or kid), carry more than $12 as a quarter and never even get their homework done. We are the multitude, the mass, the majority of us college students who are in the other hand, I might enjoy college.

I speak for the mechanic who has the pleasure of servicing my bank of tin at least once a month, and the police officers who move over once too often as I race between school, work, home, and back to school.

I speak for the insurance company that processes my overwhelmingly large amounts of medical bills for free treatment of mental illness.

I speak for my boss, who graciously works around my school schedule, even when it inconvenient him.

I speak for my co-workers, who constant-ly have to fill in for me when I need to cram for a midterm or final.

I speak for a student behind the drive-through window who just isn't fast enough because I never have time to spare.

I speak for the house-mate who, even though she's bigger than me, has hot killed me for my constant nagging and screaming.

I speak for my father, who has yet to hear me say "things are great" whenever he calls to check up on me.

I speak for my goldfish that go to bed with me.

I speak for my goldfish that go to bed with me. I'm just too exhausted to open the food conditioner and lift it to the tank. I speak for the grocery clerk who has to sort through my hundreds of coupons each time I shop.

I speak for myself and all those millions of other college students who are in the same boat. They're the ones who scrape by each month on $500 less than what they owe and who hold down a job (and/or kids), carry more than $12 as a quarter and never even get their homework done. We are the multitude, the mass, the majority of you college students.

If it wasn't for the fact that college is supposed to be bettering me and preparing me for a certain future (and the possibility of very long unemployment lines), I would not be subjecting myself to the trials and stress of college every day.

On the other hand, I might enjoy college more if I were living in the lap of papa goldfish, instead of the economic equivalent of a third-world country.

Elaine is a full-time student at the Clarkson branch of Walla Walla Community College.

Coverage of disabled prized

Dear Editor:

I would like to acknowledge you and your staff for the articles appearing in your publication this year relating to students with disabilities. You have focused your attention on students with disabilities who have been ignored by the masses and have resulted in many positive comments around campus.

The Americans With Disabilities Act, affecting over 43 million Americans, is a step towards independence and productivity. Your articles follow this lead and help to enlighten the university community on the issues surrounding disabled students.

We have "many miles" left to go. We have reached this goal and help to continue portraying our students with disabilities as productive and enthusiastic members of our society.

Roger Goettl
Coordinator, Disabled Student Services
Wallace State Community College

Elaine Chafais
Special to The Arbiter

You say college is the best time of my life and I say, "not true." I'm only 20 years old and have never been to college, have never had to work a day in my life, spent six days a week and still passed all my classes, I might be having the time of my life.

Now please, someone tell me who coined the silly phrase, "College is the best time of your life." It certainly wasn't someone like me who had already spent three years in school before embarking on my college journey.

Of course, if I were a millionaire's son I might be having the time of my life.

I'm just too exhausted to open the food conditioner and lift it to the tank. I speak for the grocery clerk who has to sort through my hundreds of coupons each time I shop.

I speak for myself and all those millions of other college students who are in the same boat. They're the ones who scrape by each month on $500 less than what they owe and who hold down a job (and/or kids), carry more than $12 as a quarter and never even get their homework done. We are the multitude, the mass, the majority of you college students.

If it wasn't for the fact that college is supposed to be bettering me and preparing me for a certain future (and the possibility of very long unemployment lines), I would not be subjecting myself to the trials and stress of college every day.

On the other hand, I might enjoy college more if I were living in the lap of papa goldfish, instead of the economic equivalent of a third-world country.

Elaine is a full-time student at the Clarkson branch of Walla Walla Community College.

Elaine Chafais
Special to The Arbiter
Rights don't rely on population percentage

Over the Edge

Robin Miller

Rob Miller

with the average age at death for married men, which is said to be 75.
Moreover, loners are said to live an average age of 44.5 or 44, depending on who supplements these "facts," while married women live to an average age of 79. If these statistics are valid—true—as the right-wing, Christian fundamentalist quotes Christ discussing homosexuals (Where fair, humane, Christian solutions. (Where is passage in the Bible, anyway, that quotes Christ discussing homosexuals)?
Do the homophobes really think that the rest of us won’t question their ‘facts,’ won’t question those ‘facts’? I’ve also read stati-tics that show 15 percent of the population is gay or lesbian. So what? What is the significance of how many of us are gay or straight? Does lifestyle have been brought implied by homephobes—that might the majority set the rules for our part if preserving the lands Conservation money. It’s what it all comes to.

Campus fails in conservation duty
Dear Editor,
"A town is saved not more by the things men that inhabit it than by the woods and swamps that surround it." — Henry David Thoreau, 1851.
If this is the case, then we,
the students of Boise State are not doing our part in preserving the lands around Boise. Instead, we are filling them with newspapers, pop bottles and coffee cups. There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
There is an immense lack of recycling awareness around Boise. Instead, we are
filling the cans and coffee ‘cups.
accept your distorted racial discrimination. We can stomach that and much more.

white ethnicities in comprehensible. The instant you experience a portion of that oppression, you are ready to uproot the leger for that psychology test, compose an extra special term paper.

need assistance, please call me. or their responsible adult before ter-

The instant you experience a portion of that oppression, you are ready to uproot the leg-erning provision ,:,as ehmmated

ers and supporters of the People like you, Mr. Bryson, are the obvious mental fragility. Furtherm~r~, the pare~~l involv- - try, to perform abortions, but it does protect institutions from having to perform them, even if that institution is morally opposed to abortion. Thus, a doctor in a private, religious hospital might refuse to perform an abortion, but the institution itself, under FOCA, would then have to find another doctor to perform the abortion, or be held liable.

An amendment to allow protection for the Catholic Church and other institutions opposed to abortion was defeated in the House last year.

Another bogus amendment is the parental involvement amendment.
It would force the states to "require a minor to involve a parent, guardian or their responsible adult before terminating a pregnancy." This responsible adult could be the abortionist himself/herself. Sort of like the fox guarding the hen house.
Furthermore, the parental involvement provision was eliminated in a House subcommittee vote March 18 of this year. LaRocco, as a member of the House, should know this.

What must be emphasized is that FOCA mandates that abortion must be permitted if "necessary to preserve the life or HEALTH of the woman," even in late-term pregnancies.

The recent conviction in New York of the abortionist Dr. Abid
Hyatt would not have been possible

Lawmaker's efforts obscure truth

Dear Editor:

Please do not be fooled by the sponsors and supporters of the Co-sponsor Congressman Larry LaRocco should have his constituents, is attempting to camouflage the real intent of this legisration is extremely which would impose on all 50 states an unprecedented regimen of abortion on demand.

Kerry Uhlenkott
Legislative Coordinator
Right to Life of Idaho

Cradle-to-grave is grace for America

Dear Editor:

Why, oh why, do they refuse to learn from history or from the pre-fessor?

if our nation's leaders had the good sense to study a little history, they'd know the special programs they are now proposing will not only fail, they'll drag the entire country down. Even more, if they'd look at what's happening in the rest of the world today, they wouldn't be proposing duplicates of the programs that are crashing down in ruins.

We contend that less government, not more, is the route to social progress and national strength.

Look at how socialism is unav-erting in Sweden. Years of cradle-to-grave paternalism brought the highest taxes in the world, and it is now bringing unemployment,

highest taxes in the world, and it is
now bringing unemployment

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Table Rock Cafe
open for studying
May 9-12,
8:00p.m. - 1:00a.m.
for Finals Relief.

Make This Summer
Count With A
Correspondence Class

✓ Take a college prerequisite or core class. ✓ Pick up several credits to lighten your fall class load. ✓ Save money. ✓ Take classes at your own pace and place.

☐ Yes, send me a free Corresponddence Study in Idaho catalog ASAP!

Name
Address
City, State, Zip
Areas of Interests

Mail to Correspondence Study in
Idaho, University of Idaho, Moscow,
ID 8384-3225, or call (208)885-6641.

 ACTORS ***

Table Rock Cafe
open for studying
May 9-12,
8:00p.m. - 1:00a.m.
for Finals Relief.

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Table Rock Cafe
open for studying
May 9-12,
8:00p.m. - 1:00a.m.
for Finals Relief.

Make This Summer
Count With A
Correspondence Class

✓ Take a college prerequisite or core class. ✓ Pick up several credits to lighten your fall class load. ✓ Save money. ✓ Take classes at
your own pace and place.

☐ Yes, send me a free Correspond-
dence Study in Idaho catalog ASAP!

Name
Address
City, State, Zip
Areas of Interests

Mail to Correspondence Study in
Idaho, University of Idaho, Moscow,
ID 8384-3225, or call (208)885-6641.

 ACTORS ***

Table Rock Cafe
open for studying
May 9-12,
8:00p.m. - 1:00a.m.
for Finals Relief.

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Table Rock Cafe
open for studying
May 9-12,
8:00p.m. - 1:00a.m.
for Finals Relief.

Make This Summer
Count With A
Correspondence Class

✓ Take a college prerequisite or core class. ✓ Pick up several credits to lighten your fall class load. ✓ Save money. ✓ Take classes at
your own pace and place.

☐ Yes, send me a free Correspond-
dence Study in Idaho catalog ASAP!

Name
Address
City, State, Zip
Areas of Interests

Mail to Correspondence Study in
Idaho, University of Idaho, Moscow,
ID 8384-3225, or call (208)885-6641.

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Table Rock Cafe
open for studying
May 9-12,
8:00p.m. - 1:00a.m.
for Finals Relief.

Make This Summer
Count With A
Correspondence Class

✓ Take a college prerequisite or core class. ✓ Pick up several credits to lighten your fall class load. ✓ Save money. ✓ Take classes at
your own pace and place.

☐ Yes, send me a free Correspond-
dence Study in Idaho catalog ASAP!

Name
Address
City, State, Zip
Areas of Interests

Mail to Correspondence Study in
Idaho, University of Idaho, Moscow,
ID 8384-3225, or call (208)885-6641.
The Arbiter would like to thank the devoted individuals who worked impossible hours for lousy wages and little praise to make the 1992-93 newspaper award-winning, timely and relevant.

Jorge O. Andrade
Denise Barkdull
Angela Beck
Brian Becker
Jay Beecham
David Boothby
Stuart Bryson
Judy Carroll
K. Nelly Cordingley
Tim Cosgrove
Eve Costello
Melanie Delon
Bren Dykes
Adam Forbes
Matthew Fritsch
Sam Gerberding
Vance Griffin
Shawna Hanel
Corky Hansen
C. David Harden
Brian Holken
Michelle Hicks
Karen James
Rebecca Jenkins
Kay Johnson
Phil Johnson
Stacy Kay Knutson
Dawn Kramer
Katy Kreller
Chris Langrill
Deborah Lewis
Andy Lloyd
Toby Lucich
Julie Madel
Aly Mauldin
Cory McNeilley
Bo McWilliams
Melissa McPhotridge
Matthew Miller
Robin Miller
Jenny Minner
Michael Monnot
Dan Morris
Chereen Myers
Kevin Myhre
Michelle Nelderor
Juana Nolasco
Stan Oliver
Rick Overton
Raub Owens
Lynn Owens-Wright
Michael Palasch
Dylan Pedersen
John Sackman
Scott Samples
Bill Stephan
Michelle Summers
Mac Taylor
Leslie Teegardener
Robert Waldron
Laura Walters
Jennifer White
Shellye Wilson
Jon Wróten

Thank you.
Ceramics on sale at annual show

May means Mother’s Day and graduation. And that means shopping for gifts. Come to BSU’s semi-annual Festival of Ceramics show and sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 8-10 in Gallery I to find a unique gift. Choose from a variety of original artwork by 25 BSU faculty, students and alumni artists. Proceeds from the exhibit will benefit the university’s guest-artist workshop series, which brings artists of international acclaim to Boise.

Gallery I is located in the Liberal Arts Building. Admission is free.

Scholarship gets help from concert

Pianists of all ages will perform in a concert to benefit the Idaho Children’s Music Scholarship fund at 4 p.m. on May 9 in the Morrison Center Recital Hall at BSU.

The concert is sponsored by the BSU music department and the BSU chapter of the Idaho Music Teachers Association. Concerts also support the Idaho Children’s Music Recital Hall, a project supported by students of music professor Madeline Hsu.

The youngest pianist to perform will be 8-year-old Ted Yamamoto of Caldwell. He is a second-grader at Lincoln Elementary School and has been a student of Hsu’s for five months.

Kerri Yamamoto, a seventh-grader from Caldwell, will also be featured during the concert. She presented her first recital at age 5 and has played with the Superstars in Caldwell and Boise. She has won first place in the Sonatina-Sonata Festival for three years and has been a student of Hsu’s for 14 months.

Robert Locke, 78, is the senior pianist for the performance. Originally from Indiana, Locke studied in California before moving to Idaho, and she is currently a piano teacher in Boise.

Other performers include BSU students Luann Fife, Caldwell, Darin Davison, Emmett; Jean Ashman Rock, Emmett; Kristen Kiesel, who lays Ado Cloggers and the Western Swing Dancers. The orchestra director for the famous musical score is John King.

Performance times for “Oklahoma!” are 6 p.m. on May 7, 10 and 11, and 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on May 8 and 9.

Live music features local music events to help awareness

Cheerest Myers

Oklahoma joins party

Boise’s Music Week will celebrate its 14th anniversary by including the first Broadway-caliber touring show to reach the city of trees.

"Oklahoma!" was first performed during Music Week in 1959, the first Broadway-caliber touring show to become part of the celebration.

"Oklahoma!" was first performed during Music Week in 1959, the first Broadway-caliber touring show to reach the city of trees.

But unlike most major productions, this event is free as part of the week-long effort designed to increase local interest in community music events. Although passes to the show were distributed in the April 18 issue of The Idaho Statesman, those without passes still have a chance to see "Oklahoma!," running May 7-11 at the Morrison Center. Stand-by numbers will be handled on a first-come, first-served basis one hour before each performance.

Those who attend the performance may meet members of the cast members. The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical comedy is double-cast in the lead roles and will feature Jay Thompson and Michael J. Reed as Curly, and Penny Walker and Kelly Weston will play Laurey. Many locals will keep their eyes on Aunt Eller, played by Margaret Monroe Sigler (also one of the cast members of "Swan Lake" performed by the Boise Philharmonic Orchestra), conducted by James Ogilvie, will perform the famous Peter Tchaikovsky score. Performed by the Eugene Ballet, "Swan Lake" is presented by IJA Productions and Ballet Idaho.

Tickets are also available for $33, $29 and $26. Children’s admission is half-price for the 2 p.m. performance on May 15.

"Peter Rabbit" fans can learn more about his creator at "Rabbit Pie." The Idaho Theater for Youth performance highlights the life and writings of author Beatrix Potter at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. on May 22 in the recital hall at the Morrison Center.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and seniors. The matinee performance cost is "pay-what-you-can."

Summer is the season for festivities

Melanie Delon
Assistant Culture Editor

The beginning of summer, signified by shorts and sunglasses along with the coconutty aroma of Coppertone, leaves one wondering what could make the heat season better. How about music festivals?

The month of June kicks off with Summefest ’93 (BSU Centennial Amphitheater in June, all shows at 8 p.m.), delivering three of the juiciest performances to hit the City of Trees since, well, Summerfest ’92. The first performance, "Pop Goes the Orchestra," will include selections of pop, rock, folk and jazz—all compliments of The Boise Chamber Orchestra. "Pop Goes the Orchestra" will be June 4-6.

The Boise Chamber Orchestra will stick around for a while to cheer up your mid-month blues. You can relax to the sweet sounds of "Summertime Symphony" June 11-13. "Summertime Symphony" will be a collection of classical classics from popular operas and ballets.

To finish up June, The Boise Big Band will present "The Roar of the Big Band." The June 18-20 performances will bring jazz hits from yesteryear.

Festivals continued on page 18
BSU Radio is looking for a few good students! We are now accepting program proposals for student-produced shows on KBSU AM730. If you would like to submit a proposal, forms are available at the ASBSU desk on the first floor of the Student Union Building. We are looking for students with original and creative ideas for broadcast. Internship credit is available.

Software Makes A Great GRADUATE!

The BOOKSTORE
Boise State University

Over The Edge ALTERNATIVE ROCK

$7.99 cassette
$10.99 CD

hastings
We're Entertainment!

---

Culture

Dinosaur Jr., FIREHOSE bring fire

Dinosaur Jr.
Where You Been

FIREHOSE
mr machinery operator

Chris Lanterri
Staff writer

When we left J. Mascis, on the final song from Dinosaur Jr.’s last full-length album Green Mind, he was walking out with frogs. A quirky, unusual way to end an album to be sure. But then, Mascis is a quirky, unusual fellow.

On Dinosaur Jr.’s new release, Where You Been, Mascis seems to have left the frogs behind and actually writes about his relationships with fellow human beings. That doesn’t mean that Mascis is comfortable with the human race. He still writes lyrics that are insecure and filled with constant asking if he should bother going outside to face the world another day. The lyrics are delivered in Mascis’ typically sleepy voice interspersed with his pseudo-frogs, Tiny Tim, falsetto ramblings that sound almost comical.

The next song, “Blaze,” is a friendly tune FIREHOSE has always had the cajones to have a little fun with their music. And if songs like “Powerful Hankerin’,” with Watt doing what might pass for scat singing, or the country-tinged “Disciples of the J-Way” don’t make you crack a grin, then maybe this isn’t the band for you.

But if you do enjoy these songs, you’ve hit the end of the album, don’t miss ‘em when their non-stop touring takes them through Boise at the end of May.

---

Above the Edge

Miss Idaho U.S.A. and a singer at BSU, will sing, accompanied by Hsu.

The Idaho Children’s Music Scholarship provides instruments and music lessons for homeless and at-risk children. Twelve children have received assistance through the scholarship program.

Admission is free, but donations will be accepted at the door. For information, call the BSU music department at 803-3685.

---

Festivals continued from page 17

Box 5269

Miss Idaho, Boise.

The Idaho Children’s Music Scholarship provides instruments and music lessons for homeless and at-risk children. Twelve children have received assistance through the scholarship program.

Admission is free, but donations will be accepted at the door. For information, call the BSU music department at 803-3685.

---

The other big music festival to hit our northwest area is the high-profile Lollapalooza ‘93. The run-away show of the summer is the Rolling Stones. The Stones rolled around mid-July, and some of the artists who hit the stage this year are Primus, Arrested Development, Alice In Chains, and Lollapalooza Against the Machine. Ticket information and dates for other Lollapalooza concerts will be released in early June.

With all of the great music, weird weather and old pairs of winter jeans you can make into cut-off shorts, Boise’s summer of ‘93 should be a real winner.
MUSIC

Bouquet 344-7711. 10:00 a.m. Ages 19 and over. Tuesday through Saturday: live music by Rock!.

Bravals 385-1223. Mid-Day Expressions at noon on the first floor of the SUB. Free to the public. May 5: folk guitarist Gary Sanduski.

The Cactus Bar 342-9732. 517 W. Main. Doors open at 9 p.m. Ages 21 and over. Mondays and Thursdays are open mic nights.

Hannah's 345-7557. 621 W. Main. Doors open at 3 p.m. on weekdays, 5 p.m. weekends. Ages 21 and over. Wednesday nights are ladies' nights. Tuesday nights feature acoustic duo Gemini. Wednesday through Saturday: live music by Secret Agents.

Koffie Klatch 345-0452. 409 S. 8th. 10-7 a.m. Open 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. Cover charge. Every Sunday at noon: acoustic jazz guitar by Dave Santisioevan and Ben Burdick. May 6: Poetry Only featuring Gino Sky, Ray Obermayer and Leslie Lee at 8 p.m. $2 at the door. May 7: Acoustic duo Kid Curly Fy featuring Ned Evett and Gary Newcomb at 5 p.m. May 8: Ned Evett at noon and Rebecca Scott at 9 p.m. May 13: Josh Crookham at 8 p.m. The Nobodies featuring Scott Riggan and Ben Bauman at 9 p.m. May 14: Political satire by Dave Lippman at 9 p.m. Tickets are available at the Koffie Klatch for $5 in advance or $7 at the door. May 15: Ned Evett at noon and folk trio River at 9 p.m. May 20: Mini dance performance by the American Festival of Ballet at 8:30 p.m. on May 19-21: Splitster (unplugged) with opening guest Joshua Crookham at 9 p.m. May 22: Maria Tindal at 9 p.m. May 27: L.D. (unplugged) at 9 p.m. Rebecca Scott at 9 p.m. May 29: Music by Soul Jordan at 5 p.m.

Mardi Gras 342-0533. 615 So. 9th. Ages 21 and over. Presented by KZ Productions and P.C.I. Tickets are $16.50 in advance at Select-a-seat and $18 at the door. May 23: Legendary British blues guitarist Robin Trower with special guest Soulard at 8 p.m.

Pengilly's 345-6434. 513 W. 6th. Ages 21 and over. Every Monday night is acoustic jam night featuring John Longstaff.

CONCERTS

A World of Music 343-1260. Presented by the Boise Choristers. Donations will be accepted for the BSU music scholarship fund. The show featuring the two Jocelyn Frey will be in the Morrison Center Recital Hall at 7:30 p.m. on May 15.

Boise Music Festival 1993 385-3535. Boise Sports Center. Tickets are $30 before June 1 and $40 at Select-a-seat. Featuring Judy Collins, Austin Lounge Lizards, The Flatters, Latin Queen, and in Rhythm and Blues and more. The festival runs July 31-Aug. 1.

Boise Summer Fest '93 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Boise Sports Center. 385-3535. Tickets are available at Select-a-seat. Featuring the Boise Choristers. "The Humor of Patrick F. McManus." Tickets are $35, $29 and $26 in advance. The festival will begin at 8:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.

Koester Concerts 384-9390. 2000 Koger Center. Sponsored by Idaho Theatre Inc. Tickets are $6 general admission and $3 for students, seniors and children. Shows begin at 7:35 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. April 29-May 8.
SUMMER SPANISH
Five weeks of Fun!! June 7 - July 9
SEE BSU 1993 SUMMER CATALOG

And just where do I pick up an Arbiter?

SUMMER CAMPUS

• Campus School
• Music/Theatre Dept.
• Education
• Nursing
• Business, both floors
• Administration
• Morrison Hall
• Driscoll Hall
• Chafee Hall
• Towers Hall
• Library/foyer
• Liberal Arts, both floors
• Health Science
• Communication
• SUB lobby
• Applied Tech.
• College of Tech.
• Pavilion

Grand Opening
JUST FOR YOU, BOISE!
Thousands Of Videos To Rent

Cafe Ole
8th St. Dell
Christie’s
Dogwood’s Bouquet
Buster’s
Burger n’ Brew
The Edge
The Flicks
Noodels downtown
Retrospect
Koffee Klatsh
Mancino’s
Neville & Neville Terrace
Downtown Dells
Coffee News
Gulseppi’s Flying Pie

Trade In Sale
COMPLETE BEDS $100-$250
DRAWERS AVAILABLE
NEW WAVELESS AT 60% OFF DELIVERY

SUMMER CAMPUS

How often do you have killer sex?

Sex without the right precautions can turn you off...for good.
Look, absence is the only sure protection, but we don’t want to tell you how to lead your life. We just want to teach you the facts of life about sexually transmitted diseases.

You’ll find us caring, understanding and professional.
We’ll take the time to know you and answer all your questions. And everything’s confidential and affordable.

We provide testing and treatment of sexually transmitted diseases, plus HIV testing, counseling and referral, and much more.

So for your own health and well being, make the smart choice. And make an appointment today.

For an appointment, Call 345-3840
Planned Parenthood

SUMMER SPANISH
Five weeks of Fun!! June 7 - July 9
SEE BSU 1993 SUMMER CATALOG

Just Roses
5 mile & Fairview
10366 Fairview Ave. 537-ROSE
Glennwood & State
6162 W. State St. 833-ROSE
Broadway Park
2168 Broadway 342-ROSE
Roses starting at $9.99 a dozen

Waterbeds
2722 Sunset Blvd.
Ph. # 345-6890
Mon-Fri 7 Days a week
TRADE IN SALE
COMPLETE BEDS $100-$250
DRAWERS AVAILABLE
NEW WAVELESS AT 60% OFF DELIVERY

SUMMER SPANISH
Five weeks of Fun!! June 7 - July 9
SEE BSU 1993 SUMMER CATALOG

And just where do I pick up an Arbiter?

SUMMER CAMPUS

• Campus School
• Music/Theatre Dept.
• Education
• Nursing
• Business, both floors
• Administration
• Morrison Hall
• Driscoll Hall
• Chafee Hall
• Towers Hall
• Library/foyer
• Liberal Arts, both floors
• Health Science
• Communication
• SUB lobby
• Applied Tech.
• College of Tech.
• Pavilion

SUMMER SPANISH
Five weeks of Fun!! June 7 - July 9
SEE BSU 1993 SUMMER CATALOG

And just where do I pick up an Arbiter?
There is nothing on this page.
Year produces big stories at BSU

Scott Samples
Sports Editor

One thing could be said for the year in sports at Boise State—it sure wasn’t boring.

There were championships, controversies, firings and resignations. And it was always entertaining.

But now the end is almost here. The 1992-93 school year is just about over at BSU, and with it comes the end of the athletic season.

And when the end comes there’s time to reflect on what has happened in the past.

So The Arbiter came up with a list of the top stories that have happened at—sometimes to—Boise State during the academic year.

The panel of judges included The Arbiter sports editor, staff writer Corky Hansen, editorial page editor Charley Rice and sports information director Max Corbet, and Olympic sports information director Lori Hays.

The Arbiter asked panelists to pick what they thought were the top five stories about BSU athletics this season. And while there was no clear-cut story for best of the year, most of the panelists agreed on the top five.

There were four stories which gained all-around recognition in the top five. The shakeup of the football program had the majority of votes, as the story received three first place votes.

When Skip Hall resigned as head coach of the football team after just the second losing season in 47 years, it led to a nationwide search for a replacement which culminated in the hiring of current coach Pokey Allen.

The second unanimous choice for the top 10 was BSU’s Big Sky Conference tournament basketball championship and trip to the NCAA tournament. The Broncos dumped Idaho in Moscow on March 14 to win the championship and traveled to Salt Lake City for the first round of the “Big Dance.”

Boise State was hammered by Vanderbilt, but it was still a big accomplishment for a team picked to place third in the Big Sky preseason polls.

The third all-around choice was the success of the gymnastics program, especially the performances of Julie Wagner.

Wagner, just a sophomore, owns or co-owns every individual record at BSU, helped set the new team scoring record, and recorded the first 10 in school history with a perfect performance on the vault at the Western Athletic Conference Championships in March.

Wagner also performed well in the postseason. The Brighten, Colo., native won the NIT Gymnastics Invitational Tournament all-around and went to the NCAA championships for the second straight year.

At the tournament, Wagner finished eighth overall individually, giving her All-American status, another first for Boise State.

The final unanimous choice was the decision by presidents of universities from the Big Sky to cut football scholarships to 45 per team.

The Big Sky is the first conference to adopt such a plan, and many critics of the plan say it will cripple teams in the Big Sky against other Division I-AA teams. With fewer scholarships and fewer players, opponents of the move say it almost puts conference teams at a Division II level.

The move is an attempt by the conference to promote gender equity between male and female athletes.

The decision may result in the BSU football team leaving the Big Sky for the Division 1 Big West Conference, and Idaho may leave as well.

Although there were the only unanimous votes, there were others that received more than one vote.

Hansen and Overton both voted for Lidiya Varbanova’s, a center on the women’s basketball team, big season. The 6-foot-4 junior from Varna, Bulgaria led the nation in field goal percentage, and was a nominee for All-American status.

Corbet, Hays, and Samples each voted for another championship—the BSU men’s tennis team’s Big Sky championship, the first one in 19 years.

Boise State, under first year coach Greg Patton, knocked off Northern Arizona to win their first title since 1974.

So there it is. The last word on a year full of surprises and a year that kept BSU fans on the edges of their seats.

It sure wasn’t boring.

---

Club sports allow students to compete

Corky Hansen
Sports Writer

With growing numbers of BSU students finding themselves seeking to expand their horizons on campus, club sports offer a thrill—and often unconventional—aalternative.

Almost anyone could find an interest in at least one of the 15 student sports organizations on campus. But, like most BSU organizations, sports clubs suffer from a lack of exposure to the student body.

"Not too many people find out about it," said Craig Kenyon, a member of the BSU bowling team. "Although men and women each have their respective teams in that event, the women were not able to field a team in 1992-1993 because of a lack of numbers."

"We haven’t had a real high response rate," admitted club president Triasa Ross. "The women just weren’t there this year."

Although ASBBSU matches the funds raised by most athletic organizations, financial woes are prominent.

"We’re all having tough times now," said Margerie VanVoorhees, the rodeo club adviser, adding that the funding obstacle faced by athletic organizations is similar to that of any student organization.

The bowling varsity club receives two partial scholarships each year from the Boise Men’s and Women’s Bowling Association. Team members themselves also donate to the club to bolster the club’s budget, but sometimes it falls short anyway.

This past year the BSU men’s bowling squad qualified for nationals in Dayton, Ohio, but failed to raise sufficient funds to go.

The rodeo club sponsors a rodeo each spring, using gate and advertisement receipts to offset its extensive travel costs. Although club members must provide and care for their animals, members of the community have aided in the cause.

"There are a lot of people in the community that have assisted the club," said VanVoorhees. Club members are given access to training and care facilities from the community, she said.

Various BSU athletic organizations compete against university-sanctioned programs, which makes it difficult to be competitive.

"It’s just a struggle all the time," said VanVoorhees of trying to compete against schools which offer scholarships to their rodeo athletes. "It’s difficult to recruit out of high school." The BSU fencing club offers the student or community member an opportunity to compete and serve in the community. Since prior fencing experience is required to become a member, the club continued on page 23.
Scott Samples

the like than most people care to.

But I'm not complaining. What could be better than watching games and getting paid for it? However, my family did get to see me on ESPN during the Big Sky Championships. Consider me thrilled.

The 1992-93 year was a big one for BSU athletics. There was the football team getting reorganized after its second losing season in over 40 years, the men's hoop Big Sky championship, Julie Wagner and the gymnastics team reaching new highs, the tennis team doing well, and so much more. It was a sports junkie's dream come true.

Like any other addict, I needed some help, and I got it. There was Corly Hansen, the only full-time sports writer I had, who put up with my late (and often stupid) assignments and still did a fine job. There was Jon Wroten, who specialized in volleyball and gymnastics. And there was Adam Forbes and Dylan Treford, who put up with my tardy production stuff.

Plus, I relied heavily on the athletic department. Revenue sports information director Max Corbet was simply swell, and Olympic SID Lori Hays put up with me admirably, despite my late calls on Sunday nights.

So there you have it. The final column of the year. Go home, now take a beer, turn on the television and watch a baseball game or maybe the NBA playoffs.

But get ready for next year. If this year is any indication, next year ought to be a kick in the butt.

Diaz waits for NCB bid

When Ernesto Diaz dropped a 64-63 match at the Big Sky Conference Individual Tournament last Sunday, he left his hopes for an NCAA Championship bid in the hands of a committee.

Diaz, who was seeded No. 1 in the tournament, will travel to Northern Arizona's Gil Kovalski, the No. 2 seed. It was the second week in a row that Diaz was defeated by the BSU freshman at the team championships on April 25. But BSU head Greg Patton said he thought Diaz, who finished the season with a 28-7 record, should make the tournament. "It would be a really good shot," Patton said. "I'd put the mortgage on my house to bet that Ernesto will get in."

The committee was making its decisions on Monday, but results weren't available by press time.

Diaz also has an outside chance of going to the NCAA tournament with doubles partner Marcelo Archondo.

But Diaz and Archondo lost last Sunday as well, 7-6, 6-2. With the loss, Patton said he figured Diaz and Archondo were the No. 3 team in the region, but out of the picture for the NCAA tournament from that region. If they had won the match, the two BSU players may have been a lock.

"Needless to say, that was a very humongous match in the doubles," Patton said. "Very close, very, very close."

The match, which is affiliated with Ackido-Doh Jo of Boise, offers the opportunity to exercise your own personal ability in a way that is not experienced anywhere else," said Kantarian.

Those interested in knowing more about the athletic student organizations offered at BSU can contact Student Organizations, in the Student Union Building next to the ASBSU offices.

The club, which is affiliated with Ackido-Doh Jo of Boise, offers an opportunity to exercise your own personal ability in a way that is not experienced anywhere else," said Kantarian.

Rodeo is one of several clubs offered at BSU.

- salvar

For rent

HOUSE FOR RENT - 4 bedroom, 2 bath house next to college. $250 per room, share electric and gas, other utilities paid. $600 per entire home or just one room. Metro Management 336-4200

TRAVEL

EUROPE ONLY $649! Jet there ANYTIME from West Coast. $169 from East Coast with AIRHITCH 310-394-0500.

For sale

1977 TOYOTA CELICA GT under 84,000 actual miles, 5-speed manual transmission. $350. OBO after 6PM $395.

MISC

YOU ARE ABOUT TO MAKE AT LEAST $50,000 in less than 90 days in the comfort of your own home! Here is your opportunity to get rich. Send L.S.A.E. to St. John's, 1314 Storey, Meridian, Idaho 83642.

TIED OF BEING FAT? Tired of being unhappy? CALL 379-9144

NEW IN AREA looking for people to put together origi- nal Alternative/Prog band. Call 389-6746. Ask for Dan.

SERVICES

HAVING A PARTY? LIVE BANDS FOR HIRE! We play any occasion—all original music. MELLIPLUVIOUS: Four piece alternative rock band, fee negotiable.

VIRUCIDE: Techno-industrial music. Will play indoors—only small area needed! Fee $200 Information: Aaron 376-1689

TYING. If you need your tuxedo types called. 383-9799. Ben Royston rese-

How to use the personals

Here are the codes: S means straight, G gay, W White, H Hispanic, B Black, F female, M male. To respond to a personal, or submit one yourself, write to Arbiter, 1910 University Dr., Boise, ID 83725. They're free.
Adult Volunteers Needed
Ada County Juvenile Courts
Director Program—the Neighborhood Accountability Board
Call Gienna Cargworth at 322-0122

The YWCA, 720 W. Washington, engages Donations! of small houseware items and women’s, men’s, and children’s clothing in good condition
Call Tom at 343-3668

The Parking, Security, and Transportation Committee will discuss the $28 of every reserve parking permit that is donated to the general scholarship fund at an Open Hearing on Tuesday, May 5, 11:30 am - 12:30 pm in the SUB Hatch Ballroom C
Call ASBSU at 385-1440

The YWCA Needs Volunteers!!
Help Sort, Price, and Display Donations for the Uptown Bargain Outlet thrift store. All store proceeds support work for and children in crisis.
Call Tom at 343-3668

Amnesty International meets the first and third Tuesday of each month at 6:30 pm in the SUB Ab Fong room

Junior Achievement needs volunteers with work experience to lead elementary classroom activities. Time commitment is 1 hour per week for 4 weeks plus preparation time. Training and material provided Call Debi at 345-3990

Rape Survivors Group
Second and fourth Wednesday of every month, 5-6 pm, presented by the YWCA, no fee
Call 343-7025

BikeAid Pedal for Progress
Join cyclists from around the world this summer to bike to Washington, D.C., all cycling abilities welcome, applications are accepted on a first-come-first-serve basis and space is limited. Be a part of this community building experience for young adults!
Call 1-800-269-1326

Baptist Campus Ministries
Bible Studies, Fellowship, and Fun
Meetings, 7 pm, 2001 University, across from the Math/Geology building United Methodist Students invites you to our Weekly Spiritual Study Wednesday evenings at 5:30 pm, followed by Fellowship Dinner at 6 pm

Data Processing Management Association
Meetings held the first Tuesday of every month 3-4 pm in BS301
Call Evelyn McCaul at 362-0790

Share, Care, Encourage
Young Life 101. Sunday nights, 7-8 pm, presented by the SUB Boyington Room Meet new friends for Bible study and discussion. "Nobody Joins Young Life, You Just Show Up!"
Contact Tom, 377-5240

The ASBSU Senate meets every Tuesday and Thursday in the SUB’s Senate Forum
All meetings open to the public

AMAS
The Alternative Mobility Adventure Seekers provide recreation and adventure programs to people with disabilities
Meets the first Wednesday of every month at 7 pm, BSU Human Performance Center
Call Dave Lindsay at 385-5030

NONTRADITIONAL STUDENT SUPPORT GROUP
For anyone over 23 who is returning to their education after a long hiatus
Meeting each Wednesday, 3:45 in the Gipson Dining Room in the SUB
Call Dianna Longoria, 385-1583

Wilderness Areas Seek Volunteers for Conservation Work
1,100 expense-paid volunteer positions available nationwide in conservation, resource management, and environmental education through the Student Conservation Association
Applications for positions beginning Aug.-Sept. must be received by June 1
Call 603-543-1700

Goddess Tour of Greece
A BSU Study-Tour
June 1-13
Call Suzanne McCord, 385-3925, or Phoebe Lundy, 385-1985

The last word on the last page of the last issue of the 1992-93 Arbiter is... is?